CONGRESS SPLIT BY ROOSEVELT SHAKEUP PLANS

Many Criticize Low Saving Involved.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's special message transmitting a plan for a radical reorganization of the administrative branch of the government, with vast aggrandizement of the President's power, was received at the capitol today with mixed feelings.

The plan, which would bring many independent functions under the thumb of the President and would remove restraint obnoxious to the executive but would save only 30 million dollars, left the Democratic leaders divided.

Like the Republicans, who were generally critical, many Democratic leaders expressed disappointment that the project called for the abolition of no federal agencies and was calculated to effect no substantial economy. They also condemned the proposal to abolish the controler general's check on administrative expenditures and the proposal to replace the civil service commission with a civil service administrator responsible to the President.

The Democratic leaders prepared to create a special committee in each house to consider the proposed reorganization.

Highlights of Plan.

The reorganization plan, evolved by a committee consisting of Louis Brownlow, Prof. Charles E. Merriam, and Luther Gulick, proposes these major changes:

1. Creation of two new departments headed by cabinet members—a department of social welfare and a department of public works—and delegation to the President of authority to "overhaul the 100 independent agencies, administrations, authorities, boards, and commissions and place them by executive order" in the ten existing and two proposed additional departments.

2. Expansion of the White House staf, chiefly by the creation of six "assistants to the President," who would relieve him of much of the routine executive work and act as liaison officers between the President and the departments.

Abolishes Controler General.

3. Abolition of the office of controler general with his power to disallow administrative expenditures in advance as violative of law, and creation instead of an auditor general with power limited to reporting annually to congress illegal and wasteful expenditures by the executive branch. Current administrative audit would be transferred to the treasury department and related to the budget system "under guidance on legal matters by the attorney general."

4. Extension of the merit system to "cover practically all nonpolicy determining posts," replacement of the civil service commission by a civil service administrator with a "citizen board to serve as the watch dog of the merit system," and increase of salaries to key positions to attract superior ability to a career service.

5. Development of the "managerial agencies of the government," particularly the budget bureau and agencies engaged in efficiency research, personnel questions, and long range planning of the use of land, water, and other natural resources.

Says Waste Perils Government.

"In striving together to make our government more efficient," said the President in his message, "you and I are taking up in our generation the battle to preserve that freedom of self-government which our forefathers fought to establish and hand down to us. They struggled against tyranny, against nonrepresentative controls, against government by birth, wealth, or class, against sectionalism.

"Our struggle now is against confusion, against ineffectiveness, against waste, against inefficiency. This battle, too, must be won, unless it is to be said that in our generation national self-government broke down and was frittered away in bad management.

"Will it be said 'democracy was a great dream, but it could not do the job?' or shall we here and now, without further delay, make it our business to see that our American democracy is made efficient so that it

BOY'S CAP LEFT IN CAR SUPPLIES MATTSON CLEW

Ground Near Death Scene Combed.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Spurred by direct orders from President Roosevelt, an aroused army of man hunters tonight was on the trail of the depraved kidnap-slayer of 10 year old Charles Mattson, determined to "get the kidnaper at all costs."

Reinforced corps of federal agents and local police pressed an intense investigation into every sign of a clew that might help put a noose around the neck of the nation's new public enemy No. 1.

Spreading out from the spot, six miles from Everett, where the boy's battered and nude body was found by a young hunter yesterday, they scanned every square foot of the country in a three mile radius.

At Everett Sherif Walter Faulkner said reports that the young victim's clothing had been found in an abandoned auto there had proved groundless. The clothing, he said, belonged to the car owner's family.

The report that the identity of the kidnaper is known to authorities was unconfirmed in any official quarter.

Maniac Theory Supported.

Investigators were determined, however, to track down every clew and report, regardless of how remote they might seem, in their relentless hunt for the wanton slayer who refused every effort of Dr. W. W. Mattson, prominent Tacoma physician, to ransom his son for the $28,000 demanded.

While federal agents scrutinized evidence they gathered in an autopsy, police broadcast orders for the arrest of suspicious fugitives, paroled inmates of insane asylums, and known morons.

Evidence disclosed by Coroner Otto H. Mittelstadt of Seattle, who examined the body before its return here, revived the theory, expressed at the outset, that a maniac or degenerate may have committed the crime.

State patrolmen said they were investigating two mysterious automobiles seen in the Everett area Sunday night, when the boy's body was believed to have been dumped in the snow several hundred feet from the Pacific highway.

Casts Made of Prints.

Tire tracks of the other machine, seen near a shack about three miles from where the body was found, also were being compared with those found near the body.

The federal bureau of investigation used its moulage process to make casts of the tire tracks and also of the footprints of the lone person who walked from the car to the place where the body was found, and back.

Snohomish county authorities preserved these footprints until federal officers could arrive with their talcum powder cans and plaster of paris paste. They knew that each individual tire track and footprint has peculiarities of wear and marks which can be detected by this development in criminology.

The agents sprinkled the prints with talcum powder to insulate the frozen snow from being melted by the paste and then poured on the plaster of paris, reinforcing the thin layer with bits of wire to serve as handholds for lifting the cooled cast.

When the job was completed they knew the size and the shape of the foot of the person who dumped the body in the brush and the marked peculiarities of his automobile tires.

Previous Clews Pursued.

Although the federal agents were in charge of the case, state and local officers continued their independent searches. Local officers at Tacoma, Olympia, Everett, Seattle, and other Washington cities were known to be following clews they have previously permitted to remain uninvestigated for fear their actions would cause the kidnaper to kill his victim.

Seattle police broadcast an order to officers to watch for a stolen blue sedan which they said was to be investigated in connection with the kidnaping. Officers were warned to use extreme caution in stopping the

PEOPLE 'SLEEP TOO MUCH,' REED SMOOT LAMENTS AT AGE 76

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Reed Smoot, who spent 30 years in the United States senate before retiring to devote himself to his church, launched into his seventy-sixth year of vigorous life today with a lament that people "sleep too much."

"There are many who work but 40 hours a week and sleep eight or nine hours a day," the former senate dean said. "That is a deplorable waste of a most precious resource—time.

"A person in perfect health can work ten, twelve, and even fourteen hours a day, and thrive on not more than six hours of sleep."

Smoot, who observed his 75th birthday last Sunday, for most of his life has exercised the principles of "plenty of work and not too much sleep." During a long period as chairman of the senate finance committee he often worked as many as twenty out of the 24 hours, he said.

A DIVORCE SUIT GETS STUCK ON A RARE STAMP

For a moment yesterday it looked as if the long contemplated divorce of Maximillian Rueger and Amanda F. Rueger might not go through before Judge Donald S. McKinlay of the Superior court, the sixth judge to hear their domestic troubles. A stamp was the obstacle.

After extended hearings last November Master in Chancery Fred Bernstein arranged a property settlement. Among other things Rueger was to receive from their home at 4555 North Harding avenue his two stamp books and an old violin.

All the property was accounted for yesterday, he told Judge McKinlay except his prize, a stamp from St. Lucia, a lost island in the ocean. Confronted with this dilemma, Judge McKinlay said he would award Mrs. Rueger her divorce tomorrow—and Rueger can sue for his stamp.

Effingham, Ill., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Glenn Brown warned her mother, Mrs. Jane Pedalupe, 75, to stay indoors today, fearing she would fall on the ice coated streets. Mrs. Pedalupe slipped on a rug in the house and broke a leg below the hip.

Hitler Bishop Alters Gospel; Moses Left Out

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—References to Moses are largely eliminated from the gospel of St. John in the new Nazified version sponsored by Bishop Heinz Weidemann of Bremen, it was learned today. Bishop Weidemann is one of the German Christian leaders who founded the League for German Christianity at Warburg last November.

Judea in the new version is "Jewland," Jewish "manna" is referred to as "marvelous food," and the word "God" is generally used instead of "My Father."

Entire Chapter Eliminated.

There are many omissions, including the whole final chapter, No. 21.

The wording has been altered to convey the belief that Jesus Christ held Old Testament stories in contempt. Thus Verses 31 and 32 of Chapter 6 now read: "The Bible also reports that bread fell from heaven for our ancestors in the desert. Jesus replied: 'I tell you the truth; these old stories to which you ever refer do not help you. My Father alone gives you true divine bread.'"

[In the King James version of the Bible these verses read: "Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat. Then Jesus said unto them, 'Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.'"]

Contend World Is Sacred.

Every passage in which Jesus declares that his disciples or his kingdom are not of this world is changed in agreement with the German Christian view that the world is sacred. Bishop Wiedemann's version of Verse 19, Chapter 15, reads:

"If you were of their kind they would love you as their like. However, you are not like them, since I freely chose you to follow me. Hence, people hate you."

[This verse reads, in the King James version of the Bible: "If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you."]

Again, Verse 36, Chapter 18, is changed to: "As to its origin and essence, my kingdom is no visible earthly kingdom."

[The King James version of this verse is: "Jesus answered, 'My kingdom is not of this world: if My kingdom were of this world, then would My servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is My kingdom not from hence.'"]

As an example of the anti-Semitic tendency in the Nazi version the phrase "then said the Jews," in Verse 20, Chapter 2, is translated: "The Jews jeered and said . . ."

[The King James version of this verse is: "Then said the Jews, forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?"]

IF WINTER COMES—HIBERNATING ARTHUR CAN GO BACK TO BED

Watertown, Wis., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Wisconsin's changeable weather this winter has upset the annual hibernation of Arthur [Turkey] Gehrke, the rotund tavern keeper who has spent a score of cold seasons in bed.

Turkey turned in last fall for what associates believed was his usual marathon snooze, but last Sunday he was up again tending bar. During a mild spell a week ago he was seen about his tavern, apparently waiting for winter to get down to serious business. Tavern attendants said they did not know whether he was in bed or what he was doing—but assumed he was in his apartment upstairs.

Last year Turkey was forced to end his hibernation earlier than usual by the death of his wife, Grace.

DEAF AND MUTE LOVERS WALK 10 MILES TO ALTAR

Whitesburg, Ky., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The marriage ceremony record of the Rev. J. W. Edwards, Boyle county, who has married nearly 5,000 couples, reached a climax today when he was invited to officiate in a most eccentric wedding—that of two deaf mute persons who walked nearly ten miles to have the ceremony performed. They were James Plummer and Allie Burden, graduates of the Kentucky School of the Deaf at Danville. When parents laid down the word—that they should not marry—the determined pair walked away, went over a circuitous route, to evade parents, to the home of the Rev. Mr. Edwards.

Airliner Hits Hill; Chicago Man Injured

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—One passenger was killed and ten of the twelve other persons aboard were injured, several seriously, today as a big airliner feeling its way through thick weather plunged into rugged foothills north of here.

Dr. E. S. Bennett, rescue physician who identified the dead man as James A. Braden, president of the Braden-Sutphin Ink company of Cleveland, O., said Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, famed big game hunters and movie producers, were among the more seriously injured. Each had a fractured leg and Mrs. Johnson was unconscious.

The physicians said injuries to others ranged from fractured skulls to minor bruises.

Crashes Without Warning.

The crash came without warning, at least in the passenger compartment. Stewardess Esther Jo Conner of Glendale, said there was no inkling of trouble and "we were talking about ham and eggs" as the ship flew toward its goal "on the instruments."

Her remarks agreed with the report of Arthur S. Robinson of Rochester, N. Y., first survivor brought out, that "we were joking with the stewardess and had no warning of the crash."

The Western Air express skyliner from Salt Lake City was within 10 miles of its port at Union Air terminal, Burbank, when disaster overtook it. It pancaked into a hillside so near to aid that the cries of the injured brought rescue parties direct from a sanitarium where they were heard, but the elements that contributed to the crash also hampered rescue work and communications.

List of Those Injured.

Injuries as announced by Western Air Express officials were:

MARTIN JOHNSON, New York, fractured leg.

MRS. MARTIN JOHNSON, New York, fractured leg.

E. E. SPENCER, president, Stromberg Electric company, Chicago, head injuries; in critical condition.

R. T. ANDERSON, who booked passage through an Atlantic City, N. J., traveling agency, fractured leg.

T. TILLINGHAST, Hartford, Conn., sales manager of Pratt & Whitney, airplane engine manufacturers, fractured ankle.

MISS LITA JAMES, Los Angeles, uninjured.

The more seriously injured were given emergency treatment at a fi[re] lookout station 100 yards from the scene of the crash. Among the seven taken there by the relief party from Olive View sanitarium were the stew-

LEWIS VOWS TO WAGE MOTORS WAR TO FINISH

Demands U. S. Quiz on Gen. Motors.

The Strike Front

Michigan infantry, cavalry, and field artillery begin arriving in Flint following bloody auto strike riots. Authorities prepare to evict strikers from Fisher Body plant, bringing added fear of new battle. Strikers boast that they can "hold the fort for a week." Details on page 2.

Nearly 3,000 strikers from Toledo, Cincinnati, and Akron, O., rush to Flint to back up their companions in the auto plants there as soon as they hear of warfare. Michigan police stop loaded cars, but allow them to proceed. Details on page 2.

From St. Louis comes word that union leaders predict a strike in the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants there likely will be called today.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—With tacit backing of the administration, John L. Lewis, head of Committee for Industrial Organization attempting to unionize the automobile industry, vowed tonight that the paralyzing and sanguinary strike of the General Motors plants would be fought to the finish.

JOHN L. LEWIS. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Lewis demanded a congressional investigation of General Motors, its officers, their salaries, its alleged strikebreaking activities, and a somewhat vague "foreign influence" in the operation of the great corporation. This was the strategy decided upon at an all-day conference with Homer Martin, president of the CIO controled union, the United Automobile Workers of America, and other Lewis aids. Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady participated.

Says Troops Aid Strikers.

The calling out of state troops by Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan was for the aid of the strikers, Lewis declared. Gov. Murphy had pledged that the "sit-down" strikers in the factories would be furnished with food, water, and heat through the relief organization. Strikers would not be molested by the militia, Lewis asserted.

Lewis inveighed in thunderous tones against Chief of Police Wills of Flint, Mich., and others who had taken part in the shooting last night which resulted in injuries to 27 persons.

"The state forces will not be used to evacuate the General Motors plants," shouted Lewis. "The stay-in strikers will be protected from assault by the Flint police force, agents of the corporation, vigilantes or strike-breaking associations. General Motors is spending great sums of money to organize citizens, public officials and individuals who have not yet joined the union, and inciting them to violence."

Gets Assurance by Phone.

Assurances that the troops dispatched to the strike area would not molest his men were furnished by long distance telephone during the day, Lewis declared. Two representatives of Gov. Murphy, whom Lewis refused to name, had given him the promises, he said.

Asked why he did not use the machinery of the National Labor Relations board to force an election, Lewis declared that any such an attempt would be futile because an injunction would be obtained from a judge controled by General Motors.

Lewis cited three cases, two in Detroit and one in St. Louis, filed against General Motors which retaliated successfully with restraining orders in the courts. The cases, however, were old ones begun before the current strike was called. The last case was filed Nov. 13.

Questions Anger Him.

Questions as to whether new actions had been postponed because of fear that an election would show they did not have a majority of the workers served only to infuriate Lewis.

"We've got a majority," he claimed. "Employés are coming in by the thousands every day, so that clerical work is a terrible problem. The idea of the strike was to stop production and production is stopped. The strike will continue to expand."

SOLDIERS IN FLINT

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flint, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—As the first detachments of Michigan National Guard troops arrived here tonight city officials took steps to evict strikers from the Fisher Body plant No. 2 where last night's bloody riot took place.

Warants were issued by Municipal Judges Edwin D. Mallory and Frank W. Cain calling for the arrest of all the sit-downers still inside the plant on charges of "kidnaping, vicious destruction of property while rioting, felonious assault, and criminal syndicalism.

Sherif Thomas W. Wolcott, himself a victim of last night's warfare, said he would serve the warants within the next day or two. He said he would not act tonight. The complaints were signed by Ray Martin, lieutenant of Flint detectives. County Prosecutor Joseph R. Joseph approved the issuance of the warants.

2,000 Troops Mobilized.

Two thousand state troops were mobilized during the day and night following last night's wild battle. Under the city's calm today there was apprehension as to what the next few days might bring.

Last night's riots brought injury to 27 strikers, police, and spectators. Thirteen suffered gunshot wounds. One of these, Earl De Long, was in serious condition with an abdominal wound. Two were victims of the gas poured by police into the Fisher plant. The others, including eight policemen and Sherif Wolcott, mostly were injured about the head. Deputy Sherif Clark Thompson was shot in the knee.

The head injuries were inflicted by milk bottles, chunks of metal and hinges for automobile doors hurled by the strikers from the windows and roof. Sherif Wolcott was struck by a hinge as he crawled from his automobile, overturned by strikers.

Strikers Boast of Victory.

After their victory of last night the strikers asserted today "we could hold this fort for a week." They said no equipment within the plant was damaged during the fighting, and denied reports that tools and dies had been thrown from windows.

Gov. Murphy, before returning to Lansing, ordered the 126th infantry mobilized. He did not declare martial law, but said the soldiery and state police would be held in readiness for any action needed. Tonight he ordered the 106th cavalry and the 119th field artillery mobilized and sent to Flint.

"No matter what else happens," said Gov. Murphy, "there is going to be law and order in Michigan. The public interest and public safety are paramount. The public authority in Michigan is stronger than either of the parties in the present controversy."

Murphy Acts for Peace.

The governor said at Lansing tonight that he has asked "responsible representatives" of General Motors and the union to meet with him to attempt to settle the strike.

He sent identical letters to William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, and Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, asking them to be represented at a meeting with him in the state capitol at Lansing Thursday morning.

His letter said:

"For the purpose of conferring without condition or prejudice in an endeavor to find a basis for an agreement, tentative or otherwise, that will avoid possible further disorder and permit an early resumption of work by the many industrial plants now idle and because of the unfortunate situation at Flint, I am requesting that you meet with me."

Strikers Demonstrate.

The strikers during the afternoon held a demonstration at the scene of last night's battle, addressed by organizers from a sound car. The Flint alliance continued its work of enrolling anti-strike sentiment. From Toledo, Akron, and other outside cities strikers were reported coming in as reinforcements.

No attempt was made to interfere with the food supplies of the strikers today. This was one issue that precipitated last night's bloody mêlée.

Eleven strikers or strike sympathizers were under police guard in Hurley hospital where they were treated for injuries. Two others were discharged into police custody.

City police, eight of whom were injured in last night's battles, made no effort to interfere with today's meetings.

Union Accuses G. M. C.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—General Motors headquarters here refused today to make any comment on the riots at the Fisher Body No. 2 plant in Flint last night. Statements from union headquarters, accusing the company and the Flint police of inciting the riots, were issued as rapidly as they could be prepared.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, remained in his office until 6 o'clock this morning receiving reports from Flint. He went out for breakfast and an hour's sleep and returned again at 8. Officials hurried in and out of his office all day, but he refused to make any comment on the situation.

A statement telephoned here from Washington by Homer Martin, international president of the United Automobile Workers, accused the company of provoking the trouble at Flint "for the purpose of dispossessing the sit-down strikers by violent means."

"On Sunday before the attack on the strikers was put into effect, I personally had information from a reliable source that professional thugs were being shipped from Decatur, Ill., to serve in Flint on Monday morning," the statement continued. "I immediately informed Gov. Murphy of this, and protested against the importation of strikebreakers across state lines.

"The evidence from Flint would indicate that these gentry got into action on the evening of the same day they arrived."

The rioting was blamed on strikers in a written statement issued tonight in Detroit by Knudsen.

"The trouble started when an outside organizer with a sound truck incited the pickets outside and induced them to storm the gates and to imprison the plant police," the statement said.

Knudsen denied claims of the union that strikers had been prevented by company police from passing food to the men inside.

"We are not going to attempt to shut off heat, light, and water—we never intended to," Knudsen declared. "We are not going to encourage violence because we do not believe that labor disputes can be helped by violence. We believe everything we can do to prevent it will tend to foster better understanding when finally our mutual troubles are over and behind us."

He also denied that the company had "imported" any guards from cities other than Flint. He said "the only imported men in Flint today are found in the ranks of the union."

Fleetwood Shut Down.

The Fleetwood division of the Fisher Body company, manufacturing bodies for Cadillac, was shut down this morning by a sit-down strike. Walter Reuther, president of the local union, said that the sit-down was ordered as a sympathy gesture to the strikers in Flint.

Trouble expected at the Cadillac plant, closed for a week by a sit-down strike, did not develop. At 6 o'clock shivering pickets formed circles in front of the plant entrance, but no attempts to enter the plant were made by non-strikers. Company police made no objection when union men carried food in to the various divisions of the plant.

BURNED BY GAS FIRE.

Joseph Huska, 32 years old, 5119 George street, was seriously burned on the arms and face last night when he tried to turn off a gas meter which burst into flames in the plant of the Uaragon Die Casting company, 2701 North Pulaski road. He was taken to the Belmont hospital.

Thousands of Ohio Strikers Rush to Join Flint Rioters

Toledo, O., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—More than 2,000 Toledoans, members of local United Automobile Workers' union, left today for Flint, Mich., where a riot occurred last night in which three striking employés of the Chevrolet Ohio company here were injured.

Kenneth Cole, financial secretary of local 14, U. A. W. A., said it was expected 2,500 Toledoans would be in Flint before nightfall. Others planned to leave tonight. Michigan state police early today stopped Toledo cars en route to Flint eight miles south of Monroe, Mich., and questioned the drivers. They were permitted to continue, however.

More than 125 Cincinnati sympathizers passed through Toledo this morning and more from Akron were to go through the city during the day, Cole said. As soon as word was received of the riot, Cole began mobilizing the Toledo union members to go to Flint.

One in Serious Condition.

The three wounded Toledoans are William Lightcap, Fred Moore, and Lee J. Montell. Lightcap was shot twice in the back and Montell in the head. The latter is in a critical condition in a Flint hospital.

A headquarters for the Toledo unionists has been established in Flint in charge of Joseph Ditzel of Toledo. About 250 Toledoans have been in Flint since the strike was called there. Some of them are members of the Federation of Flat Glass Workers which called the strike of 14,000 glass workers in the plants of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, Pittsburgh, and the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company plants in Toledo, Ottawa, Ill.; Shreveport, La., and Charleston, W. Va.

Toledo Police Stand Aside.

Toledo police kept a close eye on strikers leaving or passing through this city but made no attempt to stop the cars.

There was no disorder at the Chevrolet plant here today. Heat was low in the building and the sit-down strikers wore overcoats and stamped their feet to keep warm. Company officials said no attempt would be made to put them out and that inasmuch as the men were conducting themselves properly the heat would not be turned off.

Robert Travis, director and general organizer for the United Automobile Workers' union in the Flint area, told Toledo men he had demanded of Gov. Frank Murphy the ousting of Police Chief James Wills of Flint. He said that he told Gov. Murphy that should Earl Delong die, he will prefer first degree murder charges against Wills. Delong was shot in the head.

He said he had reason to believe that Wills and a group of Flint business and professional men met yesterday and planned the incident resulting in the riot. He said that 25 policemen equipped with gas masks appeared at the plant a few minutes before the trouble began.

Minimum proposals were submitted by officials of Libbey-Owens-Ford and the union today to Ralph A. Lind, federal mediator, who is attempting to settle the four weeks strike.

The company and union will begin direct negotiations tomorrow under the direction of Lind. Glen W. McCabe, international president of the union, is in Toledo for the conference.

Settlement of this strike, observers believe, will go a long way to settling the 11 weeks' strike at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and ease the General Motors situation.

Fear Trouble at Anderson.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Representatives of striking workers at Anderson, subsidiary plants of General Motors, told Gov. M. C. Townsend this afternoon they feared violence might occur any time.

They came here after 100 men were sworn in at Anderson as special police. They told Townsend of a conference with Mayor Harry Baldwin in which he admitted deputies are awaiting call to action. Rinaldo Cappellini, representative of the Committee for Industrial Organization, charged General Motors has fifty "under cover" agents in Anderson checking activities of strikers.

7 RADIO 'HILLBILLY' TROUPERS RESCUED FROM SNOWBOUND BUS

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—One party of seven radio entertainers was rescued and another group of five snowbound persons virtually was given up for dead today as winter's most destructive onslaught abated in the south and west after causing over 15 million dollars' damage.

Searchers found the seven lost members of a hillbilly troupe in a snowbound bus 20 miles north of St. Johns, Ariz., where they had spent the night after losing their way.

The entertainers, six young men and a woman, originally from Beverly Hills, Cal., admitted they were "pretty scared" and kept up their spirits by running through their hillbilly répertoire and listening to the radio with which the bus was equipped.

The others sought were five motorists caught by last week's blizzard in their car 120 miles from Las Vegas, Nev. An aerial party sighted the stranded and partly overturned automobile, half buried in snow, but saw no signs of life.

PLANE CRASHES IN HILLS; 1 DIES; 10 ARE INJURED

Martin Johnsons, Noted Explorers, Hurt.

A difficult task faced those who went to the scene to bring the injured out to hospitals. The road nearest to the Ranger station is passable only to horses and wagons.

Drawn by a six mule team, a flat wagon started to the station with a party under direction of Capt. Claude Morgan of the sherif's aero squadron. Ed Juarig, champion cattle roper, drove. They believed the task of bringing out the victims would be an all night job. More sno wwas forecast before morning.

Johnson and two other passengers apparently less seriously injured were left aboard the plane temporarily. Pilot William W. Lewis, also reported as suffering from a fractured leg, insisted on staying with that group until the other seven had been treated. The ship was left almost intact, although one motor broke loose and rolled down the hill.

Robinson related a vivid story of the wreck. He said the passengers had no warning anything was wrong until the plane suddenly began to drop.

"We were riding along very smoothly until the plane began to fall," he said. "We dropped and dropped. Then there was a crash.

"My seat belt kept me in my seat. I didn't lose consciousness, but my leg and side hurt. I managed to get to my feet and crawl out.

"I guess I was about the only one that wasn't knocked unconscious, at least. I saw Mr. and Mrs. Johnson sprawled in their seats. They were unconscious, I know.

"I felt pretty dizzy when I got outside the plane. I don't remember who was next to get out, but I recall other passengers stirring around."

Messages Tell of Ship's Plight.

It was not until about 1 p. m., two hours and a quarter after the plane was due here, that the distressed ship was heard near the sanitarium.

The story of the transport's plight during part of that time and shortly before it was due to land was told in an exchange of radio messages between the plane and the union air terminal.

At 9:55 a. m., fifty minutes before it was due, came a message from the pilot saying he was flying at 6,000 feet on course with a ceiling of 7,500 feet. At 10:15 the pilot reported "weather flyable."

Last Word from Ship.

Ten minutes later the terminal control station gave the pilot the "O. K." and instructed him to proceed on the "Saugus beam," referring to the radio directional finder.

At 10:40, five minutes before it was scheduled to arrive here, the pilot reported the plane was over Palmdale at 7,000 feet altitude and that there were "broken clouds and sunshine."

The last word from the ship was received at 11:05 a. m. The pilot said then he was "coming down to localizer at field," referring to the directional radio beam of the field which is picked up in preparations for landing.

This last message indicated the pilot was starting his descent to the airport at the time he was over Newhall.

His route was the northern pass taken by Western Air Express planes, from Palmdale on the Mojave desert through the Mint canyon region to Newhall or Saugus, from which area planes both from San Francisco and Salt Lake City pick up the radio beam into the field.

Johnson, a native of Rockford, Ill., and his wife, the former Osa Leighty of Chanute, Kas., had smilingly agreed yesterday at Salt Lake City they preferred a jungle to civilization for safety.

"The jungles are really safe when you know how to get along in them," said the 52 year old Johnson. "America, probably because it is the most civilized place in the world, is the most dangerous. Why, I almost got killed by a taxi this morning."

Mrs. Johnson echoed his sentiments.

"Why, I actually feel uneasy when I'm away from the jungles," she said. "I'll be glad when we can get back to them."

CHICAGOAN INJURED.

A Chicagoan and a former Chicago attorney on a business trip together were companions aboard the airliner which crashed near San Fernando, Cal., yesterday. The Chicagoan is Earl Elwen Spencer, 48 years old, president of the Stromberg Electric company, 223 West Erie street. He suffered head injuries that may be serious. With him was Herbert H. Hulse, 32 years old, now a resident of La Salle, Ill., where he is attorney for the Western Clock company, which is associated with the Chicago concern. Hulse was unhurt. They were on their way to the Los Angeles branch office of the Stromberg company.

Mr. Spencer lives at 20 Cedar street with his wife, the former Marion Pratt Richards, and two daughters, Mary Elizabeth and Barbara Louise, both students. Mr. Hulse is married and the father of a son 1 year old.

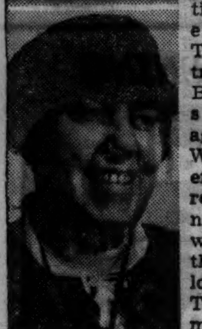
MEN JAM POND TRIAL TO HEAR ABOUT JOY RIDING

Organist and Parishioner Have Their Say.

Noses went unpowdered yesterday as witnesses testified that joy riding is a very questionable form of entertainment. This was at the trial of Thomas Bouchier's $50,000 slander suit against the Rev. Walter Shoemaker Pond. And the reason that the noses got shiny was that all of them but two belonged to men. There were so many men present that only the two women who got there early could find seats.



MISS MABEL OBERHART.

Joy riding was defined for the benefit of Judge Cornelius J. Harrington, in the Circuit court hearing, by a middle aged man and a middle aged woman.

They Frown Upon It.

Both of them said the joy riding was frowned upon by the public, anyway, and that when Dr. Pond accused Bouchier of joy riding with the most prominent widow of the St. Barnabas' Episcopal church parish, the rector meant rather dire things.

The woman who told what joy riding means was Miss Mabel Oberhart of 4033 West Washington boulevard, organist of the church for thirty years. She is one of those Bouchier says were "excommunicated" by Dr. Pond in the church service that brought the suit.

The man who defined joy riding was John E. Mollan of 4257 Gladys avenue, attorney and friend of Bouchier. Mollan, a slender man in a suit of dark blue was quite positive in his views when cross examined about joy riding by George Christensen, attorney for the rector.

O, No; No, Indeed!

Q.—You understand that many go riding for the air? And you know that this pleasant, aimless occupation of riding around with congenial friends is referred to as joy riding? A.—O, no sir.

Q. — You mean that joy riding means only one thing to you, mortal sin? A.—No sir.

"Then what does it mean?" Christensen asked.

Mollan thoughtfully placed his finger tips together.

Mollan was firm.

"No, sir," he said. "They cannot."

Christensen asked Mollan if he remembered calling at the rector's home and telling the rector's sister that the organist was "an old cow who ought to have been removed long ago."

Mollan said no, that he couldn't remember saying that.

Miss Oberhart's Story.

Miss Oberhart told with some pride that she had been organist for 30 years before all the trouble, but declined to tell her age. She told from memory the observations of Dr. Pond at the service on March 11, 1934, when he accused Bouchier, portly, bald church treasurer of joy riding with a widow identified by Bouchier and his witnesses as Mrs. Maude Lavery.

After Bouchier, Mrs. Lavery, and Miss Oberhart had been rebuked by the rector, Miss Oberhart said, she went back and asked Dr. Pond if he was talking about her. He said he was, she testified.

Miss Oberhart testified that the rector told her:

"You have been organist in this church for thirty years, and it is thirty years too long."

Miss Oberhart said she later attended the church's annual meeting, at which Dr. Pond referred to a public apology he had made to her and the others and said that he was forced by the bishop to make the apology.

Two other witnesses called by Bouchier's attorney, Ernest L. Duck, testified their belief in Bouchier hadn't been shaken by the rector's charges. The hearing will be resumed today.

COLORED PORTER HELD AS SLAYER OF N. Y. WOMAN

New York, Jan. 13 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—Two colored porters in the Jackson Heights Apartment building where Mrs. Mary Harriet Case, member of a prominent Lancaster, Pa., family, was murdered Monday were arrested early today.

Major Green, 33 years old, will be charged with the murder of Mrs. Case. The other, William Henry Johnson, will be held as an accessory, who helped dispose of a bloody shirt worn by the killer and attempted to sell a suit of clothes taken from the Case apartment.

The two, who had been questioned earlier in the day with other employés of the building in which Mrs. Case was strangled and beaten with a machinist's hammer before her body was discovered in a bathtub by her husband Monday, were brought to the Newtown police station in Queens at 2 a. m.

Pair Thrown Off Their Guard.

They had been allowed to depart earlier only because the police hoped that they would regard themselves as freed from suspicion and make some move that might be helpful in the murder investigation.

This expected move occurred when Johnson took a bloodstained shirt, the property of Green, to a Manhattan laundry and later attempted to sell a blue suit, the property of Mr. Case, which had been taken from the murdered woman's apartment, the police said. Two other men, to whom the offer of sale was said to have been made, also were brought to the police station, but their names were not made public immediately.

Green also was accused of having attempted to pawn the blue suit after Johnson had failed to dispose of it. How the two came to be associated in the attempted disposal of the clothing was not made clear. They had worked in the same part of the apartment house—the series of corner apartments known as the Bachelors' club.

Once Robber Suspect.

In addition, Green had been a suspect when the Case apartment was entered by robbers last summer, the police said. At that time he was cleared of suspicion.

Before the two prisoners were brought in the principal clews in the hands of the authorities had consisted of a cleaner's mark on a pair of brown trousers, the hammer with which Mrs. Case was beaten, and a lock of dark hair.

Examination of the hammer had revealed finger prints, but these could not be identified. The trousers were believed to have been discarded by the murderer because of bloodstains on them. They were found in the incinerator of the apartment building.

Among the various items taken out of the incinerator with the trousers, the police disclosed tonight were two keys which fit six of the door locks in the building.

BROADVIEW VIADUCT PLAN ADVANCES AT COMMISSION HEARING

The plan for construction of a grade separation in Roosevelt road over the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad in Broadview moved forward a step yesterday. The Illinois commerce commission took under advisement a petition of the state highway department for authority to build a viaduct over the tracks.

Kendrick Harger, state highway engineer in charge of the Chicago division, and other highway officials testified as to the necessity for a grade separation at that point. After the commission hearing, Mr. Harger said that when commission approval is obtained and certain other details are cleared up the highway department will advertise for bids on the project.

CALLS FOUR TOWN CONFERENCE ON SCHOOL STRIKE

Municipal and police officials of Berwyn, Lyons, and Stickney were invited by President George Stedronsky of Cicero yesterday to attend a meeting in the Cicero village hall at 4 p. m. today to discuss the strike now in progress at the J. Sterling Morton High School and Junior college. The high school, which serves all four towns, has remained open since the strike began on Jan. 4, although union drivers have refused to deliver coal.

JERRY SURPRISES EVERY ONE—AND SUCH A SURPRISE!

His Pastor Gets the Worst Jolt.

In the opinion of the Rev. Emery Goppschall, parish priest of Sts. Cyril and Methodius church at Joliet, Jerry Valek was a promising youth.

JERRY VALEK.

Jerry is 18 years old. Once he planned to study for the priesthood, but gave it up to care for his mother and his younger brothers and sisters whom he was sending to school. But he continued to be a church worker and he passed the collection plate every Sunday. Monday night Joseph Kaducak and his wife were held up by a youthful gunman wearing a mask in their grocery at 60½ Landau avenue a few blocks from Jerry's home at 445 Henderson avenue in Joliet.

At the robber's command Mrs. Kaducak emptied the till of $13. But her husband recognized the robber and called: "Come on back Jerry. Come on back and quit your kidding."

When Jerry did not come back, the grocer decided the jest was in earnest. Policemen found Jerry hiding in the parish hall of his church.

Chief of Police Nicholas J. Fornango started questioning Jerry yesterday morning. He was interested to know how the young man managed to buy a new automobile, pay his mother $15 a week, send his brothers and sisters through school, and journey frequently to Chicago.

At first Jerry maintained the grocery robbery was his first venture in crime. His money came from a job in a Chicago hotel, he said. Finally he confessed.

Since last May Jerry has been tapping the collection plate every Sunday, Chief Fornango declared. For a few hours during the police interrogation, Jerry clung to a total of $500 for his collection clipping. Last night he finally admitted $2,000, the police chief said.

"We're really short about $3,000," said Father Goppschall. "I never suspected Jerry. He seemed to be such a fine boy. I thought it might be a sneak thief, or perhaps an error in Jerry's arithmetic."

Jerry told Chief Fornango another usher also pilfered from the Sunday plate. Police arrested him. He is John Kubin, 21 years old, 410 Garnsey avenue, Joliet. Kubin admitted taking $300, but insisted he had reformed a few months ago.

CONGRESS SPLIT BY ROOSEVELT SHAKEUP PLANS

Many Critical of Small Saving Involved.

will do the job that is required of it by the events of our time?"

Commenting on the distribution of government functions among more than 100 agencies, Mr. Roosevelt said that "neither the President nor the congress can exercise effective supervision and direction over such a chaos of establishments, nor can overlapping, duplication, and contradictory policies be avoided."

The failure of the President to appoint a controler general to succeed J. R. McCarl, the first and only controler up to date, whose 15 year term expired last June, is illuminated by the project to abolish this office. With his veto on expenditures and his passion for hewing to the law, Mr. McCarl was a thorn in the side of every administration. This is Mr. Roosevelt's indictment of Mr. McCarl:

"The committee does not spare the comptroler general for his failure to give the congress a prompt and complete audit each year, to tally independent of administration, as a means of holding the executive truly to account; nor for his unconstitutional assumption of executive power; nor for the failure to keep the accounting system of the government up to date to serve as the basis of information, management and control."

McCarl Plans Reply.

Mr. McCarl said tonight he would reply to this charge tomorrow.

The President stressed the portion of the report in which "the committee criticizes the use of boards and commissions in administration, condemns the careless use of 'corporations' as governmental instrumentalities, and points out that the practice of creating independent regulatory commissions, who perform administrative work in addition to judical work, threatens to develop a 'fourth branch' of the government for which there is no sanction in the constitution."

"The presidency as established in the constitution of the United States," he said, "has all of the powers that are required. In spite of timid souls in 1787 who feared effective government, the presidency was established as a single strong chief executive office in which was vested the entire executive power of the national government, even as the legislative power was placed in the congress and the judical in the Supreme court.

"What I am placing before you is not the request for more power but for the tools of management and the authority to distribute the work so that the President can effectively discharge those powers which the constitution now places upon him. Unless we are prepared to abandon this important part of the constitution we must equip the presidency with authority commensurate with his responsibilities under the constitution."

Speaker Awaits Bill.

"The President's recommendations, of course, must be treated with every consideration," said Speaker William B. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.]. "I assume that committees will hold extensive hearings, draw their conclusions, and make their reports."

Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] said he would "like to work out some method of economy as well as efficiency."

"It does not appear that emergency federal agencies would be eliminated," said Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah]. "I would be inclined to oppose creation of two new cabinet posts and elimination of the controler general's office. I am against the civil service proposal."

Snell Criticizes Plan.

Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house, assailed the abolition of the civil service commission and the controler general and the general concentration of power in the executive.

"The intent of the framers of the constitution was," he said, "that as little as possible in the affairs of government would be intrusted to the federal government, and as much as possible would be done by state, county and other local governments.

"The first thing for congress to decide, in dealing with the President's message, is whether we are going to follow the framers of the constitution or change the whole original conception of the nation."

Vandenberg Likes Audit Plan.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] called the President's proposal of a post-audit to congress of administrative expenditures a "grand idea."

"We have an immediate opportunity," said the senator, "to apply effectively the President's philosophy to the stabilization fund. We are asked to continue a two billion dollar stabilization fund which nobody knows anything about, and this would be a fine time for the President to tell us something about it.

Byrd Wants Greater Savings.

Senator Harry F. Byrd [Dem., Va.], who initiated the move for reorganization with which Mr. Roosevelt fell in line during the presidential election campaign, said that hundreds of millions of dollars could be saved by a radical overhauling of the government and elimination and consolidation of agencies.

"I cannot agree," he said, "with the recommendation to increase cabinet salaries to $20,000 and subcabinet posts up to $15,000.

"In any comprehensive reorganization of government we must carefully preserve checks and balances as between the congress that appropriates and the executive heads that spend.

"A most important check is the independent audit of all expenditures by an official responsible to congress and this work has been very admirably performed, in my judgment, by the office of the controler general. The principle of an independent audit has been recognized for many years by congress. The controler general is appointed for a term of 15 years, and as stated in the law, 'is independent of the executive departments.'"

THE PRESIDENT'S REORGANIZERS

Democratic leaders in congress were disappointed and Republicans outright critical when President Roosevelt's plan for a shakeup of the administrative branch of the government arrived on Capitol hill yesterday. They were amazed when a study revealed the executive reaching for more power without saving any money. The plan was drafted by these three men, Luther Gulick (left), Louis Brownlow (center), and Prof. Charles E. Merriam. [Acme Photo.]

KILLS SELF WITH CHLOROFORM.

Anton Balaty, 56 years old, 4331 West Twenty-fifth place, yardmaster for the Edward Hines Lumber company, ended his life in the attic of his home late yesterday by inhaling chloroform. He had been despondent because of illness.

TERROR STRICKEN OVER TRUANCY, BOY SHOOTS SELF

Ralph Kiesow, 14 years old, played hooky from school yesterday. Early in the evening, while his mother and brother were searching for him, Ralph returned to their home at 2206 West 23d street. Afraid to face his parents' reproaches, he stole into the house and into a bedroom, where he found a rifle belonging to his brother, Edward Jr., 18 years old. A moment later the boy's father, who had been in the rear of the house, heard a shot. He ran into the bedroom and found his son on the floor. A bullet had entered his right temple. At the County hospital physicians said he had a chance to recover, but that he might be blind.

FIND SKELETONS OF 16 FLEEING VICTIMS IN RUINS OF POMPEII

POMPEII, Italy, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Skeletons of sixteen victims of the destruction of Pompeii in 79 A. D., were unearthed today, lying where apparently they fell while striving to flee the erupting volcano, Mount Vesuvius. Two of the skeletons were those of children. Personal possessions of the victims, strewn nearby, included two bags of gold, silver, and bronze coins; metal bracelets, and pins in a jewel casket.

The skeletons and trinkets were taken from a block of solidified lava within a few paces of the Pompeian amphitheater as excavators were seeking to unearth a clear outline of a great gymnasium and swimming pool which Pompeii is known to have possessed.

Among the coins found were 100 silver pieces of imperial Rome, 40 large, unidentified silver and bronze pieces and a number of gold coins of the period.

MOVE MILLIONS IN GOLD TO NEW TREASURE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Guarded more carefully than royal potentates, the first shipment of gold bullion, worth hundreds of millions of dollars, will be buried tomorrow morning in the treasury's new depository at Fort Knox, Ky.

Arriving at Fort Knox tomorrow morning, the train will unload its costly cargo at a spur track within the reservation for trucking from there to the depository.

STELLE TURNS OVER 'NEW LEAF' IN STATE SENATE

Rules Will Be Enforced, He Tells Members.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—State officers, inaugurated yesterday, took a fresh hold on the government of Illinois today. All save two—Lieut. Gov. John Stelle and Treasurer John C. Martin—are starting new terms in their old jobs.

Mr. Stelle, who is the presiding officer of the senate, summoned the Democratic and Republican leaders of the upper body of the legislature to his office and told them that the senate rules were to be enforced—in their entirety. He said that the gavel will fall at 10 a. m. sharp each meeting day and that he proposed to conduct a businesslike session.

Visitors to Be Denied Floor.

For years some visitors, state house employés, and friends of the senators have wandered on and off the floor almost as they pleased. That will be changed, the lieutenant governor told Senators George M. Maypole [Dem.] and Earl B. Searcy [Rep.]. Hereafter no person save constitutional officers, the secretary of the governor, and past presidents of the senate may be on the floor when sessions are being held, he said.

There is a rule, Mr. Stelle pointed out, which prohibits a senator from leaving his chair while another is addressing the body. That rule probably will be discarded.

Work on House Set-up.

Over in the house, Speaker Louie E. Lewis conferred with members over the makeup of the committees which he said he expected to announce when the general assembly reconvenes on Jan. 26. Last session there were 37 committees; one on public health will be added at this session.

The new committee will have important legislation before it because of the current drive on syphilis. Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state director of health, has announced that he will seek an appropriation of $300,000 annually with which to distribute arsenicles—syphilis medicine—to all physicians who wish them.

It also was reported that the speaker is inclined toward inclusion in the house rules of a provision entitling him to name a speaker pro tempore who would wield the gavel when Mr. Lewis is out of the chair. James P. Boyle of Chicago, chairman of the appropriations committee, might be a likely choice for the job.

SEVEN YEAR EXILE ENDS

Vincenzo Celli, ballerino, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vito Yaculla, in their home, 1900 Erie street, after he was officially admitted to United States by immigration authorities yesterday. Vincenzo, a former newsboy, went to Italy fifteen years ago to study dancing. For the last seven years he had been denied permission to re-establish his home in this country.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Aided by Hull House

Vincenzo Celli, dancer and former primo ballerino of the La Scala opera in Milan, Italy, yesterday returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vito Yaculla, 1900 Erie street, after being exiled for more than seven years by the United States immigration laws. Celli, who has been a star in various European ballets since 1923, plans to remain in the United States and probably will become a citizen.

He was brought to the United States when a year old, and spent his first sixteen years on Chicago's west and northwest sides. As little Jimmy Yaculla, a newsboy, he attracted attention of workers at the late Jane Addams' Hull house, when he appeared in amateur theatricals. A short time later he began dancing and made his debut with the Chimago Civic opera in 1920.

The following year he went to Milan to study under Cecchetti, teacher of Pavlowa, and immediately cago Civic opera in 1920.

When he returned to the United States for the first time he found that despite his fame, because his parents were not naturalized, he could stay in the country only as a visiting artist. Since that time he has sought to gain admittance, but not until last week were his efforts successful.

BUDGET BALANCE SCHEME KINDLES WRATH IN SENATE

Southern Members Rip Into Tydings Proposal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.] — The inalienable right of a member of congress to make a "damned fool" of himself whenever he pleases, particularly when it comes to voting bigger and better appropriations without regard to the government's revenue, was defended on the senate floor this afternoon when Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] proposed a scheme which automatically would maintain a balanced budget.

Such great appropriators as Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee and Tom Connally of Texas were outraged by the suggestion that restrictions be placed on their control of the purse strings.

It was Senator Connally who said the right of congress to "act as a 'damned fool'" was "one of the glories of democracy," but Republican senators listening to these horrified statesmen were most amused by Senator Barkley, the Democratic keynoter of 1932 and 1936.

Would Supplant Budget Law.

Senator Barkley said the proposal of the audacious senator from Maryland would "make an automaton" of every member of the senate. What the Republicans wondered was whether the senator had ever regarded himself as anything else.

Senator Tydings' resolution would supplement the existing budget law. The President would continue to submit a budget with recommendations for allocations to each department, commission, agency, bureau, etc. Congress could reduce the appropriation allocated to any department or agency, but if it increased any allocation the increase should be taken from some other allocation.

If it did not take the increase for any department or agency from some other allocation and the total appropriation for the session should exceed the President's estimate of revenue, then congress would have to provide for the deficiency in one of two ways. It could provide the extra money by additional taxation, or it could authorize the treasury to borrow the money. But if it authorized the treasury to borrow the money, additional taxes sufficient to amortize the indebtedness in 15 years would have to be provided.

Senator Tydings said his system had been tried with great success by Great Britain. Even before he concluded with his explanation, the southern Democrats, who traditionally vote for all appropriations and against all taxes, began interrupting him. Senator Barkley complained that the house would send over an omnibus appropriation bill which the senate would be required to "rubber stamp" or else make increases and then "suspend in midair" while the house was urged to initiate more taxes.

"In other words," Barkley said, "I am automatically barred from presenting an emergency matter for the consideration of the senate. It makes every senator an automaton."

Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.], chairman of the appropriations committee, said it looked as if "the senator wants congress to go into the budgetary business."

Connally Clinches Argument.

"I have a very high regard for the senator's conceptions of free government and constitutional processes, but I wish to suggest to him that the control of the purse goes right back to the beginning of parliamentary government.

"Whenever the senator makes it harder for congress to control appropriations, he is making it easier for other departments to run the government. The control of appropriations involves not simply their grant but their refusal, and I should be very reluctant to vote for any sort of a measure which would limit the absolute power of the congress to appropriate money for any purpose at any time it wants to."

THEFT LOSSES HERE CONTINUE TO DECLINE; RECORD DROP IN 1936

Further police gains in the Chicago war on crime are reflected in the annual report on property losses made to Police Commissioner James P. Allman yesterday.

The tabulation, prepared by Capt. William H. Killeen, head of the police bureau of criminal information and statistics, shows that thefts of money and merchandise were held to only $2,710,612 last year, a decrease of $1,338,826, about one-third less than the $4,049,438 figure in the previous year.

The 1936 drop is the sharpest in the six year period that ended last Dec. 31, during which such losses have shown a steady decrease.

Merchandise losses were $2,009,380 in 1936, a decrease of $790,302 from the previous year's total of $2,799,682. Money losses last year were $701,232, $548,524 below the 1935 total of $1,249,756.

Recoveries by the police of cash and merchandise previously stolen totaled $321,857 last year. Of this amount $246,594 represented merchandise and $75,263 was in cash. In 1935 $460,439 in money and goods was recovered and returned to its owners, of which $360,358 was in property and $100,081 cash.

Losses reported to police last year reached their peak in March, when $297,580 was taken. This compares with the high 1935 month of January, the loss for which was $420,843.

TWO CONFESS THEFT FOR WHICH ANOTHER MAN GOT 15 YEARS

Bloomfield, Ind., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—It seemed today that the alibi that failed him at his trial on charges of beating William Coleman, farmer, and stealing $800 might help to free Charles Schwibbe, now serving 15 years in state's prison. Coleman and a 10 year old grandson made the identification on which the conviction was based.

But today before Judge Raymond Powell, who sentenced Schwibbe, Ike Hall of Terre Haute, Ind., and Fonzo Web of Shelburn, confessed that they with Emery Beatty, also of Shelburn, Coleman's nephew, committed the robbery.

Beatty is in a reform school now on another charge. Judge Powell said he would present the facts disclosed in court today and ask Gov. Townsend to give a speedy pardon to Schwibbe.

VITAMIN D MILK WINS O. K. IN A REPORT TO MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Vitamin D milk was indorsed yesterday in a report of the council on foods of the American Medical association. The council also held that milk is "the only common food which will be considered for acceptance when fortified with vitamin D" at present, but it found that milk should contain three times as much of the vitamin as is now found in the usual commercial product. This is necessary for the best results in preventing rickets, according to the report which will be published in the journal of the association under date of Jan. 16.

Although milk containing 135 units to the quart usually will prevent rickets, this amount of the vitamin is rather close to the minimum requirements, the report stated.

An alternative to giving the vitamin in two or more forms, according to the council, is to feed the child milk containing 400 units of "D." Practically all producers of vitamin D milk in the country are arranging to make 400 unit milk available, said Dr. Morris Fishbein, chairman of the council.

60 MILLION THRONG TO CHICAGO BEACHES AND PARKS IN 1936

Chicago parks and beaches attracted 60,000,000 persons during 1936, an increase of 5,000,000 over the previous year, Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, said in his annual report yesterday. During the year 110 miles of park streets and boulevards were resurfaced with the aid of Works Progress administration labor, the report showed.

Trafic accidents decreased from 8,004 in 1935 to 7.471 in 1936. Fatal accidents, however, increased from 75 to 86, or more than 14 per cent over the previous year. According to a survey made from March to September, 1936, by Otto K. Jelinek, park trafic engineer, the safest stretch of park controled pavement is Lake Shore drive between Irving Park boulevard and Foster avenue.

There were fifty-six accidents in that area during the period, or one for each 515,562 miles driven. The most dangerous section under park control is South Parkway between 36th and 50th streets, where there were 373 accidents, or one for every 41,784 miles driven.

JURY SELECTED TO TRY HUSBAND IN RIVAL'S DEATH

Selection of a jury to try Harry Obinger, 36 years old, charged with the slaying of Policeman Martin Condon in a quarrel over the affections of Obinger's wife, Tillie, 28 years old, was completed yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Benjamin Epstein. The state did not try to qualify the jury for the death penalty.

Policeman Condon was killed in the vestibule of his home at 5301 Kimbark avenue on Nov. 23. Obinger, who lives at 1647 East 47th place, told the police that the shooting occurred following trouble over the attentions Condon paid to Obinger's wife. He indicated that he would plead self-defense.

At the time of the shooting Mrs. Obinger was estranged from her husband, but she subsequently withdrew a divorce action and announced that she would stand by her husband. She was in court yesterday. The trial will get under way before Judge Epstein this morning.

HEAD-COLD SUFFERERS REPORT MUCH QUICKER RELIEF FROM REL HEAD-COLD JELLY

A HEAD-COLD isn't the most serious thing in the world—but my, how miserable it can make you feel!

Well, the makers of REM have perfected something for the relief of head-colds that has started a rush of enthusiastic praise. It's called REL Head-cold Jelly.

REL born of 137 different experiments

REL is the result of months and months of research and experiments. Distinguished physicians, pharmacists, chemists and pharmacologists were consulted. Clinical tests were conducted on actual cases under careful medical supervision. Not until then was REL offered for sale.

Make this One-Side Nose Test

Put a little REL Head-cold Jelly up just one side of your nose. Wait a few seconds—and see what happens. First you'll note a delightful, refreshing "pine woods" odor. Then you'll feel that side of the nostril open—clearly—all the way up. That "stuffed up" feeling is gone! You breathe freely and naturally again! And the other side—what a difference!

Now a 30c size too

Chamberlin Sees Lesson in Butler, the Robber.

In the case of Kenneth Butler, to whom a parole from prison last June was merely an opportunity to reëngage in his business of robbery, Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin of the Chicago crime commission saw yesterday the answer to the question, "What's the matter with the parole system?"

While Gov. Horner was upholding his parole board on Monday in his inaugural address, Butler was confessing twenty robberies, one a week since his parole. And at the detective bureau yesterday Butler, who is 29 years old, was explaining:

"It's impossible for a man to go straight after five or six years in the penitentiary."

How a Crime Career Starts.

"I went to the Marshall High school for two years, taking a business course. Afterwards I went to work in a bank and then in the advertising office of a loop store. In 1927 [when he was 19] my wife became ill and needed an operation. I didn't have any money for it so one night I got the money in a robbery.

"It seemed easy but when I tried it again I was caught and taken to court. Because I didn't have a record the robbery charge was changed to larceny and I was put on probation.

"In 1931 I was caught again and sentenced to 1 to 10 years for larceny. [Col. Chamberlin said he was indicted on four robbery charges but was allowed to plead guilty to larceny.] After I was sentenced my wife divorced me and my mother died.

Good Jobs Out of Reach.

"In order to get out on parole I had to have a job so I took one in a boiler factory at $7 a week. A short time after I got out I met my present wife, Esther Doyle. I couldn't marry her on $7 a week so I tried to get a better job but my record was against me, so I started out on the 'heist' again."

Col. Chamberlin said that after Butler's conviction the crime commission sent a letter to the parole board, citing the previous probation granted Butler and giving the record of his four gun robberies. Butler was kept in prison 5½ years.

His parole sponsor was the Rev. V. P. Scheltinga, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows church, 3121 West Jackson boulevard. Yesterday it was learned that several months ago Father Scheltinga was transferred to Detroit.

Job at $22 a Week Promised.

The parole board's records showed that what Butler called a "$7 a week job" was with Barney V. Cruise, head of a boiler repair company at 4918 West Madison street, who had agreed to give Butler work paying 55 cents an hour for an eight hour day and a five day week.

At the office of the superintendent of supervision of parolees it was said there was no record to show that Butler actually went to work for Mr. Cruise. Mr. Cruise was out yesterday and could not be reached for an explanation of his position in the matter.

A parole agent reported calling at Butler's home on June 21 and being told by Butler's sister that her brother was working and behaving himself. It appeared that Butler made three reports at the parole office, the last on Sept. 5, 1936.

He did not obtain permission to marry, although parole requires such permission. Butler was married on Sept. 3 in the city hall, by a judge, he said.

Easily Found When Identified.

After Sept. 14 the parole records show he was listed as having disappeared and a warant for his arrest as a violator was issued on Sept. 14. Police had no difficulty in finding him at his home at 3023 Washington boulevard on Monday when his picture was identified by one of his robbery victims.

Last night at the detective bureau showup Butler was identified as a robber by eight managers of small grocery, clothing, and delicatessen stores. Their reports showed he obtained a total of $290 in holdups of their places since Nov. 20.

County Police Get New Equipment

First Aid Service

Sherif John Toman accepted delivery yesterday of three new combination squad and ambulance cars which have been purchased by the county for the county highway police. Three automobiles of this type were put in service last year. A first aid squad from the Homewood station demonstrated how the car can be converted into an ambulance in thirty seconds. Police Commissioner James P. Allman, who viewed the new vehicles, praised their performance, but said they were not needed by city police.

DOOMED TO DIE TOMORROW; SEEK RAPPAPORT STAY

Facts Hidden in Trial, Attorney Charges.

Attorney W. W. Smith rushed to Springfield yesterday to ask Gov. Horner to delay for a third time the execution of Joseph Rappaport. His client, a convicted slayer, is to die shortly after midnight tomorrow night for the murder on Oct. 8, 1935, of Max Dent, a government informer.

Attorney Smith departed after Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in the Criminal court refused to act on a series of affidavits purporting to show that the state wilfully suppressed evidence in the trial of Rappaport and that there was a conspiracy to misrepresent the facts in the case.

On the basis of the affidavits which Attorney Smith offered he charged that Mrs. Annie Dent, mother of the victim, did not see the crime, though on the stand she identified Rappaport as the slayer of her son.

Alleges Police Coaching.

Moreover, according to Smith, Clarence Stackowiak, 14 years old, 1857 South Lawndale avenue, who testified he saw Mrs. Dent at the scene, was coached by police officials. In support of this contention Smith introduced a letter written by Mrs. Eleanor Stackowiak, mother of the boy, which said that her son had unwittingly been led to testify falsely.

Judge McKinley told the attorney that he could not act in the case since the Supreme court has already affirmed the conviction.

"However," the court added, "I will be glad to coöperate by ordering these additional facts submitted to the Supreme court if a stay is granted until the court reconvenes in February. Such action would also permit the court to decide whether a lower court has the right of review if additional evidence might seem to justify such action, as in the present case."

Toth Slayers Plead Not Guilty.

Stanley Marowski, 37 years old, and Frank [Doc] Whyte, 47 years old, parolees, pleaded not guilty yesterday when they were arraigned before Chief Justice McKinley on charges of having murdered Policeman Michael Toth. Judge McKinley assigned the case to Judge John Prystalski, who fixed Feb. 15 as the trial date.

Neither Marowski nor Whyte was represented by an attorney, and the public defender was appointed as their counsel. They offered "not guilty" pleas despite the fact that they had confessed to the police that they shot and killed Policeman Toth.

Ann Arbor Policeman's Wife Gets Life as Killer

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Betty Baker, 30, wife of an Ann Arbor policeman, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Detroit house of correction today as the slayer of Clarence Schneider, June 29. In Judge George W. Sample's court the verdict was reached on the seventh ballot in less than two hours.

ASKS TO GO OUT; ARM IS TWISTED; WINS A DIVORCE

Mrs. Doris Carr of the Lake Shore Athletic club told Judge John C. Lewe of the Superior court yesterday that her husband Charles twisted her arm on New Year's eve when she suggested that they go out to a party. Last Dec. 12, she said, he struck her in a dispute over buying Christmas presents. On this testimony of cruelty Judge Lewe granted Mrs. Carr a divorce. Edward R. Finnegan, counsel for Mr. Carr, said his client had agreed to pay her $125 a month alimony. Mr. Carr is sales manager for the Sanborn Map company, 676 St. Clair street. Attorney Samuel A. Rinella represented Mrs. Carr.

MOTORIST JAILED FOR 75 DAYS AS RECKLESS DRIVER

Accused of Crashing Into 3 Other Machines.

William J. Haekstra, 48 years old, 119th street and Kane avenue, Palos Park, was sentenced yesterday to serve 75 days in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving. The sentence was decreed by Judge Albert E. Isley of Newton, who is sitting in the County court. It was one of the most severe reckless driving penalties ever imposed in local courts.

According to testimony, Haekstra, driving a 1926 model car, crashed into three other machines at 115th avenue and La Grange road on the night of Oct. 18. Chief of Police Clayton J. Tiffany of Mundelein and his wife, who were in the first car struck, were severely cut and bruised.

Claims He was Blinded.

Haekstra told the court that he was blinded by the lights of the other cars as he swung out of his lane of trafic in La Grange road. Other witnesses testified that all of the cars approaching Haekstra dimmed their lights. Haekstra was bound over to the County court by Police Magistrate Henry B. Welch of Alsip.

Clarence J. Howard, 30 years old, 4230 West End avenue, a mechanic, was sentenced to 45 days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated, and given a concurrent sentence of 45 days for carrying a concealed weapon by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the Safety court.

On Way "to Shoot Girl."

Howard was arrested on Dec. 18 in the 2700 block in Warren avenue. Sergt. Vincent Morgan of the park police said that Howard told him: "I'm glad you caught up with me. I was on my way to shoot my girl because she has been going out with another fellow." Howard later denied having such intentions, but said he was intoxicated.

Gerald Delcourt, 22 years old, 937 West 59th street, a WPA night watchman, was sentenced to serve ten days in the county jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated and was fined $25 and costs on a charge of speeding. He was arrested at 79th and Loomis streets on Dec. 13.

Alex Haines, 32 years old, 4000 Drexel boulevard, was sentenced to five days in the county jail on a charge of reckless driving.

MOVE LAUNCHED TO INSTALL 'BABY HORNS' ON AUTOS

Motorists who regard a blast horn as an instrument for self-expression won't like it but everybody else will. This refers to the proposal made yesterday that the city council require special "baby" horns on automobiles for use downtown and wherever there are many ears within horn range.

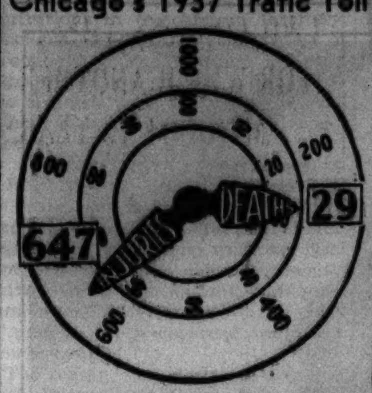
Karl Eitel, operator of the Bismarck hotel, conferred in his office with other citizens on the subject of reducing downtown noises. Robert E. Garrigan, civic secretary of the City club, nodded in the direction of two noise measuring devices on a table. All necessary data on the subject has already been compiled; what is needed now is action, he said.

Mr. Eitel said that travelers in European capitals, including Paris, London, and Berlin, are impressed by the fact that autohorns are sounded only to avert accidents. And, he added, the horns have a low polite well modulated tone.

Dr. Harry Hoffman, director of the psychopathic ward and behavior clinic at the county jail, approved the idea of requiring baby horns for use downtown. Tests have shown that a loud blast from an automobile horn excites nervous people as few other sounds do, he said.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1937 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

WOMAN KILLED; DRIVER SEIZED AFTER FLIGHT

Another Autoist Gives Up in Fatality.

A hit and run automobile fatally injured Miss Elizabeth Kelley, 39 years old, 1414 North La Salle street, last night at Schiller and Clark streets. She died early today in the Henrotin hospital, where she was taken by a taxicab driver.

The Hudson avenue police traced the license number of the death car and arrested Harold Woodruff, 28 years old, 834 Buckingham place. He admitted driving the car, but declared he had seen the injured woman being lifted into the taxicab and in his excitement had forgotten to obtain the name of the hospital. Police seized him at 1802 Clybourn avenue, in a furnace concern where he is employed.

Hit-Run Driver Gives Up.

Last Sunday night Robert M. Mitchell, 50 years old, 5027 Kennison avenue, was killed by a hit-and-run automobile in the rear of 4900 Kilbourn avenue.

Yesterday Harry Parsons, 25, 4552 North Kildare avenue, walked into the Albany Park police station. Parsons said he drove through the Kilbourn alley Sunday night, and recalled striking some object. He said he did not believe it was serious until he read of Mitchell's death.

Another Killed by Fleeing Driver.

Arnold Powell, 37 years old, 607 East 50th street, colored, was killed last evening when he was struck by the car of a hit-and-run driver. He was walking in Halsted street near 185th street in Homewood.

At 4 p. m. yesterday thirty-two persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. During the same period twenty-nine were killed and 647 injured in automobile accidents in Chicago.

Girl, 13, Knocks Moron Down as He Seizes Her

A moron who seized Lavergne Narthaler, 13 years old, last night as she was passing an alley near her home at 1704 North Menard avenue, reckoned without her fist. She struck him squarely in the stomach, knocking him down. The man escaped as neighbors heard the girl scream and ran to her aid.

PETTICOAT TRIAL PROVES THERE'S MANY A SLIP

"Lady Love" Is Knocked About in Court.

BY MARCIA WINN.

"Lady Love" had a hard time of it in the courtroom of Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday. She was tossed lightly across a table, fondled by witnesses and occasionally allowed to slip on to the floor.

But so was "Kno-Tare," her rival. Both are slips [petticoats, perhaps, to you] of peach silk, equipped with "non sag under the arm" features. And it was because of this sagless feature, which manufacturers of both slips insist is an "inestimable boon to womankind," that they were in court.

How Boon Came to Be.

It was brought out in the hearing that Samuel J. Dichter designed this boon more than two years ago while working as pattern maker for the Martha Maid Manufacturing company, 367 West Adams street. When discharged by Martha Maid, he set up his own company, Form-Fashion Lingerie, 329 West Monroe street. His mind still occupied with sagless slips, his company produced "Kno-Tare," a rival for Martha Maid's "Lady Love." They sell for $1.95.

Consequently, the suit, brought by Martha Maid and charging infringement of a patent. Dichter obtained the patent, but admits signing papers giving Martha Maid the right to manufacture the slips. He contends he was granting permission only for the duration of his employment.

Testimony Is Conflicting.

Witnesses gave conflicting testimony that Dichter had [or had not] cut out the original slip on Martha Maid time, that both slips were [or were not] cut on the bias, and that Dichter had [or had not] known he was signing away his rights to the patent.

"Lady Love" and "Kno-Tare," sprawled on tables, made gay spots of color, but the only equally gay testimony was that of Miss Rose Rasmussen, 622 North Albany avenue, a witness for the defense. Miss Rasmussen formerly worked for Martha Maid as a finisher and lace cutter, and modeled the non-sag slip for Dichter when he was inventing.

As she was testifying about such intricate matters as "bias," "crêpe," and design, Attorney Charles B. Cannon, attorney for the plaintif, spoke up.

"Whaddaya mean I'm not an expert?" Miss Rasmussen retorted, her black eyes flashing. "I've been workin' in this line thirteen years—and that'll make any one an expert."

TRY AGAIN BANDIT GETS 4 TERMS OF ONE YEAR TO LIFE

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Brill, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Robert J. Dunne.

Carl Harrison, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Benjamin P. Epstein.

John Brill, 19 years old, 8335 Cottage Grove avenue, known to the police as "The Repeating Bandit," was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary on each of four charges of robbery yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Robert J. Dunne. The terms are to be concurrent. Brill pleaded guilty to three of the charges and was found guilty by a jury on the fourth.

On Nov. 14 Brill invaded the offices of the National Headwear company, 6200 South Halsted street, obtaining $79 from the office staf. He announced that he would return later. He came back on Nov. 20 and took $75. In each of the three other robberies Brill paid a return visit.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

NOT THERE YET

By CALEB

WE pride ourselves on our modern automobiles. Some day today's car will look as clumsy and awkward as a tractor, and its efficiency will be the butt of jokes. When an automobile engine starts turning over and generating power, three things immediately set to work to deprive the car owner of the power the engine is producing. Those things are (1) friction, (2) the engine parts which use up engine power, such as water and fuel pumps, the fan, the generator, the distributor, and the valves, and (3) every ounce of excess weight of the car itself.

The toll exacted by these three leaves only about 20 per cent of the power the motor generates to work for the owner in propelling the car. Here there is tremendous room for improvement.

Electric lights are a marvel of our day, but a great deal of the electricity we use is dissipated in producing heat—which is not light. Some day science will give the world cold light and the gift will be great.

We flock to movies and rave over magnificent photography—which after all is flat and lacks the third dimension. Some day pictures thrown on the screen will give us the same effect of perspective produced by the old-fashioned stereoscope. Then today's movies will appear to us childlike.

Today if airplane motors were made silent, it would be at the expense of power. So magnificent ships sail through space sounding like demons from Hades. In a few years people will listen to airplane motors of today and say, "Did they really permit the use of such engines?"

The art of air conditioning has progressed rapidly in the last few years. Complete air conditioning includes temperature control, humidity control, ventilation (fresh air), circulation of air, and the cleaning of air. These factors may be combined to produce various effects which are still being studied in search of an undebatably sound conclusion. When the solution is found, air conditioning will be entirely perfected and foolproof.

One thing that keeps the world a fascinating and brilliantly interesting place is the fact that in few things have we arrived at positive and final conclusions. Somewhere ahead are great milestones which will be achieved. We are on our way, but—whether it is in connection with ideal manufacturing, ideal selling, ideal transportation, or operating an ideal department store—we are not there yet.

MYSTERY AUTOS ENTER HUNT FOR KIDNAP SLAYER

machine, as the driver was believed to be armed.

Meanwhile, Coroners T. H. Long of Pierce county [Tacoma] and Stowell Challacombe of Snohomish county [Everett] announced they planned no inquest in the killing. Their action indicated the kidnaper, when captured, will be tried under either the state or federal kidnaping statutes rather than on a murder charge.

Death Penalty Deemed Sure.

Either abduction law would permit prosecutors to seek a death penalty. Although no officers confirmed it, all concerned in the case regarded it as a foregone conclusion that the death penalty would be demanded should the kidnaper be captured and brought to trial in federal court here.

Some time ago the prosecutor of Pierce county announced he would seek the death penalty should the trial be held in a state court.

Rewards for the capture of the kidnaper mounted during the day. The United States department of justice offered a reward of $10,000 for arrest of the killer. A group of newspapers already has offered $1,000 for such exclusive information.

Lieut. Gov. Victor Meyers announced a bill would be introduced in the state senate offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to the slayer's arrest.

Description of Kidnaper.

What is regarded a fairly accurate description of the man who boldly broke into the expensive Mattson home the night of Dec. 27 and seized Charles as he played with his Christmas presents has been concurred in by the three young witnesses—Charles' brother and sister, William, 16 years old, and Muriel, 14, and the latter's chum, Virginia Chatfield, 15, of Seattle.

They described him as a man about 45 years old, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches tall, weighing about 145 pounds, swarthy complexioned and possibly left handed. At the time of the kidnaping he had several days' growth of beard, wore dark trousers, blue slide fastener jacket, light tan checked cap, and carried a blue steel revolver.

Dr. Mattson announced this afternoon that private funeral services will be held here at 1 p. m. Thursday for Charles.

Along with thousands of shocked persons throughout the country, kidnapers now in the government's Alcatraz Island prison were reported speculating on the type of person who kidnaped the Mattson boy, spurred offers to fulfill his own ransom demands, and brutally killed his young victim.

Albert Best, taken into custody by San Francisco police on theft charges immediately after his release from the "Rock," said federal agents had questioned the kidnapers in the impregnable prison and had been told they believed the Mattson criminal insane.

Among the abductors serving long terms in that institution is Harmon W. Waley, who demanded and obtained $200,000 ransom for George Weyerhaeuser, another Tacoma boy, whom he kidnaped nearly two years ago.

"Waley and the rest of the snatchers over there," Best said, "believe this new kidnaping was the work of a nut or fanatic. They think the $28,000 demanded was a nutty figure. They would have asked $30,000, $50,000 or some round amount."

Footprint in Snow Is Clew to Slayer

This mute piece of evidence was left near Everett, Wash., by the Mattson abductor when he placed body of victim near roadside. There were also tracks left by the wheels of the killer's car.

CHIEF CLEWS AIDING LAW IN ITS SEARCH FOR KIDNAP SLAYER

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Clews in the hunt for the kidnaper and slayer of 10 year old Charles Mattson follow:

1. A plaster-of-Paris cast of a footprint and records of automobile tire tracks left in the snow as the killer, wearing socks over his shoes, dumped the body of his victim near Everett, Wash.

2. Detailed description of the kidnaper by three children who saw his face and heard his voice as he confronted them with a pistol and seized Charles.

3. The ransom note which the kidnaper left, demanding $28,000. It was printed with a toy typewriter or lettered out with rubber stamps. A peculiar sort of ink was used.

4. One or two letters which informants said came to Dr. W. W. Mattson, father of Charles, in contact negotiations.

5. Personality factors apparent from the kidnaper's methods of operation:

[a] He was bold enough to smash in a door of the Mattson home, but, according to Paul Sceva, family friend, "too yellow to come out and get the money" several days later.

[b] He was brutal; the body of his victim had been severely beaten. He was exceedingly wary; Dr. Mattson could not reach him during the last week of the suspense.

CAPTURE KILLERS, ROOSEVELT ORDER IN MATTSON CASE

President Voices Shock at "Ghastly" Crime.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today ordered the federal government's crime fighting forces to "get the killers" of 10 year old Charles Mattson. The grim order came from the White House after the President expressed himself as shocked by the "ghastly" kidnap-slaying.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings was summoned to the White House before the President went to the executive offices to discuss efforts to capture the killers and the offering of a reward. Mr. Roosevelt learned of the crime last night.

"That's unbelievable; it's ghastly," the President was quoted as saying upon reading newspaper accounts of the finding of the boy's body. Mrs. Roosevelt was said to be equally upset by the crime.

President Gives Statement.

After the conference with Cummings which led to the offering of $10,000 reward by the attorney general for information leading to the capture of the killers, Mr. Roosevelt issued a statement on the crime.

"The murder of the little Mattson boy has shocked the nation," the President said. "Every means at our command must be enlisted to capture and punish the perpetrators of this ghastly crime.

"Attorney General Cummings informs me that he has offered a reward for information leading to the arrest of the criminal, and that the special agents of the federal bureau of investigation of the department of justice are engaged in a search which will be pursued relentlessly and will not be terminated until the murderer is caught.

Law's Coöperation Urged.

"I bespeak for the agents of the department of justice the continued and whole-hearted coöperation of the local police and the other law enforcement agents in this necessary work.

"A crime of this kind is renewed evidence of the need of sustained effort in dealing with the criminal menace."

The White House announcement was followed by an announcement of the $10,000 reward by Attorney General Cummings.

"All the facilities at the disposal of the department of justice have been turned loose upon this case," the attorney general said. "We propose to follow it to the end.

"I have just offered a reward of $10,000 for information leading to identification and apprehension of the criminal."

BULLETIN.

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan. 12.—(AP)—This new seat of the Spanish government was bombarded tonight as an insurgent ship or ships attacked the port. The bombardment continued for more than an hour. Extent of the damage was not ascertained immediately.

BY H. H. WALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 12.—Malaga was badly damaged at noon yesterday when the Spanish Fascist insurgents attacked from the sea and air, causing about 300 deaths and destroying many hotels, hospitals, the bull ring and other buildings, it was learned here today.

The cruiser Canarias and battleship España fired more than 200 shots at close range, while eight airplanes dropped more than 100 incendiary bombs. Townspeople, mainly women and children, were seen to be panic stricken and to be dashing to places of safety.

Foreign Sailors Wounded.

The Norwegian steamer Saga and the Danish steamer Signe, which were alongside the main wharf to load cargoes, sailed immediately for Gibraltar. When they were steaming out, pieces of shells hit the decks, slightly injuring members of the crew. The crews of the steamers said they saw several big buildings collapsing in flames.

The British consulate and a building believed to be American owned were partly demolished in the bombardment.

The warships made their attack after they had chased the freighter Arana Mendi, bound for Malaga from Santander with foodstuffs, ashore at Torremolinos. The freighter's captain beached her under shell fire.

Launch Counter Offensive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 12.—Government troops launched a counter offensive northwest of the capital and for the time being have warded off the Fascist insurgent threat to the city, the defense junta declared today.

The loyalists attacked along the Escorial road toward suburban Aravaca and Las Rozas, both of which the insurgents captured last week. Insurgents were attacked also around Pozuelo de Alarcon and El Plantio in the same sector.

[Insurgent headquarters declared the government offensive was repulsed with heavy losses in the neighborhood of Las Rozas and Majadahonda.]

Execute Two as "Pirates."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BAYONNE, France, Jan. 12.—Two Fascist insurgent sailors were executed by a firing squad at Bilbao, Spain, today for alleged "piracy." The victims were Capt. José Quiroga and Candido Perez, an officer of the insurgent freighter Virgen del Carmen. They were charged with capturing the government ship Galerna, plying between Bilbao and Bayonne, and killing the ship's crew and passengers.

Also at Bilbao, two residents, Bernabe Aguirre and Felix Ruiz, were ordered shot for aiding insurgent planes in spotting targets for bombs. Officials declared they found the two men operating a wireless set in a farmhouse near Bilbao and sending information to the insurgents.

Return Belgian's Body.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan. 12.—The body of Baron Jacques de Borchgrave, allegedly slain during a mutiny of troops near Madrid, is being returned to Belgium, it was learned today.

The body will reach Toulon, France, Thursday aboard the French destroyer Kersaint and will be brought across France by train to Brussels.

De Borchgrave, whose wife is the daughter of a San Francisco family, was 35 years old and first secretary of the Belgian embassy in Madrid. Late in December he went to Fuencarrel, north of Madrid, to investigate the well-being of Belgians who were members of the international brigade fighting for the Spanish government.

Ultimatum Sent to Madrid.

It is now asserted De Borchgrave and other Belgians were slain during a mutiny of troops at Fuencarrel. De Borchgrave's body was not found for several days, and then with a bullet hole behind one ear, as if he had been executed.

Earlier today Brussels, in an ultimatum to the Madrid-Valencia government, demanded the shipment of De Borchgrave's body with full military honors within 48 hours and payment of an indemnity of $35,000.

French Ask Blockade of Spain to Stop Flow of 'Volunteers'

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The French government has suggested to Great Britain that immediate measures be taken on land and sea to prevent dispatch of "volunteers" and munitions to Spain, authorized sources asserted tonight.

These informants said France has told the British government strict control should be established immediately over all possible ports of departure and along the ship lanes to the Iberian peninsula by which "volunteers" of other lands might join the forces of either the Valencia—Madrid government or the Burgos Fascist insurgent régime.

France also proposed, it was stated, that all points of entry into Spain on the French and Portuguese frontiers be blocked.

France's Reason Explained.

Failure of the Spanish government to accept fully the plan drawn up by the international nonintervention committee in London to place international commissions on Spanish soil to prevent arms and foreign recruits from reaching the combatants was given as the chief reason for France's suggestions.

The rebel régime at Burgos made no reply to the committee's plan, and the French government, it was asserted, fears further delay may make such measures impossible.

The government announced it will introduce a bill in parliament Thursday which will give Premier Leon Blum power to halt the flow of "volunteers" into Spain.

The government's previous idea of a rigid bill has been abandoned, but the measure is believed likely to deprive all Frenchmen leaving France to fight in Spain of French citizenship.

Refuses to Patrol Spain.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Great Britain refused tonight to use her naval force to patrol Spanish waters against Fascist warships.

Having forbidden her own ships to carry arms to Spain, the British government declined a Russian request for the patrol designed to protect all neutral shipping. Britain previously, however, had announced her intent to protect British merchantmen.

The European nonintervention committee studied today an Italian demand for the impounding of an estimated $500,000,000 in Bank of Spain gold reported deposited abroad in the names of individuals. Italy appealed to the committee to impound the funds until the Spanish civil war is over.

Sees Both Sides as Losers.

Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, predicted in an address neither communism nor Fascism will gain a permanent foothold in Spain. He spoke to the Foreign Press association.

Referring to the race in Europe to build armaments, as "madness," Eden said Britain has and will continue to discourage foreign intervention in Spain.

The Iberian nation, he asserted, inevitably will evolve its own form of government and "the less the foreigner interferes, the shorter the time will be."

Adolf Hitler's statement to the diplomatic corps in Berlin at last night's reception urging the promotion of peace won the plaudits of the foreign minister.

League to Meet Jan. 21.

GENEVA, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The league of nations council was summoned today to meet Jan. 21. The agenda for the session will include neutrality problems of the Spanish civil war, the Franco-Turkish dispute over the independence of the Syrian cities of Antioch and Alexandretta and proposals for revision of the league covenant.

BRITAIN MOVES TO STORE WHEAT AS WAR MEASURE

Needs 136 Million Bu. for Year's Reserve.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Plans to build up huge reserves of wheat and other foodstuffs will be submitted to parliament soon after it meets Jan. 19, officials of the new food defense plans department said today.

They explained buying would not commence until the necessary funds had been appropriated, but predicted that a reserve sufficient for between six months and a year would be accumulated gradually.

Need New Storage Space.

Experts said Great Britain would need to store 3,650,000 tons of wheat [approximately 136,250,000 bushels] for a full year's reserve, but doubted this much would be obtained immediately because of the huge cost, as well as storage difficulties.

New warning of the danger of a food shortage in case of war was given by Maj. Nelson Rooke in a recent address in which he declared present supplies were sufficient only for two to four weeks.

Experts have estimated that a year's supply of essential foodstuffs would include 3,650,000 tons of wheat, 5,000,000 tons of potatoes, 2,250,000 tons of onions, 1,250,000 tons of cheese, and 625,000 tons of butter or margarine.

Provide for 45 Millions.

"Storage of six months' supply of bread and meat, or their equivalents, for a population of 45,000,000 is a fundamental necessity," Maj. Rooke said.

The scheme for mobilizing food resources for use in case of war was begun late last year with the appointment of Henry Leon French as director of the new food defense plans department.

Depots are already being established in the least vulnerable parts of the country.

AMERICANS WARNED AGAIN TO FLEE SPAIN; 34 STILL IN EMBASSY

MADRID, Jan. 12.—(AP)—By telegram from Valencia, United States embassy officials tonight again urged all Americans in Madrid to leave Spain immediately, particularly in view of "the possibility the embassy may be closed." Officials went to Valencia some weeks ago, but the embassy was left in care of a custodian and American citizens admitted to shelter.

Refugees were directed to notify embassy employés by noon tomorrow of their intentions so transportation might be arranged. Those choosing to remain were warned they would do so at their own risk and on their own responsibility.

Of the 34 American citizens living in the embassy, only two had indicated late tonight they intended leaving. The remainder included eight newspaper men and American citizens who have said they found it impossible to leave Madrid. Most of the latter are Porto Ricans and Filipinos whose families are here or who have businesses with their money tied up in Spain because of restrictions on the export of capital.

FRENCH WARSHIPS CONTINUE VIGIL OFF MOROCCO

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 12.—(AP)—French naval vigilance in Moroccan waters continued today although yesterday's Franco-German tension over Spanish Morocco was considered abated by assurances exchanged between Berlin and Paris.

While Alphonse Gasnier-Duparc, French minister of marine, aboard the cruiser Colbert, inspected the westernmost coasts of Algeria near Mellila, chief port of Spanish Morocco, the French destroyer Milan dropped anchor in Ceuta, also in Spanish Morocco, for a 48 hours' visit. Gasnier-Duparc was accompanied by Gov. Gen. Le Beau of Algeria.

J. Beigbeder y Atienza, Spanish insurgent high commissioner for Morocco, announced that all newspapermen "except Russians" would be given the fullest opportunity to inspect Spanish Morocco "in detail" as a result of allegations that Nazi troops were concentrated there.

GERMANS EXPECT TO END ROW WITH FRENCH ON SPAIN

Europe Stunned, but War Experts Explain.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—While Count Johannes von Welczeck, German ambassador to Paris, was reporting to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in Berlin and Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Berlin, was reporting to his government in Paris, German official quarters said that prospects of a Franco-German gentlemen's agreement on Spain had improved.

This statement met with incredulity among foreign diplomatic observers, but foreign military attachés in Berlin said they believed it is a possibility.

The military attachés have an explanation for their belief. They argue that the civil war in Spain demonstrated that war planes, in which Germany and other countries place so much faith, failed to live up to expectations. Therefore, these military attachés contend, a breathing spell awaits in Europe, during which military experts will devise new plans and alter the points found to be weak in air forces.

Goering Leaves for Rome.

Berlin learned with joy of the great preparations Italy is making for the reception of Col. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi minister of air, who left for Rome by train tonight. Goering plans to visit Premier Mussolini and leading Italian statesmen. Germany sees in Rome's preparations for his visit proof of the sincerity of the new Italian friendship for the reich.

Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, urged Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the German foreign minister, to ask Hitler to reply to the British note on nonintervention in Spain before the end of the week, but Von Neurath refused to promise to hurry the fuehrer.

Great Britain issued a new plea to Germany, Portugal, Italy, Russia and France last Sunday to stop the flow of volunteers to either side in the civil war.

French-German Deal Under Way.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Franco-German commercial negotiations, which officials hope offer the possibility of a general trade and financial arrangement between the two nations, already have begun, it was disclosed tonight.

While France and Germany discussed the forthcoming visit by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the reich's economics minister, officials disclosed negotiations "through normal channels" were being carried on to increase commercial exchanges between the two countries.

This and a military inspection of Spanish Morocco eased materially French fears of German troop concentrations in the African territory. Resident General August Nogues of French Morocco informed the foreign office one of his aids visited the Spanish zone and found no evidence of large numbers of German troops.

Demand Political Guarantees.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's disclaimers of territorial ambitions in Morocco and confirmation by the French foreign office that there were no Nazi troops there greatly calmed the crisis between the two nations, but some economic observers felt it too early to predict any widespread trade rapprochement.

The reason, they declared, was that both France and Great Britain are resolved that Hitler must give them important political guarantees before he could expect full economic aid.

This was in line with other recent pronouncements, that France is willing to return war-lost colonies to Germany and aid the Nazi nation economically—but in return for pledges of peace and coöperation in control of European armaments.

Japan to Launch Two New 515 Ton Torpedo Boats

Each will be 265 feet long with a 26-foot beam and draught of six and a half feet. They will be capable of 28 knots and will carry three 12-centimeter guns and three torpedo tubes.

5 BRITISH NAVAL WORKERS FIRED IN SABOTAGE PROBE

Admiralty Silent; Believe Men Were Reds.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 12.—A long secret service investigation of sabotage cases and leaks of confidential information in the British navy was revealed today with the official announcement that five dockyard workers were dismissed from two navy yards "in the interests of the service."

Though the actual reason for the dismissals was not given in the admiralty's statement, it was said that the reason was a suspicion of subversive communist activity by the men concerned.

Six Cases of Sabotage.

Six cases of sabotage aboard British warships were reported last year. Ever since then a quiet and thorough hunt has been carried on by secret agents. The hunt still is proceeding, with admiralty investigators aiding the intelligence operatives.

The admiralty's official statement said merely:

"Five dockyard workers have been discharged, four from his majesty's dockyard at Devonport and one from his majesty's dockyard at Sheerness, their services being no longer required. Their lordships have satisfied themselves that continued employment of these men is not in the interests of the naval service and their lordships have no further statement to make."

Vice Admiral Sir Reginald Drax, commanding the naval base at Plymouth, declined to enlarge upon the admiralty statement.

As soon as notice was given to the men they were escorted outside the dockyard gates.

One of the ousted men denied in a statement to newspapers that he knew of the reason for his discharge. He said he had been working for two and a half years as a shipwright and that on Saturday he was handed an envelope at the end of the day with a notice of his instant dismissal.

"In following my political activities I have never overstepped the rules and regulations controling government establishments," he said.

The six ships damaged were the battle cruiser Repulse, the battleship Royal Oak, the cruiser Cumberland, the destroyer Velox, and the submarines Oberon and H-28. In the cases of the Oberon, Royal Oak and Cumberland, where electrical equipment was damaged, and the Velox, where the mine releasing gear was tampered with, sabotage was definitly suspected by the admiralty.

THE STAIN OF THE CRIMINAL HAND.

The murder of the kidnaped Mattson boy gives a shocked country another indelible stain on its national life. It may seem unreasonable or even intemperate to fasten a general and common responsibility upon the American people for an act which may well have been that of a maniac, but nevertheless the stain is upon the whole country and we cannot dismiss its meanings.

The greatest failure of our democracy has been in the administration of laws for the control of criminality, and we give the weak, vicious and predatory elements of society a wrong start. They are not raised in an atmosphere of fear of and respect for law. The excuse that we are a young nation, that we have been assimilating many peoples into our traditions and usages, and that we have some of the violent traits of youth rapidly is wearing thin.

We cannot remain satisfied with explanations that this is a country of great expanse of territory with numerous jurisdictions and difficulties of coördinating law administration. What is true of these conditions is something that must be overcome.

The American people, the good along with the bad, are too early taught and too long remember that a law does not necessarily mean what it says. It seems not to matter whether it is a law against parking, a law regulating speed, a law governing assemblages of people, whether in theaters or elsewhere; a law protecting property or securing life. The need of obedience and compliance is not an impressive fact. It must be made so.

We see today lawless invasions of property and lawless suppressions of liberty to which the authorities are indifferent. People who are not criminals take the law in their own hands to do what they please. People who expect the law to protect them will violate it merely because at the moment it pleases them to do so and because they find it more convenient to pay no attention than to be governed. In the small affairs of life as well as in the serious ones this disposition to evade and not to obey is observed generally and commonly.

For an explanation we must examine the various relationships of our political system with the people. For many considerations, some of them seemingly not heinous and others of the greatest turpitude, our politics is against the strict and undeviating enforcement of law. It may seem a peccadillo when it permits old license plates to remain on cars, more reprehensible when it allows some citizens to escape taxes which are loaded on the shoulders of others, and terrible when it releases hardened and habitual criminals to prey on society. No country can permit its politicians to encourage the general belief that the laws they themselves make and are supposed to enforce are not to be strictly enforced.

Out of the free and easy methods of the more amiable aspects of American democracy in which government does not too closely press the people into strict subordination to laws to which they in theory consent arises a trafic which could not otherwise exist. It is the organized relationship of the least scrupulous and most vicious politicians with criminals whose money and whose influence they seek.

Almost every branch of government is contaminated by these less or greater contacts with minor or major offenders. Americans can truthfully say that as a people they are the best intentioned in the world. Their responses are genuine when distress signals for help. They wish people well and they mean to do well, but they lack the moral energy to banish from authority the persons who do them ill, not only by complicity with crime but even by laxity in not requiring that every person do what persons of real conscience must do to satisfy their inner selves.

We have protected ourselves against tyrannous laws. We have not protected ourselves against tyrannous lawlessness. The shocking crime which has put fear into the mind of every parent and rage in the heart of every decent person may have been one which only a diseased mind could contemplate and thus, if so it proves to be, it may seem marginal. We should be unwise even then to so regard it.

Every society contains weaklings, infirm, vicious and degenerate characters. The development of a criminal element depends largely upon the attitude of government, the processes of law and the degree to which administration of law meets the demands made upon it. The instinct of obedience can be instilled or it can be killed. If it becomes a fixed habit of life it will prevail even when impulses and aberrations would break it down.

America needs to break the political connections with crime and then to assert that law enforcement is to be impartial and inflexible.

THE CRISIS IN THE COCKTAIL BAR.

Club women in Sacramento, Cal., sent a protest to the management of the Hotel Senator because it decorated its cocktail bar with murals representing imaginary scenes in the great British crisis of December. Murals, it may be noted, have a way of stirring up the contentious feelings.

The cocktail bar murals are described as distinctly pro-Edward. One shows the then king listening without interest to Mr. Baldwin supplicating him to accept the crown, with the archbishop of Canterbury looking on, while Mrs. Simpson, appropriately dressed as a Puritan, stands just outside the door. The boy Cupid is fittingly among the figures and he is standing by the throne. In the other mural Edward and his lady are shown leaving the throne room, the prime minister, the archbiship, and others present being fixed in despair.

The murals are supposed to be artistic reflections of British mores and events. The protest, however, is reflective of our own. What, may it be asked, have murals in a saloon got to do with club women or they with them? How did they learn of them? The old-fashioned husband didn't tell his wife what pictures were in the barroom. He usually denied he'd been there. He said he'd been detained in the office.

It is reliably reported that some ladies now are familiar with bar interiors. Men complain that they can't get up to the bar any more. It has been suggested that the half hour parking rule be applied to such locations. But it hasn't been generally known that club women have been holding their cultural gatherings alongside the mahogany or that they were much concerned with the barroom artistry. How general is this and how long has it been going on?

SKILL IS IN DEMAND.

Managers of factories and shops in Chicago report a growing shortage of skilled workmen. Of 591 companies which replied to a questionnaire prepared by the Chicago Association of Commerce, 152 reported difficulty in getting skilled help of one kind or another. Trades union officials report that all their men are not yet at work but, by and large, the number of skilled mechanics among the unemployed is rapidly dwindling.

The fact should be noted by parents and educational authorities. From year to year new machines, which operate at greater speed and with greater precision, are replacing old ones. The need for trained men to build and maintain machines is growing. The responsibilities of the men so employed are greater than they ever were because they are dealing with more powerful tools and more costly investments. There is every reason to believe that competent mechanics will be in greater demand and earn higher wages in the future than in the past.

Experience shows that the skilled man is generally the last in the organization to lose employment in hard times and the first to be reemployed. The bulk of the men now out of work are the unskilled.

A generation ago America imported many, if not most, of its skilled workmen from the industrial countries of Europe. With the decline in immigration Europe is no longer furnishing replacements. Our own schools and our own shops must supply the need.

THEORY AND EXPERIENCE.

In the center of the small village of Derby Line, Quebec-Vermont, there is—or was—a longish, one story building that houses the United States postoffice as well as that of his majesty's Canadian government. Standing in front of the twin doorway, one may follow with his eye the narrow clearings and the line of little monuments that mark the boundary between the two countries. The people who live hereabout cross and recross the political line perhaps a hundred times a day. They look alike, follow the same pursuits, and speak the same language except when discussing matters relating to railway service.

The American is aware that government ownership and operation of United States railroads has been agitated at Washington, and may possibly consider that the theory is sound. In any event, he is willing to leave the matter to the judgment of his representatives. The Canadian, on the other hand, is vociferously and belligerently aware of a railway problem. He knows that his government acquired the properties known as the Canadian National Railways several years ago by assuming obligations amounting to one and one-half billion dollars. He also knows that the present obligation is three billion dollars, and that it is mounting annually with direct emphasis on taxation. With a population less than one-tenth that of the United States, three billion dollars in Canada is approximately equal to thirty billions here. Within the last eight years the Canadian may have switched from liberalism to conservatism and back to liberalism in the hope of discovering a government that will settle his railway problem.

The situation presents a paradox. Some three years ago Commissioner Eastman, then coördinator of transportation and considered a leading political authority, made the statement that public ownership was the only final cure for the ills of United States railways. In Canada, where government ownership has been a fact, not a theory, for fifteen years, there is a growing conviction that the only satisfactory settlement of the railway problem lies in return to private management. Railway journals, the Transportation Association of America, trafic clubs, and other bodies have been pointing to the failure of the Eastman plan in the practical demonstration across the border, but without appreciable effect on public opinion. Each congress brings its grist of bills to promote further burocratic domination of the railroads.

Editorial of the Day

WHO'LL MAKE THE HEADLINES?

[Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

How many persons had heard, on Jan. 5, 1936, of Gen. Francisco Franco, John D. M. Hamilton, Dr. Franz Sarga, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, Ethel du Pont, Margaret Mitchell, or Mrs. Ernest Simpson? Virtual unknowns a year ago, they are now familiar to all newspaper readers. Chairman Hamilton had his hour during and immediately following the Republican national convention. Dr. Sarga held the headlines for weeks with his proposed marathon duels. Ethel du Pont's engagement to the son of the President of the United States was one of the prime society stories of our times. The Rev. Smith rarely crashes the front pages any more, but for a few frenzied months he commanded national attention. Gen. Franco still continues the siege of Madrid; Margaret Mitchell's novel, "Gone with the Wind," still is a favorite with book buyers, and Mrs. Ernest Simpson will be news until the day she dies. Then history will take over her story. But a year ago they were known only in limited circles.

Who will be the headlined personages of 1937? Nobody can tell. Somewhere in this wide world are men and women living quietly and unheralded who will emerge during the next twelve months as national or even international figures. Will there be another Margaret Mitchell in 1937? Thousands of yearning writers hope so. Will there be another Mrs. Simpson? The outlook is not promising. Will there be another Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith? Heaven forbid!

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Othar Donnals of this city, and has spent the greater part of his life here. The bride is a stranger to most people of Tuscola. Following their marriage the couple came to Tuscola, and Mr. Brooks who has the contract for removing garbage from the alleys in Tuscola, resumed his work the last of the week.

A DEFINITE VIEW.

I do not doubt the sincerity of our teachers (according to M. A. H.) nor their intelligence. However, it is high time both parents and teachers acquainted themselves with the fact that the school situation is bad. You ask for a discussion on why children resist education. They don't—there is no education in the public schools. Our children are taught to wear a superficial shell of smartness; a cleverness that will pass for knowledge. In the name of experimental education the children are being deprived of sound fundamental learning. I shiver to think how they will pass their entrance examinations for college when the time comes for them.

After trying to stir up a few neighbors to the seriousness of the situation, I gave up and, not willing to sacrifice my children to Chicago's remarkable school system, I put them in a parochial school. I think you are to be commended for trying to arouse interest in this school business—please continue.

The P. T. A. is a great help to education, too. Report for the month: Mrs. H. washed the curtains in the office; Mrs. Z. hung the curtains in the office; a coffee table was purchased for the outgoing president and, ho hum, $5 was pledged to the University of Illinois scholarship fund.

PANACEAS FOR ALL ILLS.

ANCIENT mythology ascribes to Æsculapius, the god of medicine, three daughters: Hygeia [Health], Jaso [Cure], and Panacea [Universal Remedy]. It is a peculiar quirk of the human mind that the lure of Panacea eclipses, all too frequently, our appreciation of Hygeia.

The search for a cure-all has led mankind into devious pathways, and human credulity has paved the way for the rise of thousands upon thousands of remedies, all said to be endowed with miraculous virtues. Added to this is the popular conception—held in some quarters—that the works of the physician are mysterious, partaking of the supernatural. We find even today remnants of the old beliefs of the middle ages that soothsayers, astrologers, and fortune tellers can influence disease and effect cures.

One of the fondest hopes in the minds of many is that something will be discovered which will preserve youth forever. Older people are likely to become victims of this illusion and some of those in middle life will spend a goodly portion of their substance in an effort to stave off the ravages of time.

A 17th century London advertisment relates to the discovery of a rejuvenating elixir. An age-old fable is retold, in which a certain "renovating quintessence" given to an old hen who had passed into a decline was followed by a regrowth of feathers, the laying of eggs, and the hatching of a brood of chicks. Other claims go even further and state that a particular "elixir of youth" was administered to an "ancient woman" for a period of 15 days. "She recovered her hair, health, youth, and teeth. Her complexion was florid and vigorous and nature exerted itself as it usually does in young women."

Still another seized upon linseed oil—"cold drawn"—as a remedy that would relieve distempers of all sorts, consumption, and pleurisy. In later notices bruises, rheumatism, gout, scrofulous glands, and broken bones were included—"all healed in the time it would take to journey from London to Woolwich and back." To the efficacy of this preparation the daughter of a marquis testified in glowing terms.

In the 18th century the two "famousest" medicines in the world were exploited for more than 60 years. They went under the titles "electuary of Balm of Gilead" and "salt of Balm of Gilead." Either was guaranteed to cure fevers of all kinds, rheumatism, dropsy, colic, and consumption. Travelers were urged especially to carry them on sea voyages, as they would heal the distempers of foreign lands. They were also of value in wounds, bruises, scalds, or any "inward ailment."

Another favorite method of panacea seekers was to obtain from some itinerant wanderer returning after numerous years of study [?] in the orient a rare and secret recipe for the alleviation of all the ills to which human flesh is heir. One such was advertised by a traveler from Bagdad as a "triple distilled elixir, the secret of which was held by a certain ancient Arab sheik." At the risk of his life the recipe had been secured "and now is offered to the public as a perfect and speedy cure of all diseases that affect the blood." The announcement stated that it would totally eradicate all "atomes" which vitiate the blood "and extract the essences of malignancy even though they have settled in the bones."

When scurvy was a very real and common condition, quacks seized upon it as a means of obtaining money from a gullible public. Many and loud were the claims made for "the spirit of scurvy-grass." It was promised that it would cure scurvy and later, as its sale increased, its originators added other diseases until its remedial scope embraced the universe.

What has become of all these healing concoctions—these boons to the ailing? Except for the record of their existence, they have passed into oblivion. But as long as credulity retains its ascendancy in the public mind the successors of these nostrums will continue in a never-ending stream.

There is danger in using any medicine the ingredients of which are unknown. Furthermore, it is entirely likely that, even though the remedy is harmless when given to a well individual, it may be hazardous when taken by one who is ill.

DEVELOPING CHEST.

J. J. S. writes: I am a young man and indulge in all sports. My physique has developed normally with the exception of the chest. In proportion to the other parts of my body it has failed to respond. What could be the cause? Could you suggest some form of treatment to develop this deficiency?

REPLY.

Sometimes heredity is a factor, or you may have had rickets in childhood.

In the absence of deformity, breathing exercises, singing, and swimming are beneficial.

NEED PHYSICIAN.

M. A. G. writes:

1. I suspect that one of my relatives has Addison's disease. What treatment should be used?
2. Does this disease turn into cancer?

REPLY.

1. A person suffering with Addison's disease should be under the constant care of a competent physician. The disease is not altogether curable, but there are several plans of treatment which have given excellent results.
2. No.

NEED FOR MILK.

F. J. H. writes:

1. What amount of calcium is contained in a quart of milk?
2. How much milk is required daily for the average child and adult?

REPLY.

1. From 0.75 to 1 gram.
2. A pint for an adult; a quart for a child.

COLOR-BLIND.

G. L. writes: I took a physical examination and was told I am color-blind. Is there a chance to recover from such a condition and what is the procedure?

REPLY.

So far as is known, there is no cure for color-blindness. However, while it is inconvenient, it is not alarming, for the eyes may be quite normal in every other respect.

VARICOSE VEIN.

J. M. writes: I have a varicose vein in one leg. How can it be prevented from getting worse?

REPLY.

You should wear an elastic stocking or have the vein injected. If there is no ulcer, it will probably respond to either of these treatments.

MAYBE WE SHOULDN'T HAVE VENTURED OUT WITH IT

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA.—Does Japan want the Philippines? There is a widespread belief here that Japan not only wants the Philippines but is planning to move in after the American flag is pulled down at the end of the 10 year transition period, or on Nov. 15, 1945.

Prof. Pio Duran of the law department of the University of the Philippines, a strong advocate of Philippine-Japanese coöperation, said that 90 per cent of the Filipinos are convinced that they will lose their independence to Japan almost immediately after they obtain it from the United States.

But Prof. Duran does not believe the fear of Japanese aggression is justified and attributed much of it to American "imperialistic propaganda for the retention of the islands." He said that the fear of Japan which is being "injected into the minds of the Filipinos has given rise to the possibility of a movement being started to invite the United States to remain in the Philippines forever, provided the commonwealth status of the islands is made permanent."

In order to offset this propaganda Prof. Duran, who is co-editor of a Tokio magazine which is devoted to the cause of Philippine-Japanese friendship and coöperation, wrote an article entitled, "Who's the Big Bad Wolf?" In it he urged the Japanese to take steps to counteract damaging statements published in the Philippines which, he said, give a wrong impression of Japanese activities in Corea, Formosa, Manchukuo, and China.

He said that while the public libraries of the Philippines contain few books giving favorable information about Japan, "the Americans are conducting a feverish campaign calculated to distort the motives of Japan in the far east, malign her good name, and picture her as an ambitious nation gone mad for more territories and planning to conquer China, the Philippine Islands, and the rest of the far east."

"The irresistible logic of events in the far east within the next decade will force sane statesmanship to veer the course of the Philippine ship of state from a westerly to an easterly direction," the professor concluded.

While most Filipinos dismiss Duran as "pro-Japanese," his reference to altering the course of the Philippine ship of state to an easterly direction touched the most fundamental problem facing the future of the commonwealth.

DEFECTIVE CHIMNEY.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Recently I wrote you regarding a falling chimney next door to our home, but as yet nothing has been done. I explained the danger the children are in when walking through the passageway, but I suppose somebody will have to get hurt or possibly killed before something is done. What do we have to do, write to the governor? The police, landlord, and fire department were informed, but we received no action.

J. C. R.

Our inspector reports that part of the upper two courses of chimney has fallen off and while the rest of the chimney appears solid, it requires tuck-pointing. The owner has been notified to repair or rebuild the chimney and if this work is not done at the expiration of the time allotted in our notice we will proceed as the law directs.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.] — 1. What is the citizenship standing of children born in the United States of foreign consuls?

2. If the consul dies here and his children remain in the United States do they at 21 automatically become citizens without taking out citizenship papers?

E. H.

1. In the fourteenth amendment to the United States constitution, which provides that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens," the phrase "subject to the jurisdiction thereof" was intended to exclude from its operation children of ministers, consuls, and citizens or subjects of foreign states, born within the United States. FROM A COUNTY NURSE.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—I am a student nurse at the Cook County hospital. I resent, as do my fellow students, the statement of one of the county commissioners that "Cook County hospital patients are treated like swine."

Certainly nursing will never give us great wealth or power. Why, then, do we choose nursing as our profession? Because of the opportunity it gives us to wield unfair power over our fellow human beings? Certainly not! We are studying the art of nursing because of some deeper motive—the desire to be of some aid to humanity; to serve in the best way we know.

Our instructors have taught us since our first days of training that the patient and his needs come first. Because of an understaffed personnel we are not always able to devote as much time to our patients as we desire, but we do our best and our efforts are sincere.

Great personal satisfaction comes out of nursing that is well done. Loss of self-respect comes from any work poorly done. We do our best and are still proud, despite adverse criticism, that we are Cook County nurses.

STUDENT NURSE.

THE VANISHING PARK.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Reading your editorial on street widening, I want to support the writer in protest against destruction wrought to the city.

At the Oak street beach the whole park is vanishing fast under the crude shovels and picks of the WPA workers. This project of widening the road will cause only more auto deaths. No consideration was given to preserve the lawn and trees, the gifts of nature, that are so essential to health and welfare for the thousands of fathers and other tired workers who seek rest and recreation in the park every summer.

Motorists will seek and find suitable summer resorts elsewhere. The others, less fortunate, will have to sit and die along the roadside, smothered by gas.

SHADOW BOXING?

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 9.—The great mahatma who hates war couldn't be up to a little skullduggery, could he? Just a little shadow boxing, eh? Sending a coast guard cutter to halt the ship packing the junk airplanes. Superlative showmanship. Yokel pacifists shout hosannas. But the ruddy loyalists get the planes. Was it Puck who said, "What fools these mortals be"?

NED ALVORD.

SUPPOSE.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Suppose all the taxpayers who voted for Landon should start a sit-down strike. What would all the tax eaters who voted for F. D. R. do?

W. R. M.

THE STATE OF THE UNION.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—In his address to congress on the state of the Union Mr. Roosevelt says that the constitution is right, but then says he expects the court to distort the meaning of the English language and to read into it something that is neither in the letter nor the spirit of the constitution. Then he gives lip service to democracy and at the same time outlines a program of burocracy which is altogether irreconcilable with American democracy.

We could possibly change our constitution and live successfully under another form of government if it was done in a straightforward way, but this hypocrisy can only lead to confusion and chaos.

In this connection what is the Republican party doing? Isn't this the time for them to come out with a clean-cut platform of fundamental, basic American principles and to give every one, regardless of sectional or party affiliation, who believes in democracy something to rally around? Or should they continue the "smart" politics of the campaign and try to appeal to every organized minority with a more abundant New Deal?

F. H. K.

GERMS.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—I note that "police were instructed yesterday to begin arresting persons who violate the ancient city ordinance which prohibits spitting on the sidewalks. The offense carries a fine of from $1 to $5."

How about those men who sweep the sidewalks in front of all the business places and around the city hall and county building without using some kind of treated sawdust or other material such as is used in the stores and business places? This would be a great protection to the thousands of workers rushing through the fog of germ laden dust.

L. E. S.

WOULD THEY BE COMPETENT?

Chicago, Jan. 8.—I was one of the recent victims of the flu. My doctor tried very hard to get me a nurse, trained, practiced, or what have you, but without results.

There must be many women out of work; also widows who sit at home and twiddle their thumbs. I would suggest to those women to go to their neighborhood nursing association and register as volunteer nurses or notify their neighborhood doctor. If assigned to a case they will be performing a humane act and bringing a little diversion into their drab lives, besides earning a few needed dollars.

M. DANTZIG.

HE UNDERSTANDS.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—I understand that Hitler is going to present the Iron Cross to all members of congress for their great courage in defying mighty Spain and declaring the arms embargo.

NEW SHIP CRACKS IN TWO ON ROCKS IN GALE; 31 LOST

Lifeboat Tossed Ashore with Eight Survivors.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

KIRKWALL, Orkney Islands, Jan. 12.—Eight exhausted sailors, scrambling ashore from a surf-smashed lifeboat on South Ronaldshay beach, brought news today that the new 3,223 ton Finnish motorship, Johanna Thorden, had foundered on the Island of Swona or the Island of Stroma, in Pentland firth, early today. It is feared 31 persons were lost.

The vessel was returning to Helsingfors from New York on its maiden voyage. Battling through a southerly gale in the treacherous turmoil of waters racing between Scotland and the Orkney Islands, it crashed headlong into unlighted rocks in pitch darkness at 3:45 a. m.

The shock of the impact brought its radio gear crashing to the deck. The wireless operator, George Molius, was unable to send out an SOS. Capt. M. Simola ordered the crew to provision and launch lifeboats.

26 Missing In One Boat.

The four women, two children, and twenty members of the crew who got away in the first boat are missing. Capt. Simola and another man died in the second lifeboat, from which three others were swept overboard by terrific seas and drowned as the boat neared the shore of South Ronaldshay.

Dazed, Molius said in the little village of St. Margaret's Hope tonight that the first boat had contained the first, second, and third officers, the chief steward, the chief engineer, and several other engineers, seamen, and cabin boys.

One of the women was the wife of the chief engineer and one of the children was their 6 year old son. Another woman was the wife of a shipbuilding inspector accompanying the vessel on its maiden voyage.

"For the first six days after leaving New York on New Year's day for Gothenburg and Helsingfors with a cargo of automobiles, we had fine weather," Molius said. "Then gales came, first northwest, then south. It was terrible.

Ship Broken In Two.

"In pitch darkness at about 3:45 a. m. we struck what I thought was Pentland Skerries, but fishermen here say it must have been the Island of Swona or the neighboring Island of Stroma.

"The crew got the first boat away in about half an hour with twenty-six aboard. None of its company has been seen since. All the time we were loading the first boat our vessel was bumping and foundering on the rocks with every great wave. Ten minutes after the remaining thirteen of us had pushed off in the captain's boat, I saw the Johanna Thorden break in halves and sink.

"It was now blowing a hurricane. I thought we would never survive, but after drifting for six hours — we couldn't do more than keep the lifeboat headed into the gale—we saw waves thundering on the shore of this island, South Ronaldshay.

"We were all half dead. I thought some of those lying in the boat were already dead from exposure to the bitter wind and waves. Just as we were beaching the boat a wave caught it and hurled three men into the water. They were unable to help themselves and were drowned."

Japs Rage at Britain; Charge 'Plot' to Dominate China

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 13 [Wednesday].—The arrival here of W. M. Kirkpatrick, former member of the British parliament and now special representative of the export credit guarantee department of the British government, occasioned renewed anti-British attacks by local Japanese newspapers today.

They were similar to those directed at Sir Alexander Leith-Ross, chief economic adviser to the British government, when he came to China last year and assisted in the reorganization of Chinese currency.

Kirkpatrick will investigate Chinese-British trade in connection with the recent British grant of a $50,000,000 credit to China. The Japanese papers, reflecting the attitude of military authorities, charged that Britain "is striving to establish a permanent influence over the Chinese finance ministry. Britain is not only protecting its economic position, but is pressing its political designs in the far east," it is charged.

Jap Diplomat Protests.

The Shanghai Nichi Nichi, a Japanese paper, disclosed that Secretary Sato of the Japanese embassy in Peiping had made "strong representations" to the British ambassador, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, over British diplomatic activities in connection with the recent Sianfu incident, in which Dictator Chiang Kai-shek was kidnaped and held prisoner from Dec. 12 until Christmas day by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, former Manchurian war lord.

Nichi Nichi said Secretary Sato charged that the British ambassador tendered assistance to the Chinese Reds, with whom Marshal Chang was coöperating, thus indicating a tendency toward an alliance of the British with soviet Russia in the far east as an offset to the Japanese-German pact against communism.

Sato also was said to have referred to the part played by W. H. Donald, Australian adviser to the Nanking government, in the release of Gen. Chiang. Sato alleged that Donald conferred secretly with the British ambassador, indicating that the British possessed inside knowledge of the developments in the northwest, which are said to have included an alliance between the Red armies and the troops of Marshal Chang.

Denies Monopoly Plans.

Kirkpatrick today denied that he planned any monopolistic financial schemes. He said he welcomed the coöperation of foreign bankers and traders.

Nanking today announced a $20,000,000 loan contract with a Belgian banking group to cover the purchase of materials for and construction of a strategic railway connecting Chengtu, the capital of Szechuan province, with Paochi, Shensi province. The loan is guaranteed by the revenues of the line, when completed, plus a portion of the revenues of the Lunghai railway. It is expected to speed the development of the western territories along the Tibetan border.

Nanking also announced that rebels in Shensi had blown up bridges on the Lunghai railway west of Tungkwan pass. The government is sending troops for a possible civil war with the rebels.

TROTZKY BEGS 'LET ME ALONE' IN MEXICAN REFUGE

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Leon Trotzky, his blue eyes dancing, declared tonight, "I am ready to leave everybody in the entire world tranquil on one condition—that the world leave me tranquil."

The exile, recovering from his voyage from Norway to his new haven in Mexico, spoke in the villa of Senora Diego Rivera, at Coyoacan, just outside of Mexico City, in what he said he hoped would be his "last interview for the time being."

He admitted "I have no illusions" concerning the danger of an attempt on his life by his enemies, but said "danger is the element of war." In a prepared statement the former Russian leader referred to allegations he was a terroristic conspirator, saying:

"I state categorically that if there is 1 per cent of truth in these accusations and assertions my sojourn in this country would be an unspeakable abuse of the confidence granted me."

POPE SINKS AGAIN AFTER IGNORING DOCTORS' ORDERS

New Complications Arise; Suffers Intense Pain.

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Pope Pius suffered a relapse tonight, Vatican sources said, after a sinking spell earlier in the day. A considerable increase of the pain in his legs was reported, and attendants were worried lest the condition affect his heart.

A varicose condition in his right leg appeared to be developing in the same manner as in the left, in which a vein burst and caused open sores, it was said.

The pontiff, who is 79 years old, ignored the warning of his physician, Dr. Amanti Milani, by devoting himself actively ot affairs and holding audiences from his sick bed. He was exhausted late in the day, reliable informants declared, and he was given a stimulant.

Aware Death May Be Near.

These sources quoted a statement the pope made to a cardinal last week-end as an indication he was aware that death might not be far off:

"I must do my entire duty while the Master concedes me energy; my successor must not find things undone."

Italian newspapers for some days have been warning the public that the pope realizes his end is not far distant.

The Gazzetta del Popolo of Turin, in a dispatch from Rome said the pontiff had confined his readings of the lives of great popes recently to those chapters dealing with their deaths.

Reliable sources said Dr. Milani kept the pope from sinking until 3 o'clock this morning by his constant ministrations. Then the activity in the papal bedchamber quieted and anxious citizens of the holy see were assured their sovereign had successfully passed another period of torment.

Pope Gives Juliana Medal.

It was believed Dr. Milani spent the rest of the night in an ante-chamber of the sick room. It was thought certain that at least one of the medical attendants rested on a divan just outside the holy father's bedroom.

The pope ordered a medallion, designed to commemorate the Catholic Press exposition, sent to Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands as a wedding gift. The names of the princess and Prince Bernhard, Juliana's consort, were engraved on the medal.

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, conferred with the pontiff for an hour. Then Cardinal Mercati, Vatican librarian, called to bring the holy father some books. During the visit, the pope recalled his days as librarian.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Mr. Wenner's sister, Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner [Scherrenwels-Wenner], 619 North Michigan avenue, portrait painter, said yesterday that the body was found five days after the accident, and that an official investigation showed the death was accidental.

PUNISH FOUR FOR SEX OFFENSES; HUNT NEW MORON

Chicago judges took action against several men accused of sex offenses yesterday. Police meanwhile sought the moron who attempted to attack Miss Julia Welgoss, 21 years old, 2146 West Walton street, as she walked near her home earlier in the day.

William Beckman, 39 years old, 835 Diversey parkway, was given a six months' Bridewell sentence by Municipal Judge Eugene L. McGarry for contributing to the delinquency of a girl 6 years old. A motion for a new trial will be heard on Saturday. Judge McGarry also imposed a $200 fine on Michael Finn, 37 years old, 1220 Catalpa avenue, on a charge of indecent exposure.

Frank Kaluba, 59 years old, 1217 North Lincoln street, who was accused of annoying an 11 year old girl, was fined $25 by Municipal Judge Stephen Adamowski on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Eric Carlson, 21 years old, 1015 Newport avenue, who was charged with indecent exposure, was committed to the home for the feeble minded in Lincoln, Ill., by Municipal Judge Erwin J. Hasten.

A $200 fine for disorderly conduct against Joseph Lorenzo, 28 years old, 2254 Magnolia avenue, imposed after a 6 year old girl had accused him of annoying her in a motion picture theater on Saturday, was vacated by Municipal Judge Eugene L. McGarry yesterday after the girl admitted that she was mistaken in her identification.

BUILD EIGHT NEW OCEAN LINERS AS TRAVEL SPURTS

Congestion Expected on Ships This Year.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

In an effort to keep up with the mounting demand for steamship accommodations between this country and Europe, eight new trans-Atlantic liners, with an aggregate carrying capacity of nearly 10,000 passengers, have been ordered within the last few weeks. In each instance their construction either is already under way or will be before the end of the year.

This program, however, will not help relieve the congestion anticipated for the coming summer. None of the liners will be ready before 1938.

Several other new ships are under consideration, but so far definite plans for them have not been announced.

King George Heads List.

Heading the list is the Cunard-White Star's King George, sister ship of the Queen Mary. Now being built in the Clydeside shipyards of John Brown & Co., this superliner will have a tonnage of 82,000 and a capacity of 2,000 persons. For the present it is known simply as No. 552. Its speed will be about the same as that of its title holding sister, enabling it to make the voyage in four and one-half days. It will be launched in 1939 and placed in service in 1940.

The Cunard's Chicago offices yesterday received word that a contract for the building of an intermediate sized ship is being negotiated in London. The newcomer will have a gross tonnage of about 30,000 and a capacity of 500 in each of the three classes —cabin, tourist, and third. It will be capable of maintaining a speed of around 23 knots. It will be constructed near Liverpool by Cammell, Laird & Co. of Birkenhead.

Italian Line Plans 2 Ships.

Dispatches from Genoa report that the Italian line, "desirous of profit rather than publicity," is planning two new 25,000 ton ships. It is going on the theory that the mammoth vessels of other lines are only "floating debts," and that there will be less chance of running into operating losses on vessels of medium size.

For some time the United States lines have been figuring on a ship to complement the service of the Manhattan and Washington. Their plans have to be approved by the maritime commission in Washington, and to date there has been no agreement as to whether the ship should be a virtual duplication of the Manhattan or be streamlined. In either event, it will have a tonnage of around 30,000 and a capacity of 1,200.

Nieuw Amsterdam — the original name of New York City—is the title decided upon for the sister ship of the Holland-America line's Statendam. Entering the trans-Atlantic service in the spring of 1938, it will have 33,000 tons and a capacity of 1,400 passengers.

Equipped with Diesel motors, the Swedish-American line's Stockholm will be ready the latter part of next year. It will be slightly larger than its sister ship, the Kungsholm, and, like that motor vessel, will be designed especially for cruising. Its summertime crossings to Scandinavia will be followed by winter cruises to the West Indies. Its tonnage is to be 25,000 and its carrying capacity 1,400 passengers.

Blueprints for the Norwegian America line's Oslofjord have been forwarded to a German shipyard, with the prospect that the vessel will go into service in March, 1938. It will make the run from New York to Norway in seven days. It will have 15,000 tons and room for 800 passengers.

These eight liners will be additions to, rather than substitutions for, ships now operating in the Atlantic. With one possible exception, there is no ship scrapping in sight. The lone exception lies in the possibility that, with the debut of the King George three years hence, either the Aquitania or the Berengaria will be withdrawn from service.

Plans of other companies are largely in the "rumor" class. With the average age of its fleet only seven years, the French line does not plan new construction this year. Neither does the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd, the Arnold Bernstein-Red Star line, the Anchor line, the Gdynia America line, nor the American Scantic line. The American Export lines are awaiting the formulating of policy on the part of the maritime commission.

Nearly Every Liner Jammed.

There have been reports that the Canadian Pacific will build five new ships, each with a tonnage of 25,000 and a speed of 25 knots, but the reports have not been confirmed. If ordered, the five probably will be used on the company's Canadian-Australasian and trans-Pacific runs.

The need for more space on the ships operating between America and Europe was shown last summer when nearly every liner was jammed to capacity. Two examples of the gain in trafic were announced this week. With its associate, the Donaldson Atlantic line, Cunard-White Star last year carried 176,104 passengers across the Atlantic—an increase of 25 per cent over 1935. The Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd carried 144,431 passengers—an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year's total.

That's what explorers have been trying to find out for 2,000 years. The site is the goal of an expedition that set forth recently, with a caravan of 200 camels, overland through Ruba-Al Khali, or the Great Arabian desert. Many adventurers have lost their lives in their search for the city. The members of most expeditions were either captured and killed by Arabian tribesmen or died of thirst. The present group is traveling by auto from the seaport at Sana. Its members will change to camels at the edge of the desert. Food has been sent ahead and hidden in underground caches. While tracing a route to Naith in 1934, flyers discovered towers which they believed to be those of the Sabean capital. The exact site of these towers is uncharted, but it is believed to be near the Persian gulf, about 1,000 miles southeast of Jerusalem.

THEATERS WIN RIGHT TO APPEAL PRIZE NIGHT BAN

Judge Grover C. Niemeyer of the Superior court yesterday granted a certificate enabling attorneys for thirty-four movie theaters to appeal directly to the Illinois Supreme court from his ruling of Monday which held theater prize drawings illegal.

Attorney Edmund D. Adcock, who represented the thirty-four theaters in opposing the city's motion to dissolve a temporary injunction, said the appeal will be filed in time for the April term of the Supreme court.

400 HEAR PLEA TO KEEP HOSPITALS IN PRIVATE HANDS

Evils of Burocrat Rule Told Trustees.

The Chicago Hospital council last night heard pleas to combat the "dumping" of voluntary or nonprofit hospitals into the lap of the government and warnings against trends which would place all social institutions within a governmental framework.

The occasion was a dinner at the Congress hotel attended by 400 trustees and staf members of Chicago hospitals as guests of Charles H. Schweppe, president of the council. It marked the end of the first year of the group's work. Mr. Schweppe was the 1,000th subscriber to Plan for Hospital Care, low cost group hospitalization plan originated by the council.

Two Guest Speakers.

Principal speakers were Homer Wickenden, director of the United Hospital fund, New York, and Dr. Robert C. Buerki, superintendent of the Wisconsin State General hospital at Madison.

Mr. Wickenden questioned whether the government should have to bear responsibility for solution of social maladjustments. He also asked whether the present trend toward wider distribution of wealth would leave sources of income for support of voluntary social institutions.

"If you and I take the position that our hospital problems should not be dumped on the government and that we should fight to keep our hospitals as voluntary institutions we must have some definite grounds for this position when we undertake to persuade our friends to fight with us," said Mr. Wickenden."

Praises Voluntary Hospitals.

He called "red tape, inflexibility, and pressure of taxpayers to reduce the budget" the chief faults of government hospitals and declared that voluntary hospitals have a spirit which cannot be preserved under governmental operation and control. Mr. Wickenden told of the work done by unpaid trustees and medical staf members to give the patient the best possible medical care.

Dr. Buerki referred to Chicago's eminence as a medical center with five medical schools, 100 hospitals owning real property valued at 90 million dollars, and headquarters of national medical and hospital associations. In praising Mr. Schweppe's leadership he urged the council to survey the special hospital needs of Chicago and define them so that the huge investment in voluntary public health institutions can be utilized with maximum efficiency.

'EXTRA-FARE' AIR SERVICE TO N. Y. OPENS NEXT WEEK

Non-stop service between Chicago and New York will be inaugurated by United Air Lines next Tuesday in the "world's first and only extra-fare" airplanes—the company's new skylounge Douglas DC-3 machines. This was announced yesterday by W. A. Patterson, president of the airline. The extra fare, a 3 per cent increase over the regular rates, will be charged for seats on the 14 passenger club airliners which will make two daily round trips between the two cities.

Patterson said that the airline in charging extra fare is following the practice of railroads and ocean transport companies. He pointed out that the payload of the skylounge planes has been reduced 30 per cent to provide more comfort.

Eastbound trips will be made in 3 hours 55 minutes and westbound trips in 4 hours 45 minutes. The prevailing westerly winds account for the time differential.

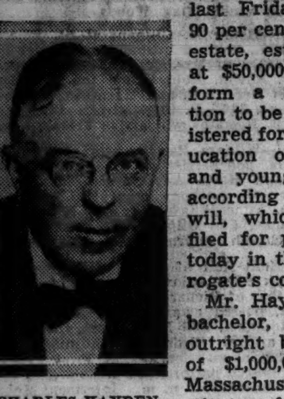
BANKER LEAVES 45 MILLIONS TO AID NEEDY BOYS

Chas. Hayden Provides for Education, Recreation.

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Charles Hayden, the banker, who died last Friday, left 90 per cent of his estate, estimated at $50,000,000, to form a foundation to be administered for the education of boys and young men, according to his will, which was filed for probate today in the Surrogate's court.



CHARLES HAYDEN.

Mr. Hayden, a bachelor, left an outright bequest of $1,000,000 to Massachusetts Institute of Technology, $2,000,000 in trust to his brother, Josiah Willard Hayden, and nearly $2,000,000 to friends and employés. Among friends who will benefit from the estate is the Princess de Braganza, the former Miss Anita Stewart, who will receive for life the income from a trust fund of $500,000. The princess is the widow of Prince Miguel de Braganza, pretender to the Portuguese throne. A long time friend of Hayden and is a daughter of William Rhinelander Stewart.

"Long Cherished Aim."

"In disposing of my residuary estate," Mr. Hayden said in his will, "I have had two thoughts in mind. My first duty is to my own. I never have married, and as my brother is amply provided for, I consider it my duty to endeavor to so arrange that my residuary estate shall be held, administered, and disposed of so that the greatest good may result therefrom to the greatest number.

"It long has been my cherished aim and purpose, and it is my will, to establish a foundation to acquire the bulk of my fortune, the income from which, and if need be the principal also, shall be employed in the education of boys and young men, especially in the advancement of their moral, mental, and physical well being."

General Scope Outlined.

The testator decreed that the general scope of the Charles Hayden Foundation should be:

"1. To assist needy boys and young men.

"2. To aid and assist in charitable and public educational uses and purposes for the moral, mental, intellectual, and physical well being, uplifting, building, and development of boys and young men of this country.

"3. To found and/or to provide scholarships for deserving boys and young men of this country, and for graduates or undergraduates of colleges and to assist them in attending any educational institution in this country or abroad.

"4. To assist in and/or to found, equip or provide for the maintenance of institutions or associations for the advancement of learning in this country.

Provides Recreation Centers.

"5. To aid, assist, build, equip, and maintain clubs, gymnasiums, and recreation centers in this country for the training and development of boys and young men.

"6. To aid and assist and to receive, hold, administer, and dispose of property to or for the benefit of any university, college, school, or other institution for the advancement of learning or of any branch or department thereof or for the benefit of any hospital or of any branch or department thereof."

DEMANDS PROOF OF KIN'S CLAIM ON ROSENBERG

Mrs. Annette Rosenberg, widow of Moe Rosenberg, west side politician, filed an answer yesterday in the Probate court, demanding "strict proof" of the claim of her husband's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg, to $51,028.37 from the estate.

Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg alleges she had a half interest in the Cook County Trust company, organized by the politician. It was sold in 1932, the name being changed to the Metropolitan Trust company. Since then Rosenberg's widow, as administratrix of his estate, has peen paid $51,028.37.

Mrs. Annette Rosenberg's petition, filed by the law firm of McInerney, Epstein, and Arvey, asserts she knows that her husband and his sister-in-law were associated in the trust, but that she is not advised as to the extent or nature of Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg's interest. The latter is the widow of Moe's brother, Michael.

U. S. Appeals Court Upholds Labor Board; Kills Injunctions

The National Labor Relations board's right to assume jurisdiction in collective bargaining disputes between industrial employés and employers was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in a decision handed down here yesterday.

The opinion, unanimously rendered by Judges Will M. Sparks, Walter C. Lindley, and Charles G. Briggle, held that five concerns in the Chicago area which have obtained injunctions restraining the labor relations board from interference are not entitled to them.

The court did not rule on constitutionality of the act creating the board, but simply said the petitioning concerns did not have a case in equity until they had exhausted the resources of law.

Different Procedure Necessary.

In other words, the concerns which questioned constitutionality of the act should have carried that question before the labor board itself, and then appealed the decision, if adverse, to the United States Supreme court for a decision on the law's constitutionality.

Concerns involved are Clayton Mark & Co. of Chicago, which obtained its injunction from Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward; the A. J. Lindemann and Hoverson company, and the Marathon Electric Manufacturing corporation of Milwaukee; the J. I. Case company of Racine, Wis., and the Highway Trailer company of Edgerton, Wis. The Wisconsin companies obtained injunctions from Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger of Milwaukee.

The injunctions restrained the National Labor Relations board from subpenaing witnesses, books and records and holding hearings on complaints of employés in regard to collective bargaining. The companies alleged that they were engaged in intra-state commerce, and that, moreover, the National Labor Relations act was unconstitutional.

Remedy Is Chief Question.

"The question of prime importance," the opinion stated, "is whether plaintifs are about to suffer an injury for which the law courts afford no adequate redress. If they have an adequate remedy at law, they must choose it rather than invoke the equitable jurisdiction of the court.

"The contention is made in all of the cases that the employers are engaged solely in intra-state commerce and that therefore the act [national Labor Relations act] does not apply to them, or if it does, is unconstitutional. Conceding that such contentions are well founded, we think that an adequate forum has been provided by the terms of the act for presentation and determination of these questions. That the parties may be subjected to expense, annoyance and inconvenience is no adequate reason for invoking the aid of equity, as expense, annoyance, and inconvenience are present in some degree in all litigation; they are but incidental and burdens of civilized government."

Cites Other Appealed Cases.

The opinion then points out that in other cases the plaintifs have taken their complaints before the labor board and then appealed to the United States Supreme court.

"A study of the act," the opinion concludes, "convinces us that the act itself affords an adequate and exclusive procedure for a consideration of all the questions here involved without invoking the equitable jurisdiction of the court. Our conclusion upon this point renders unnecessary the consideration of other questions."

WPA'S DIORAMA MAP OF CITY TO SHOW SUBURBS

Oak Park, Berwyn, Cicero, and other suburbs will be added to a huge diorama map of Chicago that is being constructed by the federal Works Progress administration, according to Col. M. O. Kasson, director of the project. For nearly a year his workers have been toiling on the city diorama, which is almost complete, and on a relief map of Illinois.

Most of the 387,000 buildings of the city, carved to scale in wood and painted, are in place on the map, enabling Chicagoans to see the tiny replicas of their home and office buildings, Col. Kasson said yesterday. The suburbs included contain an additional 63,000 structures.

ROTARY HAS 4,101 CLUBS; 108 BEGUN IN LAST 6 MONTHS

In six months 108 new Rotary clubs have been formed. This development, the largest in the history of Rotary, brings its roll of clubs to 4,101.

Officers of Rotary International, assembling here yesterday for their semi-annual board meeting, which will continue all week, heard this report of growth and began making plans for redistricting administrative units.

California, it was pointed out, has 169 Rotary clubs, but is all one district controlled by one governor. Redistricting is necessary, officials said, so that smaller administrative units can be formed.

PAYLESS PERIOD STARTING FEB. 5 PERILS SCHOOLS

Expect Delay in Relief from Legislature.

The danger of payless pay days in the Chicago Public school system during February and at least part of March confronts the 17,900 teachers and other employés of the board of education. This was revealed yesterday by the school financial records which showed a balance available sufficient to cover only the $2,000,000 payroll due January 22. School officials said there would be no money to meet the Feb. 5 payroll and subsequent ones until they can sell tax warants on the 1937 levy, and this levy cannot be perfected until the legislature approves a pegged levy for the schools.

Officials of the board have estimated, in the tentative 1937 budget, that $45,000,000 must be raised by a pegged levy to meet the needs this year. In the absence of such a levy the system will be forced to operate on its old statutory tax rate of $1.60. This would bring only $30,400,000, a sum $14,600,000 under the estimated amount required.

Plan to Speed New Bill.

The school system has been operated on a pegged levy during 1935 and 1936 but does not yet have such a levy for the new year. A bill providing for the new pegged levy will be introduced as soon as school officials see an opportunity for consideration of the measure by the general assembly.

A pegged levy is a device adopted by local governments when they were hard pressed for revenue due to failure of tax collections during the depression. By this device the tax rate is put at a point sufficiently high to "peg" the revenue at a definite amount, instead of fixing a definite rate, letting the revenue fall where it may.

Assembly Calendar Crowded.

The legislature organized last week then adjourned until Jan. 26. A perfunctory session is to be held at that time but, according to leaders, the calendar is too crowded for consideration of a Chicago school bill.

The earliest date, therefore, when a bill for the pegged levy will be considered, will be Feb. 2 at the reconvened session. Legislative leaders are of the opinion that other bills on the calendar will be taken up before the levy measure.

Because the bill is likely to be referred to committees of the house and senate, it is possible Chicago will not win approval of a pegged levy until the end of next month. A two-thirds majority, or 102 votes, is needed for passage of the bill.

With this done, the school board must adopt its 1937 budget of $74,121,005. It then goes to the city council which, according to law, must approve the school tax levy before it becomes valid.

Ten days must expire after this action is taken before the school board is legally permitted to sell 1937 tax warants and obtain pay roll funds. Employés of the public school system, including the 13,180 teachers, have not had payless paydays for two and one-half years.

Before that, because of revenue failures employés went through long periods without pay. Part of their salaries were paid in script.

PEORIA $30,000,000 'ESTATE' CAUSES STIR IN PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Paris got excited today about a mythical American fortune, the claimant going so far as to speculate that, "since the United States is on the way back to prosperity, Uncle Sam could pay her the $30,000,000 without feeling it too much."

The hopes were told in a front page story of Le Matin which said Mme. Arthur Philippe, wife of a Paris teacher, was filing an action demanding a share in the huge estate left by Adelaide Cagnet Cole of Peoria forty years ago and turned over to the county by the court. Mrs. Cole was described as the proprietor of unconventional places in a northern town where trappers and lumberjacks spent their wages. Mme. Philippe claimed to be a daughter of a first cousin of Mrs. Cole.

Mere $8,000 in Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Adelaide Cagnet Cole, who died in Peoria forty years ago, left property valued at $8,000 which was turned over to the County court, a search of the records disclosed today. Further information disclosed that Mrs. Cole operated a house of ill fame and on her death her common law husband, David Welsh, tried unsuccessfully to obtain possession of her property.

DESCENDANT OF NAPOLEON TAKEN BY DEATH AT 80

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Count Gaston Leon, a grandson of Napoleon Bonaparte, died today in the village of Montaut, in Landes department. He was 80 years old and sold dictionaries for a living. His father, Count Leon, was an illegitimate son of the great Napoleon, born on Dec. 15, 1806. Count Gaston's grandmother was Eleanore Danuelle de la Pleigne, whom Napoleon met and fell in love with on his return from victory at Austerlitz. Eleanore, at 20, was the divorced wife of a captain of dragoons, Francois Revel.

Napoleon behaved generously toward Eleanore's son, providing him with nurse girls, tutors and an annual income of 12,000 francs, when the franc was worth much more than now. Finally, before quitting the throne, he gave the count 100,000 francs.

But Count Leon could not handle money and swiftly fell into debt, was imprisoned, fought several duels and went to England. Napoleon III. provided him a pension, but Leon died at Pontoise, near Paris, in misery in 1881. He left numerous descendants.

BARNEY FAGAN, SONG WRITER, COMEDIAN, DIES

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Barney Fagan, composer and old time minstrel star, died on his 87th birthday today in a hospital at Bayshore, Long Island. He was a native of Boston.

His last appearance on Broadway was in 1926 with George Jessel in "The Jazz Singer," but during the last 25 years of the nineteenth century Fagan became internationally famous as a burnt cork comedian. His wife, as well known on the vaudeville stage under the name of Henrietta Byron as he was, died several years ago.

As a composer he was noted for "My Gal Is a High Born Lady," and for "When the Robins Nest Again."

Fagan also wrote the comedy "Paradise Alley," in which he starred.

BLIND MATCH SELLER DIES; IDENTIFIED AS ACTOR'S STEPFATHER

MANCHESTER, England, Jan. 12.—(AP)—"Blind Dan" Maxted, itinerant match seller, died today, less than a month after learning he was the stepfather of Wallace Ford, the British actor. Maxted was 65 years old.

Ford, who was born in 1899, was left at a London orphanage when he was very young and did not know his parents. Last month he decided, after reading hundreds of letters from women claiming him as their son, that "Blind Dan's" wife was his mother.

He bought a little cottage outside Manchester for the woman, who is 56 years old, and her husband, who had been living in an auto trailer. They had planned to move into their new home soon.

WIDOW IS HELD IN EVANSTON ON DOCTOR'S CHARGE

Dr. Benjamin H. Huggins of Evanston in the depression years gave Mrs. Beatrice Roblee, 30 years old, the widow of a friend, a needed job. She helped him collect old debts, and later he made her bookkeeper in his office at 636 Church street.

Recently Dr. Huggins met a patient, who remarked that his $100 bill had been paid. The physician investigated, and discovered that neither this money nor other sums had been credited to his bank account. He notified the Evanston police, who arrested Mrs. Roblee in her home at 411 Fullerton parkway.

Judge Harry H. Porter of the Evanston municipal court fixed her bond at $7,500. Unable to meet the bond, police were about to lock her up when Dr. Huggins intervened and arranged for her to be held in an Evanston hotel in custody of a police matron until Friday, when Mrs. Rublee will be given a hearing on an embezzlement charge.

MAYOR CONFERS WITH COURT ON TRACTION TANGLE

Report Progress on Unification Plan.

Mayor Kelly conferred for an hour and a half yesterday in the United States courthouse with Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on settlement of Chicago's traction problem. Judge Wilkerson has jurisdiction over both the Chicago Surface Lines, which have been in receivership for ten years, and the Chicago Rapid Transit company—the elevated lines—which is seeking to reorganize under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act.

After the conference Mayor Kelly said he had discussed with Judge Wilkerson various phases of the local transit problems, and that he had informed the judge the city council has been coöperating with officials of the surface lines in trying to arrive at an agreement on a new franchise ordinance.

Surface Lines to Report.

The surface lines, whose plan for consolidation and financial reorganization has been approved tentatively by the court, are to report to Judge Wilkerson late this month on the progress they have made toward getting a franchise.

Earlier in the day the judge set Jan. 22 for a hearing on the question of whether or not the L company should be reorganized under section 77B. Efforts have been made to have the property of the company sold under foreclosure. Its affairs have been administered for several years by the court under equity proceedings.

In a more uproarious sector of the transit negotiations, aldermen of the local transportation committee rose to oratorical heights and engaged in bitter repartee in their city hall committee room over various phases of the problem, but principally over the proposal to establish feeder buses on Foster and Kimball avenues.

Long Fight for Buses.

For more than two and one-half years, the committee was told, residents of the northwest side of the city have asked for feeder bus lines on Foster avenue between Milwaukee avenue and the Berwyn elevated station, and on Kimball avenue between Peterson avenue and the intersection of Diversey boulevard and Milwaukee avenue. A large majority of these residents and the five aldermen from that area, it was said, know what they want, but have difficulty in getting it.

"We have worked for feeder buses for thirty months," said Mrs. William R. Gross, 4325 North Ashland avenue, president of the Amundsen Parent-Teacher association. "We cannot understand why the aldermen continue to bicker about it. A political football is being made out of this needed service and we'll remember it at the polls."

"You're not going to defeat any one," interposed Ald. Frank E. Konkowski [26th].

Woman Speaker Undaunted.

Undaunted by the remark, Mrs. Gross went on to say that the residents are overwhelmingly in favor of having the buses operated by the surface lines. In subsequent debate the long battle between the elevated and the surface lines for the privilege of operating the feeder buses was discussed. Mrs. Gross' share in it aroused Ald. George D. Kells [28th].

"Are you an agent of the surface lines?" he asked.

Mrs. Gross made an indignant denial. "I want only what the community needs and what it wants," she retorted. "Eighty-five per cent of the people want the surface line buses."

A vote on the buses was made a special order of business before the committee at a meeting to be held next Tuesday.

RARIN' BRIDGES THROW 303,000 MINUTES AWAY

Trafic Delayed 81,000 Times in Year.

Boats in the Chicago and Calumet rivers delayed land trafic 303,763 minutes during 1936, according to a compilation prepared yesterday by William J. Lynch, city harbormaster. The city's 55 spans lifted during the year a total of 81,426 times for vessel passages.

The number of openings was 25,435 more than in 1935, an increase of 45 per cent. In 1935, the bridges were open only 215,961 minutes. City officials saw in the 1936 figures a reflection of improved business conditions. Land trafic saw that it stood idle before uplifted spans a total of 213 full days or 639 eight hour days.

Increases of openings of the sixteen downtown bridges from Michigan avenue to Van Buren street, over which flows the heavy trafic into and out of the downtown business district, accounted for 43 per cent of the total increase. These sixteen bridges were opened 33,207 times, compared with 22,146 in 1935, an increase of 11,061.

The figures disclose that the eight bridges from Michigan avenue to Franklin street increased their openings from 13,583 in 1935 to 20,973 in 1936, an increase of 54 per cent. The other eight bridges between Lake and Van Buren streets opened 8,563 times in 1935, and 12,234 times in 1936, an increase of 43 per cent.

Wabash	1,617	2,582	4.0

The new North Ashland avenue bridge has been in service only since Aug. 20. The old bascule bridge in South Ashland avenue has been abandoned and a temporary swing bridge was placed in service on Oct. 7. There were no openings of the 134th street bridge after last Aug. 15.

FIVE RAIL UNIONS BEGIN MANEUVER FOR WAGE RAISE

Chiefs of 300,000 in Conference Here.

Four hundred officials and committee chiefs of the five railroad brotherhoods assembled here yesterday at the Morrison hotel to formulate demands for a general wage increase on behalf of nearly 300,000 railway employés whom they represent.

According to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, largest of the transportation unions, yesterday's closed sessions were largely in the nature of organization meetings.

Each of the five unions appointed four members to a committee which will submit formal recommendations on the wage matter to the general conference today. The gathering is to end tomorrow.

"So far as I know," said D. B. Robinson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, "nothing except wages will be considered by this meeting."

It was asserted that the movement for a 30 hour week on the railroads, which is urged by certain groups of labor is not to be taken up.

Robinson commented that the transportation unions work on a mileage basis and not on the basis of a set number of hours each week.

When an agreement is reached by the five unions on the amount of pay increase to be asked, Robinson said, the next step will be for the brotherhoods to serve notice of their demands on the railroads in accordance with the provisions of the railway labor act. Within 30 days of the presentation of such notice negotiations start between employés and the railroads.

The last basic wage increase for railroad employés was won in 1927. Railroad workers took a 10 per cent pay roll reduction in 1932 which was gradually restored during 1934 and 1935.

The three unions, in addition to those of Whitney and Robinson, which make up the five brotherhoods are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railroad Conductors and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

These five organizations include railroad employés in the so-called running trade or train service classifications.

Studio Designers Unite for Market Week.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Pre-war fabrics, coronation colors, floating gowns and embroideries from Austria will be shown by motion picture designers to visiting attire men here tomorrow night.

The occasion is Los Angeles' annual fashion week, with 4,000 American buyers the incentive for this co-operative effort by 17 studio couturiers. Together in a fashion show for the first time, they will discover a single mind on many subjects.

All approve shorter daytime skirts, at 13½ to 15 inches, depending on individual preference. All agree that exaggerated sleeves should be replaced by those which stress shoulder breadth in a more casual manner.

But there their unanimity ends.

Travis Banton illustrates his insistence on flexibility in evening clothes by carrying chiffons, organdies and such right through the winter season. He presents Gladys Swarthout's "champagne waltz" dress of silver gray organdy, with its flounces edged in silver thread, its sleeves short, with the peasant theme carried into silver daisies used in the hair and to make a bracelet.

Orry Kelly and Ernest Dryden use the far western theme. . . . Draped harem hemlines, draped turbans worn far back on the head, bright colored cummerbunds and high heeled, open toted sandals.

Milo Anderson sponsors redingotes, boxy daytime capes, medium crowned Breton sailors and the kind of feminine clothes that grandma wore, but in slimmer, softer and more subtly fashioned modern versions.

Walter Plunket and Dolly Tree mark the coronation by brilliant jewel accents, lots of gold, metal and crown jewel stones in massive jewelry. John Hardrider is against short skirts and cites Alice Brady's hostess gown, alluring as a Chinese print, and Binnie Barnes' evening dress of studded lether as examples of modernity.

Adrian suggests a mode militaire in Joan Crawford's mustard colored spectator suit with its drum major cordons and pinched black coat, feminized with a tiny Peter Pan collar of brown velvet.

Royer espouses uneven hemlines, shortened overskirts, flamboyant prints, open-crowned turbans and printed lined shoes. Ernest Schraps translates the vogue for beads into western sports language by using Indian beaded belts, pockets, cuffs and collars.

Leaving Child in Wrong Hands Is Poor Policy

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It is much easier to plan for the second baby than for the first. With a background of practical experience, and probably baby clothes and crib and scales already on hand, you can laugh at the doubts and worries that assailed you before your first child arrived. You can assemble a layette, talk to your doctor, and balance or unbalance your budget for the newcomer with wholehearted pleasure.

Among all the plans you make for the new baby there is a plan you should try to make for the first one, who may be scarcely more than a baby herself. That plan concerns the time when you are away at the hospital and for some time after you come back, before you are able to take the helm again.

Who is going to take care of your elder little son or daughter during that time? If it is the wrong person it will be hard on the child and may undo much of your own good management. You may find yourself greeted with behavior troubles on your return when you have a new baby on your hands and feel least fitted to cope with such troubles.

A surprising number of mothers have found difficulties when they came home from the hospital, difficulties which were due to what happened in their absence—overindulgence, or too much strictness, or some way of handling children radically different from their own.

Of course, if there are persons in your family who understand your first child and can step in and run your house, or carry the youngster off for a happy visit with them, that makes it quite simple. Otherwise, try as tactfully as you can to have the relative or friend who is best for that small son or daughter take charge of him or her while you are away. Or, if it is necessary for you to have paid assistance, let it be a person, if possible, with whom the child is familiar and who is fond of him.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in the Sunday Tribune.

Greet 1,200 Guests at White House Party for Judiciary

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight held the second of the state receptions of the season, entertaining in honor of the chief justice and associate justices of the Supreme court and other members of the judiciary and their wives.

More than 1,200 men and women, including many distinguished guests from all parts of the country, were in the long line of guests headed by the chief justice and Mrs. Hughes.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt received alone in the Blue room. When greetings had been exchanged the President withdrew, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, who returned afterward to join the guests in the state dining room, and remained with them for another hour, and to watch the dancing in the East room.

Sour Cream Is Excellent Aid in Veal Dishes

Gives Meat New Flavor, Makes It Tender.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Modern refrigeration has given us crisp vegetables and frozen salads, but in payment it has taken away our sour cream. Today we've almost forgotten how delicious veal is cooked in sour cream.

Fortunately for us, the milkman will deliver sour cream to the back door at almost any time. [As an added tip, cream may quickly be soured by adding 2 tablespoons lemon juice to 1 cup cream.]

Sour cream not only gives veal an unusually good flavor, but the acid in it helps in making the meat tender and adds a tang to gravy.

Veal Kidney Chops in Sour Cream

Veal kidney chops
Flour or crums
Fat for browning
Salt
Pepper
Sour cream

Have the chops cut an inch thick. Dredge them in flour or fine crums and brown on both sides in hot fat. Add seasonings and sour cream [½ cup will be enough for four to six chops] and cover the pan. Cook over a low fire for about 45 minutes, until the chops are tender.

Paprika of Veal

[Serves 4-6]

2 pounds veal breast or shank
2 tablespoons fat
1 onion, cut fine
1 tablespoon paprika, salt, pepper
1 tablespoon flour
½ cup sour cream

Have the veal boned and cut into 1 inch cubes. Brown the onion slightly in the fat, add the veal cube, and allow them to brown. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, add paprika and enough hot water to cover. Cook slowly in a covered pan for 45 minutes to 1 hour, add the sour cream, and thicken the liquid with the flour smoothed in a little cold water. Serve in a rice ring or in "bread baskets" made by hollowing out 2 inch slices of bread and toasting them in the oven.

Breaded Veal Chops in Sour Cream Gravy

[Serves 4]

4 veal loin or rib chops
1 cup fine seasoned bread crums
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup sour cream
1 cup water
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt, pepper

Beat the egg with the milk. Dip the chops into the fine, dry bread crums, then into the egg and milk mixture, and again into the crums. Brown the chops on both sides in the hot fat, reduce the temperature, cover closely, and cook over a low fire for 45 minutes, or until tender. Remove to a hot platter. Stir into the drippings in the pan the flour smoothed in 1 cup of cold water and cook until thickened. Add the sour cream, sugar, salt, and pepper. Serve to accompany the breaded chops.

Veal Birds Cuisine

[Serves 6]

2 slices veal round
6 slices bacon
½ pound ground fresh pork
1½ cups crums
1 small onion, minced
1 cup top milk

Have the veal round cut ¼ to ½ inch thick. Cut each slice into pieces for individual servings. Chop the bacon and brown it together with the pork. Combine with crums, adding onion, salt, and pepper. Place a spoonful of the mixture on each piece of veal, roll and fasten with woodpins. Brown in hot fat, add the top milk, and cook the veal birds in a covered casserole in a slow oven, about 300 degrees. About an hour will be required.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily instalments.

THE DEFENDERS' FORCING BID.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

The rules of forcing bids described in this chapter have applied only to the side which opened the bidding. The defenders, because they enter the bidding when it already has been opened, face a different problem. At least one of their opponents, who has made an opening bid, probably has about three honor tricks. Against such a strong hand it is not often that a player may be certain of game. The procedure of the defenders is, therefore, to show strength by about the same sort of forcing bids that the opening side used, but not to make them entirely forcing, to leave partner the option of passing.

A defender's jump overcall of two, when one more than necessary, is a strength showing bid, but may be passed.

A jump take-out of a simple overcall, when made in a new suit, also is a strong bid, but may, at times, be passed when the overcall is a particularly weak one. For example:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 diamond	Pass	2 spades

East's bid tells West that game is in sight if the one diamond overcall was a good, sound one. With about one and one-half honor tricks or even slightly less, West is supposed to bid again.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened his fourth best spade, and dummy's king went to East's ace. Declarer won the spade return and considered his resources. One diamond, two spades, and two club tricks totaled only five and, even if the heart king were onside, the ninth trick would have to be obtained either in clubs or diamonds.

It was apparent that if the diamond jack were held doubleton by either defender, the contract would be safe. In addition, if the diamond jack did not fall, but was held by East, West could have only one entry, and thus would not be able both to establish and get in again to cash his long spades. As against this diamond analysis, the 3-3 break in the club suit that would be required for its establishment was not at all attractive, especially since the heart finesse would be necessary also.

So declarer led the diamond queen. West won and, seeing nothing better to do, cleared the spade suit. But now declarer, on winning the spade return, laid down the diamond king. Then, when the jack failed to appear, he took a heart finesse and led dummy's ten of diamonds.

It was a tense moment for the declarer, waiting to see which adversary should win this with the jack. Obviously, if it had been West he would have cashed two good spade tricks, but when East came up with that vital card, declarer's troubles were over and four odd became a laydown.

Daily Brushing Is Essential to Loveliness of the Hair

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you want to know the proper technique of hair brushing?

Or do you want to know anything about hair brushing at all? Regretfully, many women still aren't interested. Well, I say, if you aren't interested yourself, please don't extend the indifference to your young daughters. I can't tell you how appalled I am at the dandruff rate among young ones these days. It seems to me that every mother I know is complaining about it. Complaining and trying out recommended salves which the youngsters hate, but never looking to the brush as the most active of scalp stimulants.

Mothers, it is your fault if your girls grow up with poor hair. Here's one item on which you can outdo nature. I've seen, in three outstanding cases within my own acquaintanceship, how a mother can make over her growing girl's head of hair from rather scrawny looking locks into real crowns of glory. I think of one of these particularly as hopeless looking in the beginning with a family record behind her of hair that was nothing to brag about. Yet her mother managed, by her consistent brushing morn and night, with extra brushing Saturdays and Sundays, to work that child's hair into something gorgeous—thick and with a vitalized tone and color to the hair. It certainly can be done.

But about the new technique: Don't brush the hair down flat to your head. Don't do this with your own or the youngsters' hair. Brush back of the head from hairline to crown. Begin at the neckline and work up, going from ear to ear and repeating as many times as the arm will hold out. Then circle the face from ear to ear with the brushing, going from scalp to ends of hair.

Take up small sections at a time until the entire head is brushed. There's nothing like it to send the blood surging up to nourish the scalp and hair follicles. You can't get hair lubrication without working up gland activity in the scalp itself. Fluff your hair with your fingers and short strokes of the brush. In other words, do all your brushing on the up-and-up and by taking your hair in sections, getting the bristles right into the scalp, where the best work is accomplished.

Writing Called Real Signpost of One's Health

Diseases' Hold Revealed by Penmanship.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions, by following these rules:

1. Send a sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Postoffice, Box 1720.
2. Inclose 10 cents [carefully wrapped] for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Inclose a self-addressed STAMPED envelope folded once.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.
[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

Handwriting is a great help in determining health and vitality. In some countries of Europe doctors use graphology to a great extent and many in Germany have written extensive books regarding the diseases revealed by handwriting.

Sometimes it is hard to get over the habit of thinking ourselves ill when our health is in fine condition. A girl at a summer camp once said to me: "Everything you have mentioned is correct except the part about my health. You said that I am well and that my nerves are in good shape."

I looked at her handwriting again, very carefully, and I nodded.

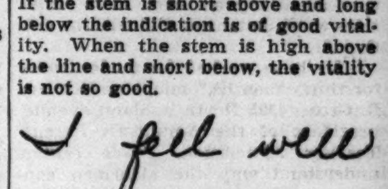
"That's not true," she exclaimed. "I came up here because I suffered from nervous indigestion all spring."

"You haven't been troubled since you came here, have you?" I asked.

She thought a minute and started to laugh. "Why, no! Now that I think of it I've been perfectly well for weeks. How could you ever tell?"

Three things had told me. The writing had a firm, even pressure. The baseline was very even. The lower loops were rather long and full. When the baseline of a writing has been straight and steady and then for no apparent reason begins to droop or waver, something is wrong. A sharp change in the base line is an alarming condition. Sudden changes in pressure also are unusual and not often for the best.

All well-developed lower loops show vitality and strength. Letters "f" and "p" are especially worth notice. If the stem is short above and long below the indication is of good vitality. When the stem is high above the line and short below, the vitality is not so good.



This is a normal, healthy, cheerful handwriting. The lines of writing are steady with a slightly upward slant toward the end. The lower loops of the letters "f," "p," and "y" are full and long with a steady pressure of the pen. The upper part of the letters "f" and "p" are comparatively short when compared to the lower loops.

Through the Looking Glass

A man who is certainly in a position to know tells us that what we've been suspecting lately is true: Women are getting fussier and fussier about the soaps they use. They experiment, shop around and are showing interest in soaps that are fine to the point of being luxurious.

To prove his point he showed us some of the soaps featured in his department in a Chicago shop. The imported soaps are very exciting. Bet you never dreamed that soaps come from so many parts of the world. France, Germany, Holland, and England are only a few of the places that produce exquisite soaps for the care of the American complexion.

You can always tell foreign preparations by their packages; they're rarely streamlined, with the exception of the modern offerings from Paris. There is an imported orange soap, for instance, all decked out in wrappings that bear the well known bright orange nestling in bright green leaves. This soap has a surprising popularity. Women adore it for its fresh, orangeadish fragrance, for its blandness and for the fact that it makes a perfectly elegant lather.

Then, from Holland, there is a buttermilk soap in the quaintest sort of wrapping. This is beloved by women with thin, dry skins who are eternally on the hunt for the mildest soap they can find. There is also an almond soap, also imported, that is used by women who take their soaps seriously. We love this one; it's rich, mild and the scent is, at least to us, just about tops. Ilma Theurer Will Be Bride of Haverkamps

Engagement Announced at Dinner Party.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. PETER S. THEURER entertained at dinner at home last night to announce the engagement of her daughter, Ilma Jane, to John L. Haverkamps III., son of Mrs. John L. Haverkamps Jr. of 3750 Lake Shore drive.

The occasion was a double celebration, for the dinner party marked also the birthday of Miss Theurer's brother, John Peter Theurer, and most of the young people who gathered in the Theurers' hospitable apartment at 232 East Walton place believed that the party was being given for Mr. Theurer rather than his sister.

With the news of the engagement it was told that Mr. Haverkamps and Miss Theurer plan to be married in the spring. Miss Theurer attended the Chicago Latin School for Girls and Mount Vernon seminary, and she is a member of the Chicago Junior league. She was away from Chicago for quite a while until a year ago, for she spent eight months in Germany, followed by a winter in California with her mother, and a summer in the east.

Mr. Haverkamps attended the Culver Military academy and Babson institute. He is engaged in business here. Young Mr. Theurer, who also is working here, was graduated two years ago from Princeton. He was a member of the Princeton Triangle club and had a featured part in the show during his senior year.

Thomas S. Tylers Plan Housewarming.

Thomas S. Tyler's birthday on Jan. 30 also will be the occasion for a party provided he and his bride, the former Fanny McPherson, are settled sufficiently in their new apartment in East Goethe street. They hope to give their housewarming that afternoon.

The R. Martin Stevensons have sent out gay little cards to a cocktail party next Sunday afternoon. They are back in their apartment at 1120 Lake Shore drive, after spending the summer and fall in Lake Forest.

Mrs. John Davis Kales and her daughter, Miss Katharine Kales, are giving a cocktail party Sunday from 4 until 7 o'clock for Mrs. Kales' other daughter, Mrs. Dewey Bradley, who is visiting them. Mrs. Bradley will return to her home in Cambridge, Mass., the end of next week.

Mrs. Horace Gray and her two sons have been visiting the Arthur Meekers since before Christmas, but it has been anything but a gay family reunion, since Mrs. Meeker, her daughter and her grandsons all have been ill with the flu. The entire family now is convalescing.

Woman's A. C. to Hold Badminton Match.

The badminton party the Woman's Athletic club gave last year is to be repeated next Tuesday night by general request, with a squash match added to the program. Harry Boakes, nationally known player and instructor at the University club, will play Dudley Pope.

The pool will be open from 5 until 7 o'clock, and cocktails will be served there preceding the numerous dinner parties that are planned for that evening. The matches begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Largest of the dinners will be that given by Miss Betty Brawley for Miss Barbara Eldridge and Edward Alden Rogers, who are to be married the following Saturday. Miss Lila Woodruff, who has worked on arrangements for the party with Mrs. H. Foster Straw, chairman of the committee in charge, and Miss Jean Armstrong will be a dinner hostess, and Miss Emily Goehst, Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., and Mrs. Robert Walker also will give parties.

Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter will entertain at dinner for 16 and afterward

Events on the Stage

The prospect for a Chicago engagement of John Gielgud in Guthrie McClintic's production of "Hamlet," now in New York, has been canceled by an extension of the Broadway run to Jan. 30. This will curtail the tour to three weeks, which will be spent in Washington, Boston, and Philadelphia. Mr. Gielgud will then return to England.

A revival of Shakespeare's "Richard II.," with Maurice Evans in the title rôle, will follow the Gielgud "Hamlet" in the St. James theater, New York. Walter Huston's production of "Othello" was a recent addition to the Broadway playbills. These two classic tragedies, with the two "Hamlets" — Gielgud's and Leslie Howard's—make the season of 1936-'37 a banner period for Shakespeare in the east.

"The Great Waltz," the operetta-spectacle which was first staged in the Center theater of Radio City, New York, will return to Chicago on Jan. 29 for eleven performances in the Auditorium, where it had a run of fifteen and one-half weeks last season. Guy Robertson continues in the rôle of Johann Strauss II. The two leading women's rôles will be sung by Lee Whitney and Ruth Altman. Other principals, retained from last year, will be Solly Ward, Sam Mann, Gladys Clark, Henry Bergman, Ralph Sanford, Stanley Harrison, and Vivien Fay.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne have selected as their vehicle for next season a play by the French dramatist, Jean Girardoux, which bears the title "Amphitryon." They will stage it for tryout performances in San Francisco and Los Angeles next June at the conclusion of their tour in "Idiot's Delight."

The opening of a second box office in the Erlanger theater for the handling of the demand for tickets to "Jane Eyre," with Katharine Hepburn as star, is a sign of the revival of stage affairs in Chicago.

Iowa Artists Given Copy of Hoosier Salon

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Indiana has long made Chicago the happy hunting ground of her favorite artists with the Hoosier salon held each winter in the Marshall Field gallery. Iowa is taking a page from Indiana's book. The current exhibit of paintings by artists of Iowa, sponsored by the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs, at the Carson Pirie Scott gallery, is giving us a generous cross-section of Iowa's art.

The exhibition is run in a mold similar to the Hoosier salon. The paintings could be interchanged with no sacrifice to either state. The paintings keep a remarkably steady average minus eccentricity and foible.

The Iowa artists apparently have their heads screwed on pretty tight and have prepared themselves by study for an intelligible attack upon the profession of painting. They use pleasant color and attractive subject matter.

Among the paintings which stand out are a study of an old stove and of a dachshund on a chair, an amusing double portrait of Grant Wood with John Steuart Curry [entitled, suitably, "Rotundities"], a weather vane and pigeons, a delightful room interior and several vigorous water colors. The water colors, by the way, are on the whole more vivacious than the oils.

A number of prizes have been awarded. The gold medal for a meritorious work in oil went to Mabel Dixon Macmullen; the gold medal for sculpture went to George A. Keller. The silver medal, given by the Dubuque Women's club for a water color, was won by Miss Margaret Tripplett.

The Iowa Artists club prize was awarded to Dan Rhodes; the Frances B. Mason prize for an Iowa landscape in oil went to Marvin Cone, who is a familiar exhibitor at our Chicago galleries; the Carol Sax Purchase prize was given to Miss Edith Sternfeld and the Carl Weeks prize for sculpture was won by Clifton Adams.

The exhibition will continue to Feb. 1 and is well worth seeing.

Mary Clubs to Hold Annual Meeting at Luncheon Tomorrow

The annual meeting of the Mary clubs will be held at a luncheon tomorrow at the Chicago Woman's club. Delegates from all the women's clubs in Chicago will attend as well as the board of directors of the Council of Social Agencies, and officers and directors of the Mary clubs.

Organized by Judge Mary Bartelme in 1914, the two Mary clubs in Evanston and Oak Park are homes for dependent and problem girls between the ages of 13 and 18. Here they are given the normalizing influence of a home and careful instruction to help them to make a place in life.

Announcement has been made of the marriage on Dec. 12 of Helen Selover Davison, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Davison of Ripon, formerly of Chicago, and the late Thomas L. Davison, to Lieut. LaForge Evans of New York. The bride was known on the stage as Renee Revere. The bridegroom is a nephew of Frank La Forge, the composer. Lieut. and Mrs. Evans will make their home in Beverly Hills, Cal.

Announcement is made of the marriage on Thanksgiving day of Miss Martha Lee Schwartz to Julian E. Kalish. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Otto Schwartz of 434 Diversey parkway.

As in the past, 70 per cent of the proceeds will be spent for orthopedic treatment here. The balance will be given to the President who will turn it over to the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation. Co-chairmen of the committee are Adlai E. Stevenson, George D. Crowley, and Col. A. A. Sprague.

Chicago Postal Telegraph company offices will display large telegraph blanks which may be signed by individuals at twenty-five cents a signature. Entire receipts will be turned over to the birthday fund and a telegram containing all of the names will be sent to the President.

Iturbi Gives New Slant to Brahms First

Noted Symphony Acquires Touch of Delicacy.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

As far as the performance of Brahms is concerned, this city regards itself as a fountainhead of wisdom and the center of the one true faith. These are not out and out delusions, for Frederick Stock's understanding of and sympathy with the Brahms idiom have resulted in the establishment of remarkably high standards of interpretation for the composer's symphonies and smaller works.

José Iturbi, long famous as a pianist and engaged now in building a reputation for himself as conductor, showed considerable courage yesterday in bringing the Brahms First symphony into town for his local debut in the latter capacity. The occasion was the sixth of the Tuesday afternooon concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Mr. Iturbi's conception of the work is so radically different from the one to which we are accustomed that it is impossible to accept it without a great deal of argument. The symphony lacked the Teutonic breadth, depth and general bigness of the Stock version, and substituted for these qualities a certain impression of care and delicacy which is not, methinks, of major importance in any movement except the third.

Care and delicacy there must be, of course, in any performance of this towering masterpiece, but they are of minor importance in comparison to the prodigious sweep of the music. This is true even of the andante, where the sweep is not so prodigious, for this fragrant song can have the feeling of roundness and fullness and fervor despite its tempo marks and dynamic signs. And the last movement could be a great deal more overwhelming than Mr. Iturbi made it before a conductor would have to face the charge of theatricalness.

Yes, there really is an opera called "The Nose." Dimitri Szostakowicz wrote it in 1928, when the Russian firebrand was only 22. The three excerpts from it which Iturbi conducted are extremely clever and imaginative and give the impression that the composer may have worked tongue in cheek during a part, at least, of his labors on the score.

He goofs the orchestra and asks it to cut capers and produce sounds for which no solemn, respectable orchestra of the pre-1928 epochs of music ever set a precedent. Among other miracles, it squeaks, groans, and buzzes.

The composer goofs the story, too, although the Gogol tale on which the libretto is based is fantastic enough on its surface to justify the grotesquerie of Szostakowicz's treatment. The story concerns a man who awoke one fine morning to find his nose gone, and details the adventures and embarrassments of his search for the missing organ.

Stephan Hero, young protégé of Mr. Iturbi, appeared as violin soloist in the Lalo Symphonie Espagnole. He has great delicacy of style and a fluent technique. An opinion as to whether his playing possesses power and bigness must be delayed until an opportunity comes along to hear him in a more powerful work.

Style Expert Puts Her Money on the Stripes

Predicts New Numbers Will Take the Town.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

No derth of snappy fresh ideas for new one piece dresses ready to wear. You can find anything from the colorful printed peasant challis, just as high fashion this month as when first presented, to some stunning trick woolens with a weave like peasant handspuns.

Beige and a darker tone combined in one of these homespuns is a knockout. The lether belt is very narrow, the sleeves are short, and the entire affair is one of severe simplicity, but a perfect model for general wear.

Two piece dresses are especially good finds because they have horizontally striped jackets. The dresses are of navy or black thin wool, with pockets, belt, and neckline outlined with rows of white stitchings; a red or green Ascot helps accent the neckline and the jackets are of black or navy contrasted with white stripes. The same giddy combine comes in brown with green and white striped jacket, but it doesn't quite achieve the dash of the blacks and navy blues.

Watch stripes take the town. All the newest dresses are riots of multicolored striping, from thin candy lines to the wider affairs, similar to awning stripes. Even crisp new blouses boast stripes, and the smartest and newest of sun suits or play suits are made of the clean, cool looking striped cottons and linens.

Among the one piece dress collections are thin wools in stunning variegated band stripes or the plain one color dress with fetching little short jacket with stripes going 'round and 'round for a change. These current showings of one and two piece dresses of thin, wearable wools are well worth a trip to town.

Fashion photograph. . . . Narrow striped two piece tailored suit to wear with fur coats or fur trimmed winter coats or with top coats of plaid or tweed mixtures. The slim skirt has side plaits and the fitted tailored jacket closes with a single button. The suit is to be found in a Chicago shop.

SYNOPSIS.

Diana Lake, just returned to London, hears from Adrian Somervell, struggling young scientist, that he has inherited the fortune of his stepmother, Rose Walsh, ex-star of the theater, who was Diana's godmother. Until shortly before her death Adrian and she had been estranged. Diana's parents are both of the theater. Diana's godfather, Nicholas Blundell, wealthy bachelor solicitor, lived in the flat below Adrian's stepmother, and managed her affairs.

INSTALMENT III.

ENGAGED.

Adrian paused, examining his spoon. "Anyhow, Blundell pointed out that Rose was old now and feeling rather lonely with no relations she hadn't quarreled with—apt, in fact, to imagine she was being slighted. He said it was her pride that had kept her from making any advances, but that if I could bring myself to take the first step it would do me no harm and give her a lot of pleasure. He suggested we go up together and take her by surprise. It was a matter of complete indifference to me, so up we went—and that began it."

"And she was glad to see you?"

"I don't quite know." Adrian studied the morsel of crumpet impaled on his fork. "I thought her a spot stiffish just at first. Later it wore off. I see now she must have liked my coming. Blundell said she could never let me see how bucked she was, because that would have been admitting she'd been in the wrong. I expect she knew my father had behaved with extraordinary decency over that divorce."

"And the alimony," Diana added, dryly. "Undoubtedly she was flattered. She was vain as a peacock, even at 65. What on earth did you three find to talk about?"

"O, this and that. Blundell soon got her in a good humor, pulling her leg and being a bit of a clown. It seemed to go down with her extremely well."

"It did." Diana nodded. "They were an odd sort of couple, all full of mutual appreciation. I've often wondered they didn't marry each other, but I daresay they were happier having their separate establishments and just hobnobbing like two old women. Do you imagine Uncle Nick put her up to leaving you her money?"

"It seems possible," Adrian spoke slowly, as though he had weighed this idea before. "He tells me he thought the world of my father, and he's shown a decided interest in my future career. Of course, he's never said anything. Well, to cut it short, I went there a fair amount. It wasn't thrilling, but with you away it was somewhere to go. It certainly never crossed my mind she hadn't a good twenty years to live, even less that I'd gone over strong enough to warant her doing this incredible thing; but there it is, she did do it, and that's that. I can't quarrel with it, can I?"

"Quarrel! I should say not. It may upset all our previous views of Aunt Rose's character, but that's a mere detail. When did you last see her?"

Her question woke him from a reverie.

"When? O, the very day she died. Sunday, a fortnight ago. Blundell and I lunched with her. She seemed perfectly well, ate a hearty meal. We left directly afterward, because Blundell was golfing, and I had a job to finish off. He dropped me at the hospital and I had no idea anything had happened till the following day. It seems when he got to his clubhouse there was a telephone message waiting for him. She'd been taken ill soon after we left—and she died about 5:30 that same afternoon. It appears she'd made this will only two days before."

"Two days!" Diana gasped. "What miraculous luck!"

"I'll say it was," he said frankly. "Blundell now tells me she seemed in a perfect fever to get it done—as though she had some sort of premonition. I don't know anything about that. It's a complete mystery to me."

"Never mind about mysteries. O, Adrian, I am so pleased! It will mean no more pinching and scraping, won't it? You can wait and choose exactly the right post. Isn't that so?"

"It does mean all that," he said in a low voice. "I've got down to my last hundred pounds, as it happens, and would have had to snatch up anything that came along; but—it means something more."

He paused, reddening till his very eyes seemed suffused. Now it was coming. Diana sat tense, steeling herself for the confession.

"Suppose," he went on awkwardly, "I were to tell you that this sort of thing can't go on?" His voice had suddenly gone dry. "You and I meeting like this, without any possibility of——." Again he floundered, mopping his brow angrily. "It's got to end," he blurted out. "You see that. Or don't you?"

She met his gaze understandingly.

"Quite, Adrian, dear. Now this has happened, you'll be wanting to get married. I quite expected it."

"Married! That's it."

He caught her up with an energy which startled her. Oblivious of the surrounding company he leaned forward to pour out a flood of words.

"I can't go on. It's got to end one way or the other. Get me? I've not the slightest reason to suppose you—but I can't bother about that now. It all shakes down to this: Are you going to have me? Are you? Tell me, quick!"

All the breath in her seemed suspended.

"Me?" she whispered incredulously. "O, Adrian! Is it me you want?"

"Who in the hell did you think it was?" he fired back at her. "My God, what other girl have I looked at but you?"

"I don't know," she laughed, dazed by the onslaught. "I thought——"

"Don't think, answer me! Will you, or have I drawn a blank?"

"I . . . O, Adrian, yes!"

Flame seemed to leap up and devour her.

"You mean it? You will? Diana! O, blast this place!"

He dragged his chair round to her side, seized her two hands in a grip of steel. No embarrassment now. Above the beating of her own heart Diana believed she could hear the clamor of his. He was a new Adrian—one she had never really known existed. She still saw him glorified, through a mist in which all her senses quivered. It was a full minute before the wonder of it subsided to the point where speech was possible.

"But I never guessed!" she whispered at last. "Tell me, when did you begin wanting me?"

"When?" He brushed the question aside as of no consequence. "How do I know? Directly I came over—or maybe before, when we were kids. Anyhow, I've died a thousand deaths."

"But why, darling?" she reproached him. "You could have so easily found out if I cared. I could never have been sure till I knew how you felt, but the money part wouldn't have mattered."

"O, wouldn't it?" he muttered.

"Certainly not," she retorted warmly. "We might have got married long before you were able to keep us both. I'm working. I like having a job. Mummy's always done her share. Why shouldn't I?"

He shook his head.

"I couldn't have let you. It's exactly because you are strong and independent that I couldn't let you slave for me."

"You mean you'd have gone back to America without ever saying a word? O, Adrian, you couldn't!"

"Why not? It would have been a cad's trick to expect you to wait for me indefinitly—and with the ocean between us. You see, much as I want certain things, my job comes first, and always will. It's only fair to tell you that, so you'll appreciate what you're letting yourself in for. Women as women don't interest me enough to make me go chasing after them."

Her eyes, dove gray, caressed his ardent ones. With a proprietary touch she straightened his new tie.

"I know one girl who'll be tearing her hair over this," she remarked irrelevantly. "Now, tell me the truth. Hasn't Bobbie Ackland been begging you to marry her?"

"Rot!" he reddened. "What gave you that notion?"

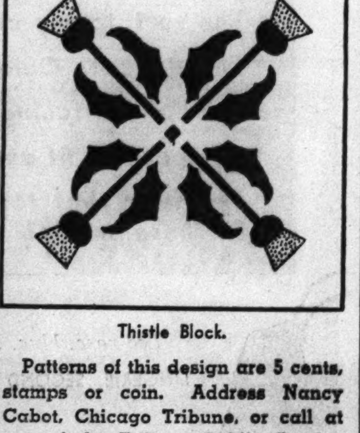
"Thistle Block" Applique Quilt from Scotland



Thistle Block.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Thistle Block" applique pattern is only one of the many things for which we have to be grateful to that little spot in the British empire. Contrary to the jokes about the "tight" Scotch, this pattern was generously passed on to our readers by a Scottish girl whose great-grandmother made a quilt from this pattern shortly after her arrival in the United States, 104 years ago. It is one of the difficult applique thistle designs, but most beautiful in a coverlet.

What to do when you have a COLD

It takes several hours, and more than one kind of medicine to get any real relief from the distressing symptoms of a cold. Your first aim should be to clear the head, dry the secretions, reduce the cold fever, and open the bowels.

You can get the necessary medicines of your druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve the discomfort of a "new" cold, take two of these little tablets; chew them up, drink some water.

Some cases may require additional treatment. If so, follow directions on the package. The relief thus afforded and the comfort it brings you are well worth the time.

GASOLINE ALLEY—OFF GOES THE NOSE

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Plotter Plans

Film Reporter Makes a Visit to Harlow Set

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—We were told we could step down on stage 7 at M-G-M studio and watch one of the scenes of "Man in Possession." The script is full of lively inferences which any audience can draw for itself, and the film features Jean Harlow and Robert Taylor, two stars whose personal appeal to the opposite sex is no longer a matter for inference.

Two heavy doors of combination wood and metal were opened to admit us. Voluptuous scents seemed to fill the entire stage. The souls of a million beautiful flowers and the luxuriant thoughts of many beautiful ladies might have been compressed in that scent.

"Some one been spraying incense all over this stage?" we innocently asked.

Director W. S. Van Dyke, a hard boiled adventurer, was motioning to his cameraman with his left hand and speaking in a slightly grating voice to some one whom he called "kid." We heard a rustle and "kid" come forward. "Kid" proved to be a vision in ruffly pink negligee with clinging sleeves and bodice and most pleasing general appearance. Our guide, totally unnecessarily, identified "kid" as Miss Harlow. Taylor stood facing her, flicking ashes from a cigaret and looking a bit bored as he bent his head from his superior height.

"Does Taylor always look that bored in scenes with Harlow?" we asked.

"Does he have a cold? Can't he smell that perfume?"

"Taylor is doing all right," we were informed. "Taylor knows when to look disinterested and nonchalant. Millions of girls go to the theater just to see Taylor, and they like him to look hard to get."

The scene was one in which Taylor, scapegrace son of a wealthy family, blunders into acquaintance with the beautiful widow whom his elder brother [Reginald Owen] is trying to marry. The brother thinks the widow has money. The widow thinks Owen has money. Jean Harlow is the widow. Bob Taylor doesn't care who has any money; he knows he hasn't and he wants to get some.

The dialog is funny and so is Jean—she shows the same flair as in "Libeled Lady" for putting her scenes over in a way which, for want of any more descriptive word, they call "Harlowesque." A certain amount of it goes with slight gestures; a stroking touch on the gentleman's arm, a slightly graceful movement of the body.

After the scene was shot to Van Dyke's satisfaction the feminine star called for the colored maid, Blanche, to fetch the luncheon tray, and went over to say a few words to Peggy McDonald, the hairdress girl. The perfume, it may be noted, was all Harlow's, but the triumph of the hair dress has to be shared with Miss McDonald, who patted the Harlow coiffure lovingly and proudly in one gesture.

Jean has discarded the fluffy light brown shade in which she was having her hair done and is back again to a shade verging on the platinum. It is a light blonde with a lot of golden glints. The hair is parted toward the left and sleek on top, tumbling in one wave to fluffy ends that cling to the lower circle of the face.

HAROLD TEEN—THE ZERO HOUR

Dalmatian Influence Apparent

JUVENILE DRESS AND APRON.

The Dalmatian influence is apparent in many of the adult fashions this season, and here it is adapted for a juvenile frock and accompanying apron. The Dalmatian style is particularly pretty for youngsters because gayety is its keynote.

Every line of this little frock is designed to flatter the awkward figures of growing children. The bodice is tightly fitted in the Basque manner, the sleeves are puffed, and the skirt has plenty of swing. The collar is the Peter Pan type, universally flattering to youngsters. Rickrack braid has a prominent rôle in this ensemble, trimming the collar, sleeves, and bodice, and providing several rows of color at the hemline. The tiny detachable apron, which may be worn with other dresses, too, also has rickrack trimming.

The original of this model is bright and attractive in gayly patterned cotton print. Plain shades also are attractive, of course. Navy blue cotton poplin with red rickrack trim and white sleeves and collar would be a pretty combination, with the apron made in white.

Style No. 3379 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 12 requires 2 yards of 35 inch material, with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting and 8½ yards of braid for the dress. The apron requires ⅝ yard of 35 inch material, with 1⅞ yards of braid.

Youngsters in Teens Unwise to Seek Altar

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When 17 and 18 get marriage notions into their heads it is enough to turn parental hair a bit gray.

Angela and her Don are the latest among a whole army of youngsters eager to plunge into matrimony. Don still is in high school. Angela is a student, too. On each side the families have all they can do to get by on their respective limited incomes. But the youngsters, at the moment of writing, at least, insist that they can make a go of it, in spite of what their parents say.

On what, Angela and Don? In school you have had enough arithmetic to be able to add up rent plus clothes plus meat plus groceries, none of which you can get along without in a marriage plan. You have learned that zero in salaries will provide you exactly zero in clothes, groceries, and the other things named.

You can even figure out what your respective parents are earning, dividing that up according to the actual necessities in each home, according to the numbers in each family to be housed, fed and clothed, and from there figure out just where you two would come in did one or other of the parental homes open up to you.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Minnie Mouse, the caroling rodent of Woodstock, was engaged yesterday for her first appearance on a commercially sponsored radio broadcast. Minnie's "guest star" appearance is scheduled for 8 p. m., Saturday, Jan. 30, as a feature of the WLS-National Barn Dance. The sponsors are reported shelling out $500 for this single appearance.

The m[o]usical is expected to bring out the S R O sign at the Eighth Street theater from which the barn dance is broadcast regularly over an NBC network. Minnie will be competing on other networks at that hour with Joe Cook, and with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. Frederick Stock.

W. W. Lichty, Woodstock veterinarian, who has been entrusted with the care of Minnie's vocal chords, reported yesterday that Minnie is in fine voice and that he expected the forthcoming performance to surpass her première [no pay] last Dec. 17.

Alex Templeton got a lot of gentle satire into his interpretation of Bing Crosby singing "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" on Richard Himber's musical variety hour Monday evening. It was almost as funny as his imaginary interview of last season between Cab Calloway and Brother Bing. His recent impression of Boake Carter singing a current hit was, however, the best of the impersonations of American headliners we have heard the talented Britisher do. But his version of Rudy Vallee isn't at all convincing.

Impersonations that are good make rather attractive listening, but those that are smudged or inaccurate are hard to bear. Such are those usually heard on the amateur hours. Among the best of the impersonators more or less regularly on the air are Sheila Barrett [she'll be on with Vallee again tomorrow night] who runs a little to caricature, and Arthur Boran, who is especially good on the various comedians. La Barrett's impression of Lionel Barrymore singing is a peach.

Bill Adams is the lad who used to do those excellent ones of President Roosevelt. He does a lot of others also on the March of Time. Announcer Charles O'Connor's voice, by the way, and his diction are much like those of Mr. Roosevelt.

Alexander Woollcott and Prof. T. V. Smith have voices so much alike that they are often mistaken one for the other when on the air. Jack Benny and Goodman Ace are sometimes confusing to listeners.

NBC, by the way, has a ruling that all impersonations must be so announced. CBS doesn't. That's why so many persons were fooled on the Hollywood Hotel show the night they gave the preview of "Born to Dance." It leaked out later that the voices of many of Hollywood's stars were simulated by impersonators.

Well known for their impersonations of radio stars in night clubs, theaters and in motion pictures are the Radio Rogues currently at the Blackstone. Our chief objection to them is that they ought to take time out and listen to the radio some evening just to bring their stuff up to date. Bing Crosby, for instance, has not used the theme song they credit him with for four years; their version of Morton Downey and Tony Wons is five years old [Wons hasn't even been on the air for a couple of seasons], their Kate Smith sequence is just as archaic and their Amos and Andy sketch lacks the stamp of reality as well as being concerned with material they abandoned years ago.

If you should hear some musical arrangements that are reminiscent of Gus Arnheim's style you might report the details to him. Other night when Arnheim and his henchmen reported for work at the Congress hotel Casino they found that their music had been stolen off the stands. Playing without music is all right for the hottest of swing musicians engaging in a jam session but Gus prefers notes. A distress call was sent out to various night clubs and studios and Henry Busse and Harold Stokes were among those who lent some of their music until Arnheim could replace his own.

The famed Forty club, to which many of the city's leading scriveners and wits belong, plans to put the proceedings of its January meeting at the Palmer house on the air next Tuesday evening. W-G-N will be the outlet.

VICTORIAN LAWS HAMPER SYPHILIS WAR IN N. IRELAND

Mention of "Loathsome Disease" Forbidden.

BY ROBERT SAYERS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 12.—Victorian prudery is today one of the greatest obstacles in Northern Ireland to a vigorous fight on syphilis, which medical men throughout the world are now demanding.

Health crusaders who attempt to press educational preventive measures find their hands tied by a relic of Victorian legislation which expressly forbids any publicly displayed reference to "loathesome disease." Under this law notices cannot be posted in public lavatories or elsewhere in an attempt to enlighten the public on the subject of syphilis. The health board of the Belfast corporation has made representations to the government to remove this ban, but thus far the effort has been unsuccessful.

Belfast Leads Fight.

Neither Northern Ireland nor the Irish Free State has a health ministry, and the problem of combating venereal disease is left to the municipalities under powers which the governments have conferred upon them. It is only in the larger centers of population that any effective preventive or remedial work is being done.

The drift of population to the cities has intensified the problem, but has made the disease one of less concern in the country areas. The two capital cities, Belfast and Dublin, have taken the lead in the fight on syphilis.

In Belfast, despite the handicap of the Victorian code, much has been done. The city authorities are empowered to spend the equivalent of $32,000 annually in combating venereal diseases. Seventy-five per cent of this outlay is refunded from the state purse. Under this scheme beds are set apart in the city's two leading hospitals for syphilis patients and the service of specialists, doctors, and nurses is provided.

Free Treatment Available.

The poorer victims are treated in the Union infirmary. Not only is free treatment provided for residents of Belfast, but persons coming in from the country areas have the same privilege. Further, any individual has the right to go to any registered practitioner, undergo examination, and have blood and other tests made without cost.

This benefit, however, is not widely taken advantage of, being little known because of the effects of the legislation curbing the spread of information.

One of the most important tasks involved in the war against venereal diseases relates to sailors arriving at the port. The city's sanitary officers board incoming ships and leave in the cabins of the captains little booklets containing full particulars as to when and where treatment can be obtained. When a patient from a ship enters a hospital he is handed what is known as a "little gray book," in which the character of his illness and the nature and degree of treatments are recorded.

Dublin Has Free Clinic.

The patient also is supplied with instructions and the means to carry on the cure. When he reaches the next port, no matter what the country, he can hand this book to the medical officer there and get the necessary attention.

In Dublin, capital of the Irish Free State, the city sponsors an effective and comprehensive plan which came into operation in 1919. A clinic and treatment center is located in one of the important hospitals, where there are special wards. There and at other centers medical supplies are obtainable without charge for treatment of social diseases.

CITY'S CLINIC TREATS 900 VENEREAL CASES IN A DAY—A RECORD

Chicago's social hygiene clinic in the police building at 11th and State streets set a new record yesterday, treating exactly 900 venereal disease patients.

Six months ago it was considered an extremely heavy day if 500 or 600 patients were treated, according to Dr. George Taylor, who is in active charge of the clinic.

"The increase in the number of persons submitting to treatment is directly traceable to the frank publicity that has been given the problem of syphilis and gonorrhea, especially by THE TRIBUNE," said Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, who is currently campaigning to increase activities of public health officers against the plague.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Build Compost Heap

January 12, 1937.

BUILDING a compost heap is regarded as one of the most important midwinter jobs by gardeners on the Tribune's Wheaton experimental farm. It is best to start the heap in the fall, but when it is necessary to save labor by spreading out the work throughout the various seasons of the year then the building of the compost heap may be delayed until December or January, according to the farm's head gardener.

There seems to be a trick to mixing the various materials in a compost heap to get the right proportion of humus and plant food elements for the various uses in gardening. Surprising results have been attained in producing flowers under the method used at the Wheaton farm.

Cost Small; Start Early.

Practically all the material needed in making the heap is found on the farm. Except for labor, the cost is small. About the first of the year the compost heap was started at the farm.

The gardeners start by raking into piles leaves from the trees and shrubs around the farmstead. Then they go into the woods and cut up chunks of bluegrass sod down to a depth of about six inches. All this material, including the grass blades and roots as well as the soil, is used.

The heap is built under a definite system. First a twelve inch layer of loose leaves is spread out on the ground. The leaves are then covered with a six inch layer of the bluegrass sod. The soil is covered with one inch of sand. Finally superphosphate is scattered evenly over the sand at the rate of one pound to each square yard. This process is repeated—a layer each of leaves, soil, sand and superphosphate—until the pile contains enough material for one season's needs.

The Wheaton farm gardeners have found that the twelve inch layer of loose leaves will be mashed down by the weight of the soil until it is about six inches thick. When the leaves are rotted this gives a mixture of about three-fourths soil and one-fourth leaves, sand, and superphosphate.

The compost heap is allowed to remain undisturbed until spring. Just before the material is needed it is turned twice so that the entire mass is thoroughly mixed.

Prefers It Not Too Rich.

The head gardener says that he likes a compost heap made in this way because it gives him a mixture that is not too rich for use in flats where seeds are to be started indoors and for potting where plants without soil around the roots are to be set. He finds that some amateur gardeners think they should use a very rich soil for starting seed and for growing young plants, but he prefers a soil that is not too rich in nitrogen and potash.

From experience he has learned that phosphate is not harmful to seeds or young plants. Then, too, he finds that superphosphate used in the compost heaps helps to "lock" up the other plant food elements.

For seed flats and pots gardeners at the farm like a compost made up of leaves, sod, sand, and superphosphate instead of manure. They have learned that manure encourages the development of fungi, which cause trouble with young plants. If no leaves are available they recommend using clover or similar legumes cut green, stacked immediately and then held for use in the compost heap.

LOYOLA RUNS UP 47-21 SCORE OVER ST. LOUIS

Mike Novak Makes 15 Points.

Loyola university scored its eleventh consecutive victory by defeating St. Louis university, 47 to 21, at Loyola last night. Holding the visitors to three field goals in the first period, the high scoring Ramblers ran up a 28 to 10 lead at the intermission. For the ninth time this season Loyola maintained its average of at least 41 points per contest.

Paced by Mike Novak, Wibs Kautz, and Ed Murray, who accounted for 32 points among them, the Loyolans never were in danger, jumping off to an early 9 to 1 lead after two minutes of play.

Co-Capt. Frank Keaney scored the first Billiken basket after the ten minute mark when Loyola was out in front, 17 to 4.

Colen Sets Up Plays.

The floor work of Marv Colen, senior guard, was one of the features of the evening, Colen setting up most of the plays for his teammates. Every man on the Rambler squad saw action.

Little Bob Bohn gave St. Louis whatever scoring punch it possessed. Four times he scored from the floor, getting two free throws in addition to lead his squad. Novak led the Loyola scoring with 15 points on four field goals and seven free throws.

It was Loyola's last game of the first semester, the Ramblers taking a two weeks' vacation before playing again against Indiana on Jan. 30.

ARLINGTON PARK BOSSES ON WAY TO SANTA ANITA

Will Seek to Find Out What Makes It Hum.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was a time when the crowds and the betting at Arlington Park were the standouts in America. In one season, a few years back, the betting at Arlington averaged $500,000 a day. Tremendous as the betting has been up to date at Santa Anita, it has not yet reached that figure.

They Came to Arlington—Then.

They still come to Arlington for ideas, but Hollywood and the movie folk with their quickly earned big money have made of Santa Anita Park the most talked about track in the country. Even this year, with the coldest and bleakest weather in a decade prevailing, business at Santa Anita has hummed as no winter track has ever hummed before.

In the Arlington Park Jocky club party traveling west last night were Warren Wright, member of the board of directors and owner of the famous Calumet Farm racing stable, and Leonard Florsheim, treasurer of the Arlington Park Jocky club.

A rumor was around several weeks ago that persons heavily interested in the Santa Anita Park track were about to complete a deal for the purchase of Arlington Park.

Denies Deal for Sale.

"No such deal is on the fire" Mr. Wright said last night before he boarded the west bound train. Charles McCulloch, chairman of the board of directors at Arlington, also said yesterday that there wasn't a hance of the Arlington Park property being sold.

"We expect to have one of the greatest meetings in the country at Arlington this year" Mr. McCulloch said.

It was also learned that John Hertz, chairman of the Arlington Park executive committee, would spend much of the time during the spring and early summer here and that he would devote much of that time to the preliminary arrangements of the Arlington Park Jocky club's annual session which no doubt again will be held during July.

Remember Him?—

Jack Broughton, Who Humanized Boxing by Introduction of First Fair Code

[This is the 23d of a series of articles on famous headliners of other years whose careers and contributions to sport have perhaps become obscured by time and the exploits of more widely publicized successors. All of them rank among the greatest in their respective fields.]

BY ARCH WARD.

JOHN JACKSON'S contribution to the growth of boxing was based on his impeccable character and a long, prosperous career which reflected credit on the sport he espoused. In choosing another of the English champions of the eighteenth century, James Figg, the first recognized title holder, has been passed by. Figg had no claim other than he was the first in the line of the ancients. Dan Mendoza, the first Jewish boxing champion, was badly beaten by Jackson.

But Jack Broughton, who held the English championship from 1734 to 1750, who began life as an obscure waterman, became one of the yeomen of the guard of the king by influence of his patron, the duke of Cumberland, who toured Europe and once offered to fight all the grenadiers of Frederick the Great of Prussia, if permitted to have "breakfast before each battle," cannot be omitted.

JACK BROUGHTON.

The oft repeated expression, a "fair standup fight," has been repeated for so many years that its origin is obscured. But Jack Broughton, by introduction of the first code of boxing rules at his Oxford street amphitheater in London, gave meaning to this immediately invented catch phrase of pugilism, "standup fight."

Umpires at Loss to Decide Rule Infractions.

Boxing bouts had been conceived as a test of physical strength and as a means for settlement of personal feuds to replace combat by sword or other weapon. Under other codes of rules, they were fair tests, but frequently the umpires were at a loss to decide if infractions of the rules had taken place. Jackson, for instance, gained mastery over Mendoza by grabbing his rival's long hair with one hand and hammering him in the face with his other.

The Lancashire code of boxing at this time permitted up and down fighting; that is, when a fighter was down, he could be held down and pummelled or kicked until unconscious. Gouging of eyes, purring, which was kicking with hobnailed boots, and blows below the waist line were not only customary, but legal.

Under this brutal system of fighting, as barbarous as the combat of Roman gladiators, and frequently decided with a finality which precluded further competition, boxing scarcely could lay claim to the name of sport. It was more akin to the duels by which the nobility decided its disputes, save that the bouts, since waged between commoners, were regarded as entertainment.

Broughton Code Lasts Until 1838.

Broughton's imprint on pugilism was far-reaching. His code, adopted on Aug. 18, 1743, for conduct of fights at his amphitheater, was not superceded until 1838, following the battle between Owen Swift and Brighton Bill. These "new rules of the ring" of 1838 eventually were supplanted by the London rules and then by the Queensbury code under which modern bouts are decided.

Here is the original Broughton code:

1. That a square of a yard be chalked in the middle of the stage, and every fresh set-to after a fall, or being parted from the rails, each second is to bring his man to the side of the square and place him opposite to the other, and till they are fairly set-to at the lines it shall not be lawful for the one to strike the other.

2. That, in order to prevent any disputes as to the time a man lies after a fall, if the second does not bring his man to the side of the square, within the space of half a minute, he shall be deemed a beaten man.

Not Beaten Until Time Expires.

3. That, in every main battle, no person whatever shall be upon the stage, except the principals and their seconds; the same rule to be observed in bye battles, except that in the latter, Mr. Broughton is allowed to be upon the stage to keep decorum, and to assist gentlemen in getting to their places; provided, always, he does not interfere in the battle, and whoever presumes to infringe these rules to be turned immediately out of the house. Everybody is to quit the stage as soon as the champions are stripped, before they set-to.

4. That no champion be deemed

Eight Boxers Entered in Tournament.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Armour Tech has entered eight boys in the Golden Gloves boxing tournaments which open in Chicago next month. The entries were submitted yesterday by Sonny Weissman, Armour coach, who has been an active supporter of the tournaments for several years.

Coach Weissman asked that his team be permitted to compete in the north section trials which open Feb. 16 at Loyola university. This request has been granted since the boys were enroled for the tournament prior to the date for the first physical examination. At this examination, which will be held next Tuesday night at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street, all boxers will be permitted to choose the sectional tournament in which they wish to compete.

The boys who are assigned to second physical examination, the date for which has not been set as yet, also will be granted this privilege. At subsequent physical examinations the boxers will be assigned arbitrarily so that the numbers competing in the four sections will be approximately balanced.

Armour Tech Lineup.

The Armour boxing team includes the following: G. L. Stober and N. F. Simeon, light heavyweights; H. A. Rothenberg, F. X. Popper, and T. B. Calhoun, middleweights; Tiny Winslow, featherweight; DeWitt Fowler, lightweight, and P. G. Moore, welterweight. Armour Tech now is holding a school tournament which will be completed within a few days and several of these contestants are expected to enroll in Golden Gloves.

Only two dates have been set for Golden Gloves examinations. Not more than five will be held, including the examination for the boxers representing the Catholic Youth organization. This examination has been set for Monday, Jan. 25, and will be held at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. All other examinations will be held at Trafton's gymnasium.

Entries for the tournament close at midnight Jan. 30. The final examination will be held a few days later and then all action will center on the sectional meets, the first of which will open on the west side on Feb. 8.

Twenty States Represented.

Four boys in each weight in the open division will qualify for the Tournament of Champions, which opens at the Chicago Stadium Feb. 22. Each of these Chicago qualifiers will receive a gold medal. They will compete against the championship teams from forty-six cities located in twenty states. While the Tournament of Champions embraces more territory than ever, the caliber of the boys who

WAKE MAIL BOX.

[Letters appearing in this column represent opinions of individuals and should in no sense be interpreted to reflect personal views of The Wake.]

DEAR WAKE: Answering Helper Gene K's Braddock-Schmeling comment: Schmeling, be he Nazi or otherwise, is a fighter. Braddock, as a fighter, is a "bum." If he had been a good fighter, why would he have been a CCC worker? The champion couldn't lay a glove on Tuffy Griffiths several years ago at the Chicago Stadium. Max Marek, Charley Retzlaff, or any of the leading heavyweights, such as they are, would knock out Braddock inside of three rounds.

If Braddock wants money, why not go out and "pick off" some of the boys who would be glad to fight him? Braddock got in on a "rain check" and his next fight probably will be his last title appearance if Louis or Schmeling ever gets into the ring with him. Cocky.

If Champion Jim Braddock prefers to fight Joe Louis before meeting Max Schmeling, I don't see why he should not be allowed to do so. America owes Max nothing. He comes over from Germany only for fight appearances and takes his purses back home with him. Let an American try to take any money out of Germany and see what happens.

I'm not pro-Nazi or anti-Nazi. I don't see how that has anything to do with it. If Braddock feels he can make more money by fighting Louis than by fighting Schmeling, I'm for letting the champion have his way. After all, these chaps are in the ring for the earnings to be derived therefrom. Braddock as champion is entitled to the prerogatives of a champion rather than edicts of politically appointed boxing commissions. Cestus.

Helper Lobb's all-time Minnesota team which he would stack against any all-time Big Ten or Notre Dame eleven looks very inadequate to me against the 1924, 1929, or 1930 Notre Dame outfits. Here is the all-time Irish squad which I'd stack against his all-time Gophers:

Ends, Conley, Kosky; tackles, Kurth, Culver; guards, Cannon, Kizer; center, Adam Walsh; quarter back, Carideo; half backs, Marchy Schwartz, Jack Elder; full back, Elmer Layden. John Maloney.

To keep that early promised date,
You're in the Dog House.

And you tread softly up the stair
You're in the Dog House.

The Lady Doth Reply.

"A man takes seven cents out of his pocket and hands it to the conductor," says Jonas P. . . . just like that. Yes, but did you ever watch a man hunt for some particular thing in his pockets?

First he grabs edge of coat, holds it out like a windbreak, hurriedly explores inner recesses and brings out his latest golf score, insurance premium notice, bill of sale for car, several well-thumped letters. It's not there. Then fiddles with things in vest pockets which contain small comb, fountain pen, special pencil, and pocket memorandum. Not there. Didn't think it was anyway. Slaps outside coat pockets resoundingly and then dives. This move yields pair of worn gloves, chewing gum, old toothpicks, two screw nails, and three soiled hankies. Not there either.

Finally, as a last resort, he elbows way into rear pants pockets, sticking foot out into aile, apologizes to stumblers-over-it as he mutters in despair, "Must have left it home in my other suit." Pockets? Huh? M. L.

BRYDSON AND MARCH BOTH SCORE 2 GOALS

Karakas Keeps Lead Among Goalies.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks scored their second National Hocky league victory in three nights as they defeated the Boston Bruins, 4 to 2, at the Boston Garden tonight. It was the Hawks' sixth victory in 23 starts. The Chicagoans play the Maroons at Montreal Thursday and the Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday before returning to meet the world champion Detroit Red Wings at the Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

After Glenn Brydson had given the Hawks a lead in the first period, Red Beattie was credited with the tying goal for Boston on a play in which the puck appeared to have bounced off the crossbar, but which the referees ruled a score. Mush March then gave the Hawks a 2 to 1 lead, which they increased with another goal by March early in the third period. Ray Getliffe brought Boston up within a goal shortly after, but Brydson counted his second goal to make the final result 4 to 2.

Karakas Still Leads Goalies.

Although he was scored on twice, Mike Karakas of the Hawks retained his place as the league's leading goalie by four goals over Dave Kerr of the New York Rangers.

A crowd of 9,000, one of the smallest of the season, saw the Bruins start off in aggressive fashion, but they were unable to click in the first five minutes. After playing a tight defensive game, the Blackhawks saw an opening and Pete Palangio carried down. He slipped inside the Boston defense and drove a hard shot that ended behind the Boston cage.

There were three Bruins handy to clear the puck, but Gordon Brydson managed to elude them and during the scuffle the puck drifted out even with the lip of the cage. As Thompson tried to brush it aside, Brydson got his stick on it and rammed it home to give the Hawks a 1 to 0 lead at 6:42.

Boston Given Goal.

About two minutes later, Cooney Weiland zigzagged through the Chicago defense and slapped a back hander that Mike Karakas kicked out. The puck bounced out to Red Beattie, who lifted a high shot that appeared to hit the crossbar of the Chicago cage and remain out. Goal Umpire Jesse Guilford, former national amateur golf champion, refused to flash the red light but the referees ruled it a goal and the score was tied at 1 all.

With five minutes remaining, Jack Portland was sent off for interference and the Hawks put on a four man power play. Johnny Gottselig carried down from the Chicago zone and passed left to Mush March inside the Boston blue line. March then drove a hard, knee high shot that Thompson was unable to handle and the Hawks led, 2 to 1.

March Scores Again.

The Bruins mobbed the Chicago zone after facing off for the third period and during the first minute of play Karakas kicked out a dozen close-up shots. The rally ended when Andy Blair got his stick on a puck that flew out of a scrimmage. He was followed down by Mush March, who accepted a pass and drove a long backhander into the Boston net from left wing, at 1:57.

This score inspired the Bruins to new heights of aggressiveness and at four minutes the Blackhawks were awarded a penalty shot when Portland drew his second penalty of the game for holding Trudell. Johnny Gottselig was elected to fire it, but his effort was a feeble one.

After a faceoff in the Chicago zone, Bill Cowley beat Larochelle to the puck, smashed it over to Ray Getliffe, in front of Karakas, and the latter rammed it inside to pull the Bruins up to 2-3, at 6:58.

At 12 minutes Seibert was banished for tripping Weiland and the Bruins tried to organize another scoring rally. They hurled five forwards into the fray, but again the Chicago defense prevented a score. The Bruins continued to press hard and at 17:28 Palangio jumped out of a scrimmage, carried down and fed a pass to Brydson, who scored on a blistering angle shot that moved the Hawks up to 4 to 2.

$3,500 HANDICAP TO OPEN HIALEAH MEETING TODAY

Australian Barrier in Use; Track to Run 46 Days.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The stakes will be high and the track will be fast for the 46 day racing meet opening tomorrow at Hialeah Park.

From the $3,500 Inaugural handicap through the $50,000 added Widener that closes the meeting, more than $400,000 will be distributed to horsemen.

Twenty-six horses have been nominated for the opening feature, with fifteen likely to start. Hal Price Headley's giant thoroughbred, Whopper, has been assigned top impost of 122 pounds for the 6 furlong dash.

Track Is Fast.

Ogden Phipps' White Cockade, hero of the 1936 Withers at Belmont Park, and Mrs. Emil Denemark's Finance are weighted at 118 pounds. Marshall Field's Hintagel, winner of the 1935 Belmont futurity, is to carry 116.

The racing strip never has been faster. The daily workouts have seen horses step six furlongs in 1:11 and work the mile in better than 1:39.

Chief interest of horsemen probably will center on the Australian barrier, a new type of gate which permits a walking start, to be used for the first time in this country in the 2 year old events.

"I believe it will make for better starting," said Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia sportsman and president of the Miami Jocky club, "and prevent young horses from breaking down through the strain imposed on a thoroughbred's legs in a flat-footed break.

Banner Season Predicted.

"Also jockies will be better educated in horsemanship and the thoroughbreds will have been taught correct post manners."

Widener predicted a banner season for the park, based on indications for a record tourist season and the results of the Tropical Park meetings.

The Coral Gables track closed a 26 day meeting today with new attendance marks and a $1,000,000 increase in pari-mutuel play over last season. It will reopen for another meeting in March at the conclusion of the Hialeah season.

Wesley Ramey Threatens to Quit Fighting

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 12.—(AP)—Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids lightweight boxer, said today he was "sick of fighting for peanuts" and is considering quitting the ring.

Ramey and his handlers have declared they could not get a crack at the title or other big matches. Critics answered that Ramey lacks gate appeal despite his ability as a boxer, advancing the theory that although he frequently makes an opponent look bad, he fails to convince the fans of his own excellence.

Cancellation of a fight here tomorrow with Bushy Graham of Utica, N. Y., because of Graham's injured hand caused Ramey to declare, "I may put away the gloves for good and turn my attention to a livelihood which will insure my future.

"If my chances for a big money fight or the title are no better than they have been in the past, I'm through," he said. "I want to find out just where I stand with the big shots in this fighting business. I am sick of fighting for peanuts and standing on the sidelines while the parade goes by."

Ramey says he has fought 137 professional bouts, winning 113 and losing 14. The others ended in no decisions or draws. He became a professional fighter in 1929 and won 30 bouts in succession. His first major victory was over Ray Miller. He is 27 years old.

Ramey's main disappointment was his failure to get a title match with Tony Canzoneri, although he met Canzoneri and defeated him in a nontitle engagement. Later Canzoneri lost to Lou Ambers.

Owner, Orienta Stable. Trainer, C. H. Knebelkamp. Went to post at 2:00. Off at 2:01½. Start good. Won easing up, place easily.

HIGH MABEL broke alertly and showing a decided liking for the sloppy going, raced FLICKERING into defeat and drew away and was being eased up at end. FLICKERING, at home in the going, was next best. STORY TIME broke slow, worked her way up and was a fast going third. ALICE HIGHLAND tired badly. HATTY had flash of early speed.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Four year olds and up which have not won since Dec. 12. Purse $700. Net value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Armour Tech Enters Eight in Golden Gloves

will box in Chicago remains an unknown quantity. This generally has been true of every season following an Olympic year, for the chance to compete in the Olympic games has been an incentive for the United States boxers to remain amateur.

Many of the outstanding American amateurs, and practically all of the boys who represented this country at Berlin last summer, either have quit boxing or have entered the professional field. This naturally gives larger opportunity for others. For this reason it is difficult to predict from which section of Golden Gloves territory will come the stars who will face the champions of New York in the ninth intercity series, which will be held at the Stadium March 24. It also means that Chicago boys will have an opportunity to win places on the intercity squad.

Thirty-two novice boxers will receive gold medals in the four Chicago novice tournaments this year. These boys will qualify for the semi-finals of the Chicago tournament which will be held in conjunction with the Tournament of Champions at the Stadium. The novice champions will be rewarded with golden gloves and the runners-up will receive silver gloves. No novice boxer, however, will be permitted to compete in the Tournament of Champions.

Large Prize List.

The champions of all Golden Gloves territory who win these titles in the finals March 5 at the Stadium will each receive a golden glove set with a diamond. The runners-up that night will receive a silver glove set with an emerald while the alternates chosen on the intercity squad will be given bronze gloves, each set with a ruby.

The out of Chicago team scoring the most points in the championship will be awarded a trophy and a similar award will be made to the Chicago team scoring the most points. For the second year the Barney Ross and Joe Louis trophies will be given to the welterweight and heavyweight, respectively, who are voted the best sportsmen in the Tournament of Champions.

Every boy who competes in Golden Gloves will receive a souvenir bronze button. If you wish to compete in the tournaments in Chicago clip the entry blank which appears daily in these columns and mail it to THE TRIBUNE. You then will receive instructions within a few days.

KRIEGER, YAROSZ FIGHT TONIGHT AS STEELE LOOKS ON

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Two top flight middleweights go on trial in tomorrow night's ten round bout in the New York Hippodrome. Solly Krieger, the Brooklyn veteran who bounced Harry Balsamo, the erstwhile battering brakeman, back into the New York subways, engages Teddy Yarosz, former middleweight king, in a match that may produce a future opponent for Champion Freddie Steele.

Steele will be at the ringside. Afterwards he will decide whether he prefers to risk his newly won crown against the winner, give Eddie [Babe] Risko of Syracuse a chance to win it back, or angle for a match with Jimmy McLarnin.

American National Basket Team Meets Northern Trust

The game between the two second place quintets, Northern Trust and American National, features tonight's Bankers league basketball card at Central Y. M. C. A. gym. Each has won four and lost one.

ITALO-AMERICAN YOUTH TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT

Wrestlers, Boxers Busy on Other Fronts.

The first annual amateur boxing tournament, sponsored by the Italo-American Youth Organization, will vie for honors tonight at the Coliseum with an amateur fight card at the 124th Field Artillery armory and a professional wrestling program at Rainbo Fronton. The Italian Civic club of La Follette park, the Duncan Y. M. C. A., and the Owl Indians will compete for team honors at the Coliseum. Frankie Noto, bantamweight; Angelo Bragalone, South Chicago heavyweight, and Joe Tazioli, Highland Park welterweight, appear the leading challengers in their classes in tonight's preliminary round. Semi-finals will be held tomorrow, with finals scheduled for Saturday.

George Dusette, Boston heavyweight, wrestles Jack Conley in the main event at the Fronton. The bout is set for one fall with a 90 minute time limit. Encounters at 30 minutes involve Bert Rubi and Rudy Kay, Frankie Talaber and Al Williams, Jerry Meeker and Mike Kilonis, and Babe Kasaboski and Denny Lentz.

Louis Angelucci, amateur welter weight, is paired with Bud Lane in a feature contest at the 124th Field Artillery. Ray Wozniak boxes Sam Lamar; Eddie Eagan opposes Jerry Lewis, and Vince Pellegrini fights Herman Vanderplow. In a wrestling bout, Elmer Lenhardt, former University of Chicago athlete, will meet John Korrin, north side light heavyweight.

Patrick Michael Barry, 224 pound fighter from Ireland, and Bernie Bowman, Chicago 220 pounder, have been signed for the six round semi-final bout, supporting the ten round headliner between Milt Aron and Joey Greb at Marigold Gardens Monday. Harold Brown, west side welterweight, and Frankie Sagillio yesterday accepted terms for a ten round contest at Marigold Gardens Jan. 25. Brown will referee one of a series of amateur combats at the Madison Athletic club Friday. Verne Patterson, south side welterweight, will encounter Clifton Foy at five rounds. . . . Mique Malloy, White City promoter, has canceled his ten round windup clash between Al Nettlow and George Dixon II., scheduled for the south side arena Friday, following word that Nettlow would be unable to appear because of recurrence of an old hand injury.

Pat Robertson, New York junior lightweight, has been substituted for Nick Peters against Jimmy La Grone at Minneapolis tomorrow. The card is featured by an exhibition bout involving Joe Louis. Peters suffered an eye injury in his losing effort with Pete Lello here Monday. . . . Frankie Battaglia, Palmyra, Wis., middleweight, is being sought to engage Gorilla Jones at Milwaukee, Jan. 29. . . . Max Chowaniec and Petit Ferrar are booked to head a card in the same city Monday. . . . Billy Treest has opened workouts for a listed engagement with Mox Zona at Majestic arena one week from tonight.

Irving Schoenwald, north side promoter, has arranged a fight card at the Covenant club tomorrow. Andy Scrivani clashes with Johnny Filazolo, and Jackie Reeds encounters Freddy Graham, both at five rounds. Bouts at four rounds bring together Carl Rosen and Ray Drake and Maxie Rubin and Demsey Barco.

MIDWEST CONFERENCE.

Parker, Kelvyn Park, and Austin went into the defeated class in the junior division of the City High School Basketball league yesterday as the races tightened in the south and west sections.

Parker lost to Calumet, 21 to 20; Kelvyn was beaten by Crane, 36 to 19, and Austin was routed by Tuley, 49 to 14.

Senn had to go overtime to shade Lake View, 27 to 26, in a north section encounter. At the end of the regular period they were deadlocked at 24 points. A free throw by Kraft in the last minute gave the decision to Senn.

Englewood crushed Morgan Park, 40 to 18, despite the efforts of McKinley, who scored six baskets and three free throws for 15 of the loser's points.

Oak Park gained second place in the Suburban league heavyweight race by defeating Waukegan, 42 to 39. It was the fourth victory in five starts for Oak Park.

In other league heavyweight contests, New Trier beat Evanston, 39 to 22, for its first victory, and Morton triumphed over Highland Park, 22 to 9.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens tightened their hold on first place in the National Hocky league's international division tonight by whipping the Detroit Red Wings, American group pace setters, 4 to 1.

He passed to Rookie George Brown for a goal midway through the period and five minutes later figured in a three man rush with Auriel Joliat and Johnny Gagnon which enabled the latter to score.

They took the lead in the first frame on Tommy Anderson's hard shot from the penalty circle, added two more by completely outplaying the Maroons in the second, and finished their goal making when Art Chapman counted on a rebound from in front of the Maroon nets. Talking It Over

RECENTLY a patron in the line of fans seeking basketball tickets at the Illinois office reached the window and asked for fifty seats. . . . "We haven't that many left for the basketball game," said the clerk. . . . The visitor explained he didn't want them for the basket game. . . . He was seeking accommodations for the football game with Notre Dame at Illinois Oct. 9. . . . This department is willing to wager modestly that Tug Wilson can outsnore any other athletic director in the National Collegiate A. A. . . . He has that old Pullman variety—clickety click, clickety click. . . . In every contract signed for a game in the Sugar Bowl it is expressly stated that no colored man be allowed to play. . . . Coach Ossie Solem, who is winding up his services at Iowa, reads a verse in the Bible every night before he retires. . . . Solem is a deacon in the Iowa City Presbyterian church. . . . A majority of leading American golf professionals feel that the new fourteen club limit will prove no hindrance to their play when the rule takes effect next Jan. 1. . . . They plan to use as many clubs as they have in the past in pre-tournament practice rounds and then select the fourteen clubs they judge best adapted to each course when the tournament proper begins. . . . Illinois Issues Leaflet in War on Crow Pests

BY BOB BECKER.

A leaflet entitled "Crow Hunts and How to Conduct Them" has been issued by the Illinois department of conservation and will be sent free to any sportsman or sportsmen's group if a request for a copy is mailed to the department at Springfield, Ill. This leaflet discusses the bombing or shooting of big roosts by department men, shotgun raids against rookeries, and also tells sportsmen of the system of decoying crows with owl or hawk decoys. It also gives instructions on the building of a crow trap.

This department has urged crow control for many years because the birds were allowed to increase year after year with no effort being made to keep down their numbers. A few years ago a well known scientist working in the state estimated that the number of crows in Illinois was beyond the "safety point" by many hundreds of thousands. Sportsmen spent little time hunting the pests and with few natural enemies to reduce the numbers it was natural to expect a huge crow population.

Hunters Move on Crows.

In recent years, however, departments of conservation and sportsmen in many states have swung into action against these enemies of song and game birds, who also do much damage to farmer's crops. Provinces in Canada now conduct crow contests to control the birds that raid the grain fields and destroy thousands of duck nests. Illinois is urging sportsmen to pick up their shotguns and go crow hunting. The department also is shooting and bombing big roosts downstate. Indiana is conducting a campaign against crows.

In the free leaflet on crow hunting published by the Illinois department of conservation, the following description of killing crows on a roost is given:

Here's One Method.

"A well arranged shotgun raid on a rookery harboring large numbers of crows is an efficacious method of crow hunting, but will not prove practical except in a real rookery, where their concentration in the trees at night renders possible the killing of large numbers by firing directly into the trees. It is found, also, that while they will rise out of the trees when fired upon, they will immediately settle back and shooting may be resumed."

This system will work on a very dark cold night . . . always the best time for one of these night raids. We are anxious to know of the location of crow roosts fairly close to Chicago and would like to hear from sportsmen who know of such roosts and the approximate number of crows in them.

It will be held on the eleventh floor of the store from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. each of the three days.

beaten, unless he fails coming up to the line in the limited time; or that his own second declares him beaten. No second is to be allowed to ask his man's adversary any questions or advise him to give out.

5. That, in bye battles, the winning man to have two-thirds of the money given, which shall be publicly divided upon the stage, notwithstanding any private agreement to the contrary.

6. That to prevent disputes, in every main battle, the principals shall, on coming on the stage, choose from among the gentlemen present two umpires, who shall absolutely decide all disputes that may arise about the battle; and if the two umpires cannot agree, the said umpires to choose a third, who is to determine it.

7. That no person is to hit his adversary when he is down, or seize him by the ham, the breeches, or any part below the waist; a man on his knees is to be reckoned down.

Broughton's rules provided for termination of a bout at request of the second. They permitted a fighter to retire before he had been seriously injured. In short, they introduced humanity into the fighting game and at that time were praised as having done more "to establish the high character of Englishmen for honor and fair play than all the eloquence of the pulpit or the senate."

Credited with Introduction of Science to Fighting.

Broughton also was credited with the introduction of science to fighting. He is supposed to have been the first to have conceived the idea of hitting and getting away before a return blow could be delivered. Bouts before his time were generally stand-to fights, give and take, with one man gradually weakening, or falling into the grasp of his rival through injury or one well placed blow.

Broughton is said by some historians to have been the first to use muffles [gloves]. Certainly the use of gloves came about this period, although their use was confined primarily to the training classes. It is certain that Broughton urged caution in teaching novices. The practice had been for beginners to learn through the excruciating experience of the whippings received in the practice ring.

At the time he won the championship in 1734, Broughton was 5 feet 11 inches tall and he weighed almost 200 pounds. Up until 1742 he was an exhibitor in the Great Booth of George Taylor. After that time he opened his own amphitheater. He invented new blows, his "stomach blow," perhaps being the forerunner of the blow to the solar plexus.

Loses Championship to Slack in 1750.

Broughton lost his championship April 10, 1750, to Slack, a butcher, who already had been beaten by George Taylor, whom Broughton had whipped prior to establishment of his own hall. Failure to train is attributed by contemporary writers for this defeat. The bout was the result of a quarrel at a race course and was waged for £200 a side, with the gate receipts going to the winner. Broughton, with the arrogance of his position, actually paid Slack ten guineas to insure his appearance. For five minutes Broughton gave Slack a merry licking, but a sudden blow between the eyes closed both, and eventually he lost.

The duke of Cumberland, Broughton's patron, is said to have lost £10,000 on the bout, and he not only refused further support to Broughton, but his amphitheater was closed. Broughton never fought again.

The duke of Cumberland, however, is presumed to have given Broughton a pension. In any event, he lived comfortably, was noted for his purchases of out-of-way things, especially in the period of George II. According to the majority of records, Broughton died on Jan. 8, 1789, at the age of 85 years. He is supposed to have left an estate of £7,000, approximately $35,000.

SNOW SUNDAY! BY COURTESY OF NORGE SKI CLUB

It Will Come by Train from Escanaba, Mich.

Snow is coming into Chicago from the north. You may have heard this before, but here is a prediction upon which you can bank to the height of a whole trainload. It is being brought in from Escanaba, Mich., so that the Norge Ski club may guarantee against postponement of its thirty-first annual ski jumping tournament, which will be held Sunday afternoon on the huge slide near Fox River Grove, Ill. This will be the nineteenth consecutive meet to be held without postponement by the Norge club.

The snow, loaded in gondola cars and protected from mild weather by a covering of straw and tarpaulin, will arrive Friday morning at Fox River Grove. Then it will be stacked in huge piles and recovered. If it is not too warm the snow will be packed on the huge Norge hill Saturday. Should the temperature be unusually high the packing will not be started until late Saturday night.

Boys Remember 1932.

The Norge club faced its severest test in defying the elements in 1932, when it rained all of Saturday night and the work of surfacing the hill with snow could not be started until Sunday morning. When the rain stopped, the temperature was 60 and 70 during the tournament, which that year featured members of the Norwegian Olympic team, in this country to compete in the international games at Lake Placid, N. Y. Spectators shed their overcoats in the balmy weather.

Nevertheless the tournament went on and the record for the Norge hill was broken nine times during that afternoon.

With the finest field ever to contest for a Norge tournament title assembled, Sunday's meet should be another of record proportions. The club has completed preparations to handle a record crowd and the distance record for the hill is expected to be lengthened by many feet.

Engen Defends Title.

Sverre Engen, present holder of the Norge title, will be here to defend that honor. Alf Engen, his brother, who is classed as the champion distance jumper in this country and holds more hill records than any other skier in the world, members of the 1936 American Olympic team, and a host of other stars will compete.

Special trains will be run to the scene by the Chicago and North Western railroad and improvements on the parking field will make it possible to accommodate hundreds of motorists.

Thousands of "NATURALLY SKINNY" Weak, Rundown, Nervous Folks Have Made This Amazing Discovery!

When They Get Kelpamalt's Natural Iodine Into Blood and Glands—Quick Results Like These Are Not Uncommon!

1. Improved Appetite.
2. Gains of 5 to 25 Pounds of Good, Solid Flesh.
3. Strengthened Nerves.
4. Sounder Sleep.
5. Ordinary Stomach Trouble Banished.
6. Clearer Skin.
7. New Strength, Energy, Endurance.

Here's new hope and encouragement for thousands of thin, tired, weak, worn-out, haggard-looking men and women whose energy and strength have been sapped by over-work and worry, who are nervous, irritable, always half-sick and ailing. Science has at last placed its finger on what is often one of the principal causes of this dangerous, rundown condition—IODINE-STARVED GLANDS. When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into flesh. The result is you stay skinny, rundown, ailing.

The most important gland—the one which actually controls body weight and strength building—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time—NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy.

To get this vital mineral in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Seedol Kelpamalt—now recognized as the world's richest source of this precious substance.

Make This Test!

Make this test with Seedol Kelpamalt. First weigh yourself and see how long you can work or how far you can walk without tiring. Then take 3 Seedol Kelpamalt Tablets with each meal for 1 week and again weigh yourself and notice how much longer you can work without tiring, how much farther you can walk. Notice how much better you feel, sleep and eat. Watch flattering extra pounds appear in place of scrawny hollows.

Money-Back Guarantee

If you are not absolutely satisfied with the results of even the first week, the trial is free and your money will be refunded. Seedol Kelpamalt costs but little to use. Your own doctor will approve this way. Try it today.

New York, Jan. 12.—United States government bonds sustained the sharpest decline today of the current downward movement with losses ranging from 1-32 to 18-32 point on a turnover of only $1,116,000, compared with sales of $1,369,000 on Monday.

Narrow and mixed price movements characterized trading in domestic corporation issues on the New York Stock exchange, while higher grade investments and South American dollar loans were firm to moderately higher. Total transactions in all bonds amounted to $16,271,000, against $15,891,000 Monday.

Rate on Bills Increases.

The decline in the treasury loans was accompanied by a further increase in the rate paid on this week's issue of $50,000,000 of treasury discount bills to 0.333 per cent, which represented the seventh consecutive week that the rate on bills has shown a small increase. Granted that the price of most of the government long-term bonds have been at abnormally high levels, the recent decline has carried considerably further than many observers had anticipated and indicates definitly, in the opinion of some traders, a generally firming in money rates.

Corporate Issues Lower.

While there were numerous strong spots throughout the list of corporate issues prices were moderately lower at the end of the day. All members of the major domestic corporate group showed small declines. Secondary rail loans were mixed, while sugar bonds continued in demand at slightly higher prices.

Gains of 2½ to 3¼ points in Utilities Power and Light issues featured otherwise quiet trading in public utility issues. Only minor changes were recorded in the usually volatile industrial convertible loans.

Further improvement was shown in most South American dollar obligations as the bonds of Brazil, Buenos Aires, Chile, and Peru recorded substantial gains. Polish government issues were also better while narrow movements ruled elsewhere in the European section.

Ashland Oil and Refining.

Investors' Guide: Could you give me some information on Ashland Oil, formerly Swiss Oil, stock?

J. V. D. H.

Answer: The Ashland Oil and Refining company, a newly formed corporation, took over the business of Swiss Oil corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary, Ashland Refining company, in a merger made effective Oct. 31, 1936. Ashland Oil and Transportation company, with 800 miles of pipe line serving 5,000 wells in eastern Kentucky, including those of the parent company, continues as a 99 per cent owned subsidiary.

The parent concern owns 1,000 producing wells in eastern Kentucky, whose net production in 1935 was 406,000 barrels of oil. A modern refining plant at Catlettsburg, Ky., near the Ohio and West Virginia lines, produces gasoline, naphthas, kerosene, furnace distillates, and ahphalt.

Net income for the first nine months of 1936 was $620,000. This was equal to 63 cents per common share on the basis of the new company's capitalization of $500,000 of 5 per cent preferred and 958,990 shares of $1 par common stock.

The predecessor [Swiss Oil] reported sales of $5,051,000 in 1931, $4,472,000 in 1932, $3,316,000 in 1933, $4,014,000 in 1934, and $4,031,000 in 1935. The predecessor had a loss of $44,000 in 1931 and net income of $203,000 in 1932, $179,000 in 1933, $281,000 in 1934, and $508,000 in 1935.

A pro forma balance sheet of the new company as of Aug. 31, 1936, showed current assets of $1,662,000, and current liabilities of $356,000.

An initial quarterly dividend of 10 cents and an extra of 10 cents a share were paid Dec. 24 on the new stock. The predecessor stock paid 35 cents in 1936, 30 cents each in 1935 and 1934, and nothing the preceding three years.

"Bid" and "Asked."

Investors' Guide: What is meant by "bid" and "asked" in bank stocks? Can they be traded daily as on security markets?—K. W.

Answer: Most bank stocks are not listed, and are comparatively inactive, though there are some trades made in shares of larger banks practically every day. They are traded in over the counter. Quotations given are of prices bid by those wishing to buy and prices asked by those wishing to sell. These quotations do not reflect actual sales, as in the case of tables summarizing transactions on stock exchanges.

COPPER BREAKS; RESTRICTION OF OUTPUT MAY END

But Other Commodities Soar to New Peaks.

A sharp break occurred in the price of copper at New York and London yesterday on unconfirmed reports that producing companies had agreed to suspend the agreement for restricting production. Various other commodities, including zinc, hides, silk, coffee, cocoa, and cottonseed oil continued to soar to new highs.

It was reported that the European restriction program on copper production, which covers 80 per cent of world output, would be lifted in an effort to stem what the trade considers a too rapid rise in the price of the metal, attributed recently to huge demand for alleged war purposes.

Export Copper Price Sags.

In New York the export price for the metal, which on Monday rose to a six-year peak of 12.72½ cents a pound, broke to 12.45 cents after the report, with speculators hit by the withdrawal of high bid prices.

Futures in London and on the commodity exchange in New York lost the greater portion of Monday's advances, when prices reached the highest levels since 1930. Copper for delivery in May closed in New York at 11.98 cents a pound, compared with 12.14 cents a pound on Monday, when gains in futures were from 0.39 to 0.56 of a cent.

The domestic price yesterday held unchanged at 12½ cents a pound, the level established on Monday, when American producers sought to align their prices with the export level, which had risen ⅜ of a cent above the domestic posting.

No Decision on Restriction.

In London a spokesman for one of the copper companies concerned said no decision had been reached concerning restriction.

The copper restriction agreement applies to production in Europe, Africa, South America, and Canada. Output of the United States is not affected.

In contrast to the drop in copper, zinc prices shot up 0.20 of a cent to 6 cents a pound, East St. Louis, the highest level since December, 1929, as heavy buying was reported. Zinc futures on the commodity exchange in New York rose 0.06 to 0.10 of a cent to new record highs, with May and July options at 6 cents a pound.

Cocoa futures touched the highest level since August, 1928, while Rio coffee and cottonseed oil were at the best prices since 1935.

COTTON UP 5 TO 15 POINTS ON HEAVY BUYING IN MARTS

Heavy buying of cotton attributed to trade interests and the far east advanced future prices 5 to 15 points in American cotton markets yesterday. Reports of continued large sales of cotton cloths and heavy consumption by mills stimulated buying. Closing trades were at the best prices of the day [a point equals 1-100 cent a pound or 5 cents per bale].

Consumption of cotton by American mills in December is estimated by the New York Cotton exchange service at 685,000 bales, compared with 626,000 bales in November and 500,000 bales in December, 1935.

Spot cotton closed 5 points higher, with New Orleans at 13.05 cents, New York, 13.10 cents; Houston, 12.70 cents, and Galveston, 12.60 cents per pound. Prices follow:

CHICAGO BANKS' ELECTIONS SHOW RECOVERY GLOW

Stockholders Keep Officers in Jobs.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Shareholders of forty-five Chicago and Cook county banks held their annual meetings yesterday and elected directors for 1937. Following the stockholders' meetings the new directors of most of the banks elected officers for the new year. Few important changes in bank personnel were made.

Stockholders heard the most favorable reports on earnings and condition in several years. At virtually every meeting the reports told of higher earnings, increasing deposits, and a rising demand for commercial credit.

Indicate Return to Normal.

The meetings were a significant indicator of the "return to normal" in the banking field. Not since the banking storm of 1933, which closed the doors of every bank in the country, have the annual meetings proved such routine affairs.

Absent was the criticism of the management which marked so many meetings in recent years. Instead stockholders voted resolutions of appreciation for their officers. The number of shareholders who attended the meetings in person was the smallest in several years and the business at hand was accomplished with dispatch.

First National Reëlects Board.

Shareholders of the First National Bank of Chicago reëlected all sitting directors and ratified a revision in the by-laws. The amendments give effect to changes resulting from the retirement of the bank's preferred stock and provide for other minor revisions.

Edwy Logan Reeves, an attorney and the oldest stockholder of the bank, presided at the First National meeting. Although neither an officer or director, Reeves has presided over the shareholders' meetings for the last twenty-five years. Proxies for 250,149 of the bank's 300,000 total shares were cast by an official, while 2,502 additional shares were voted by persons attending the meeting.

Approve Retiring RFC Stock.

At the conclusion of the meeting A. R. Groh, owner of twelve shares, moved a vote of appreciation for the management and commendation for effecting the retirement of stock held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The motion was unanimously approved.

Edward E. Brown, president, announced several promotions following a meeting of the new board of directors. The following assistant cashiers were named: James E. Hull, Glenn M. Forgan, Harold W. Lewis, and James U. Snydacker. John H. Weedon was named assistant secretary. Promotion of John H. Grier from assistant cashier to assistant vice president and John J. Feeley from assistant manager to manager of the discount department was also announced.

Two Quarterly Dividends Voted.

Directors voted two dividends of $1.50 a share each, one to be paid April 1 and the second July 1. The payments are at the rate of 6 per cent a year, the same basis on which payments have been made since last July.

At an earlier meeting of the First Trust Joint Stock Land bank all officers and directors were reëlected, Lester W. Miner was named assistant treasurer and Lawrence J. Berry was made assistant secretary.

Directors of the American National Bank and Trust company authorized a special dividend of $2 a share out of 1936 profits, payable Jan. 15 to stockholders of record Jan. 14. The regular semi-annual dividend of $2 was also voted, of which $1 will be paid Jan. 15 and $1 on April 15.

American National Elections.

All directors of the bank were reëlected at the earlier meeting of stockholders. The following new officers were elected: Charles C. Kuning, assistant vice president; Clarence C. Morgan, assistant trust officer; Samuel Bay, assistant cashier, and Fred T. Hanson, assistant cashier and manager of credit department.

Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, was elected a director of the City National Bank and Trust company at the meeting of shareholders, a position which he had given up when he was campaigning as Republican candidate for Vice President. Charles S. Davis, president of the Borg-Warner corporation, who replaced Knox last year, was continued on the board, resulting in increasing the membership from 15 to 16.

Several Promotions Announced.

D. M. Sweet was elected vice president of the bank at a meeting of the new board. He was formerly assistant vice president. L. B. McMahon was advanced from assistant vice president to cashier, a title formerly held by W. L. Burgess, who remains a vice president. Walter S. Hultgren and Marshall C. Corns were made assistant cashiers. B. A. Bowlby was elected assistant trust officer. W. E. Harrison and H. S. Irrmann were made assistant auditors. Chester L. Price was named director of publicity and advertising.

William S. Turner was advanced from assistant secretary to second vice president of the Northern Trust company at the first meeting of the new board. Hedges Macdonald was named assistant secretary and Arthur J. O'Hara was appointed manager of the investment research department. Other officers were reëlected.

Timothy W. Evans, vice president of the New York Central Lines and

Aldrich Warns Crash Lies in Wake of Boom

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—A demand that the brakes be applied to the expansion in bank credit and commodity prices was made today by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, at the annual stockholders' meeting.

W. W. ALDRICH.

Both experience and theory, Aldrich said, make it clear that unless adequate monetary controls are invoked in time recovery "can all too easily degenerate into a dangerous boom, culminating in disaster." He laid down a program of control which he deemed adequate.

Lists Control Factors.

The principles involved were: 1. Balancing of the budget; 2. Increase of member bank reserve requirements to the maximum permitted by the banking act of 1935; 3. Further reduction of excess reserves of the member banks through some reduction of the security holdings of the federal reserve banks; 4. Handling of the treasury's gold holdings derived from dollar devaluation in such a manner as not to increase member bank reserves, a transitional step toward the reintroduction in appropriate form of the gold standard; 6. Restoration of the regulatory function of the rate of interest.

Net earnings of the bank last year, Aldrich reported, totaled $17,264,566 after taxes, contrasted with $15,340,189 the year before. The sum of $5,000,000 in recoveries realized during the year, which previously had been charged off, was credited to the reserve for contingencies.

Perkins Issues Warning.

James H. Perkins, chairman of the National City bank, after enumerating the high lights of the business recovery in 1936, told stockholders of his bank "that it is the duty of the banks to do all in their power to avoid the pitfalls which increased prosperity creates."

Perkins said that as a whole the condition of banks from an asset and recovery viewpoint is better than it has been for many years. However, he cautioned that the increase in the size of the bond portfolios is an element in the present situation which must be watched with the greatest care.

Net earnings of the National City bank last year amounted to $13,243,674 after reserves but exclusive of recoveries, compared with $13,048,191 the year before. Undivided profits at the close of the year aggregated $13,462,953, a gain of $2,818,674.

Leon Fraser, newly selected president of the First National bank, was elected a director at that bank's meeting today. Fraser said 1936 operating profits of $11,388,714 were slightly higher than for 1935.

CHARGES SWIFT DISCRIMINATED IN GIVING CREDIT

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Another charge that Swift & Co. extended long periods of credit to restaurants, hotels, and institutions without granting the same terms to retailers was made today at the second session of a hearing in which the meat packing concern is answering a complaint of unfair trade practices.

Testimony given before Raymond L. Dillman, an examiner from the solicitor's office of the department of agriculture, closely paralleled the charges contained in testimony given by meat distributors on Monday. It was much broader and more inclusive, however.

The complaint, made by the secretary of agriculture, charges that Swift & Co. violated the packers and stockyards act of 1921 by making preferential credit and trade agreements.

It Seems Rice Can't Miss Re-Election by Trade Group

C. L. Rice won't be surprised if he's reëlected president of the Association of Commerce today. There is no opposition ticket. Rice is vice president of the Western Electric company. Other officers of the association are all to be reëlected, as the nominating committee made no suggestions for changes, and its nominations, members said, make today's balloting merely a formality. More than 4,000 firms will take part in the voting at the association's headquarters, 1 North La Salle street.

More Money in Circulation, So You Should Have $50.77

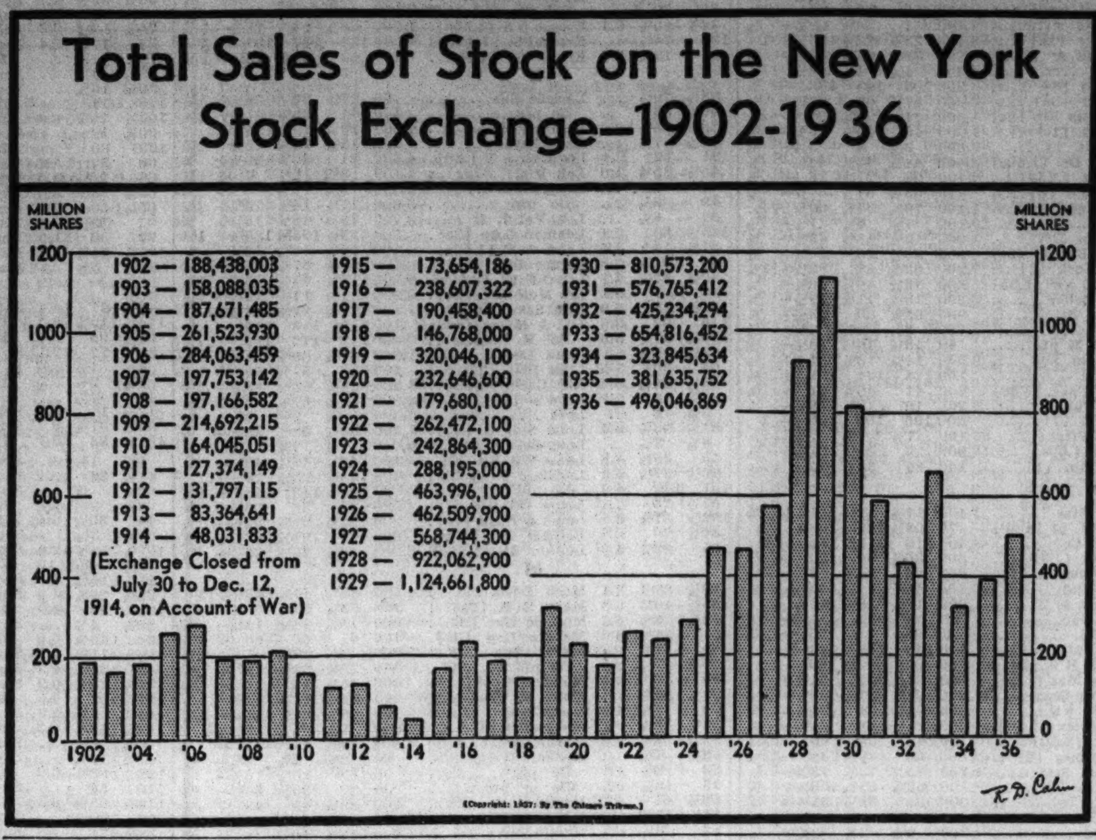
Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Money in circulation at the end of December amounted to $6,543,040,844, the treasury reported today. This was an increase of $77,407,876 over the total as of Nov. 30 and a rise of $661,514,998 over April 30, 1935. The average per capita circulation was $50.77, compared with $50.20 on Nov. 30 and $45.96 a year ago.

Berghoff Brewing Profit Nearly Doubled Last Year

Berghoff Brewing corporation had net earnings of $511,828 in the year ended Dec. 31, 1936, the company reported yesterday. This was equivalent to $1.90 a share on the common stock and compared with $259,035, or 96 cents a share, in 1935.

Paint Concern Lifts Wages, Pays Bonus of 10 Per Cent

Robertson & Co., paint and wall paper concern, announced yesterday it is paying employés a bonus of 10 per cent of wages for 1936 and that it has raised salaries 10 per cent, effective Jan. 4.



PUBLIC MORE WILLING TO BUY ON CREDIT, RETAILERS REPORT

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The public's willingness to go into debt at department stores became increasingly apparent during 1936, a survey by the National Retail Dry Goods association showed today. Approximately 9.3 per cent of the 1936 volume of such stores was handled via the instalment route as the figure spurted 33 per cent ahead of the preceding year.

Moreover, charge account sales, or thirty day accounts, rose 11.5 per cent over the preceding year. In contrast cash, C. O. D. and "will call" sales gained but 9.2 per cent. The expansion in instalment sales last year bulwarks a gain of 36 per cent shown in 1935 over 1934.

Growth of instalment selling both in 1935 and 1936 has been influenced considerably by the increase interest in home furnishing, particularly in furniture and household appliances.

The aggregate dollar volume of the stores spurted 11.8 per cent last year, while the actual number of units sold rose 4.9 per cent. This increase must be considered, it was said, in light of increases in unit transactions in the three major types of sales: 3.7 per cent in cash, C. O. D. and "will call" sales; 5.4 per cent in charge sales, and 22.3 per cent in deferred payment sales.

CARNEGIE STEEL EMPLOYE UNION DENIES COERCION

Employé representative groups of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation plants in the Chicago area announced yesterday they have retained counsel to file a petition of intervention with the National Labor Relations board, which is now conducting a hearing on a complaint filed by the steel workers' organizing committee and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America in Washington.

In the complaint filed against United States Steel corporation and Carnegie-Illinois it was charged that the plan of employé representation now in effect at these plants is company dominated and that employés and the employé representatives are coerced, intimidated and influenced by their employés.

The employé representatives assert that the charges are untrue and they are asking that the labor board "hear their story as free, independent men, financed by the employés that they represent."

LABOR BOARD HEARS CHARGE.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The national labor relations board, received testimony today that the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation dictated the policy of the employés representation plan.

William E. Garrity, an electrician at the company's Edgar Thompson works, Braddock, Pa., and an empolyé representative, testified at a hearing into charges that the steel corporation interfered with its employés' freedom to organize.

Garrity said that when the management arranged an employés' meeting "you have to go." He said he had refused to speak at one meeting but "I was told I had to speak."

Asked by a board member if he was paid for his time, Garrity said: "O, yes, I was a paid speaker."

Big Job Given to 'Young' Man by U. S. Steel

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The United States Steel corporation today took another step toward injecting new blood into its corporate veins by naming E. M. Voorhees as vice chairman of its finance committee.

Wall street circles said Voorhees, who is 45 years old, was about to be elevated to the presidency of Johns-Manville corporation, when the steel corporation dropped this new job in his lap. On April 1, he will take over the job of helping run the finances of the $2,000,000,000 steel company. With Johns-Manville for more than nine years, he was consecutively general auditor, treasurer, secretary, vice president, and director.

Follows Other "Young" Men.

Voorhees will follow to the board of the steel corporation two other "young" men, recently appointed—48 year old Leon Fraser, president of the First National bank and one-time head of the Bank for International Settlements, and 50 year old Irving S. Olds, lawyer. As vice chairman of the finance committee he will have the position vacated by Edward R. Stettinius, who on Jan. 1, 1936, moved up to the chairman's seat of the committee. The vice chairmanship has been vacant.

Although it was understood the steel corporation had been combing the field for some time for a vice chairman for its powerful finance committee, Voorhees himself refused to disclose how the job came his way or what work he would do when he moves into the corporation's offices.

Ancestors Were Farmers.

Voorhees comes of farming stock which immigrated from Holland nine generations ago and settled in Amsterdam, N. Y. He went to high school there, put in the next two years working in Boston and attending night school courses in accounting and then went to Dartmouth college, graduating in 1914.

His business career, which centered on accounting and financial work, found him connected with Johns-Manville in 1926 after a series of jobs which included a brief sojourn in the far east with the Pacific Commercial company, an exporting and importing firm. Later he was with the U. S. Rubber company, William A. Harriman & Co., and Sanderson & Porter, where he was an industrial engineer.

Gross income last year was $1,346,229, derived as follows: assessments of members, $387,250; services, $419,100; other income, $539,878. Profit from operation before a deduction of $300,000 for "additional" rent was $167,270. Assets were carried on Jan. 4 at $3,523,836, including bond investments of $2,982,258 and current assets of $295,028.

NEW YORK CITY HALVES INTEREST COST ON NEW LONG TERM FINANCING

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The City of New York succeeded today in cutting to less than half its interest cost on $50,000,000 of long term debt maturing in 1977. In a call for bids on that amount of corporate stock the city received bids of higher than par for new 3 per cent stock, the proceeds to be used to refund 6 per cent stock that matures Jan. 25. Two bids were presented for the total amount of the issue and one minor bid for a portion of the offering.

The successful one was made by a banking group headed by the National City bank. The $50,000,000 issue was awarded at 102.33 for 3 per cent bonds. The group immediately reoffered the bonds at 103½.

The second bid for the entire issue on a 3 per cent basis was made by a banking group headed by the Chase National bank, that bid being 101.86. Controler Frank J. Taylor said the issue would be New York's only financing this year other than borrowing for capital improvements. The refunding operation, he said, will save more than $1,500,000 annually.

CANADA TO ISSUE 85 MILLIONS OF REFUNDING BONDS

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—The Dominion of Canada will register with the securities and exchange commission this week two issues of bonds totaling $85,000,000, the proceeds of which will be used to redeem on March 1 an issue of $89,787,000 war loan 5s, which were floated in this country in 1917.

This financing will consist of $30,000,000 seven year bonds bearing a 2¼ per cent coupon rate and $55,000,000 of thirty year 3 per cent bonds. Morgan Stanley & Co., are expected to head the offering syndicate in this country.

The bonds to be redeemed at their maturity on March 1 were known as the third war loan. They were at one time outstanding to the amount of $172,926,800, but the amount has been reduced to less than $90,000,000 through conversion into subsequent war loans. These old 5s were made payable either in Canadian or United States funds and were distributed in a large amount in this country. Upon redemption of the 5s, the Canadian government will have outstanding only one tax free bond issue and this will come due on Dec. 1, 1937.

WIEBOLDT AGAIN HEADS COUNTY RETAIL COUNCIL

Other officers elected were: Fred P. Seymour of Horder's stationery stores, first vice president; Elmer T. Stevens of Charles A. Stevens & Co., second vice president; Carl Burgstahler of F. E. Foster & Co., treasurer, and Raymond E. Durham of Lyon & Healy, Inc., secretary.

NERVOUSNESS RULES STOCKS; CLOSE IS MIXED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 12.—Stocks moved nervously today, with losses slightly outnumbering gains at the close. A number of miscellaneous issues moved up to new highs during the session, but there were enough sharp losses to offset this advantage.

Trading was active at times. The ticker fell behind transactions on the floor on several occasions. One of these was at the beginning of the session, when considerable profit taking appeared, especially in the nonferrous metals, and another late in the day as utilities staged a rally. Total volume for the five hours amounted to 3,567,575 shares.

Coppers React Under Selling.

Following their sharp advance in the previous session copper issues encountered substantial profit taking and declined from fractions to more than 2 points as a somewhat easier market for the red metal developed abroad.

Miami and Cerro de Pasco lost more than 2 points and losses of a point or more were suffered by Anaconda, Kennecott, and Inspiration. American Smelters, Howe Sound, U. S. Smelting, and Homestake also showed recessions in the final table.

The brightest group was the power and light division, which moved forward briskly. American Foreign Power and American Power and Light were among the most active stocks in the list at higher levels. Good markets were uncovered for Consolidated Edison, Standard Gas issues, Brooklyn Union Gas, American Waterworks, United Corporation, North American and United Gas issues.

Strike Has Little Effect.

Continuance of the strike in the automobile industry exerted little effect on most of the list, but steel shares and motors could make no headway. Chrysler and General Motors erased part of their early losses, but the close found each with declines of less than a point. Fractional losses were the rule in steels.

Carrier shares receded slightly and aviations lost a little altitude after threatening to extend yesterday's recovery. Deere leaped to a new high in the farm implements. Westinghouse was boosted 3½ points and General Electric climbed a point, both reaching new highs.

Oil equities were mixed while some of the amusements came forward. Loew's and Radio were conspicuous. Sharp gains were scored by American Metals, Outlet, Champion Pipe, Scott Paper, Sears Roebuck, Crown Cork and Lima Locomotive.

MEXICO STARTS TO REFUND VAST AGRARIAN BONDS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The government's move to rehabilitate its outstanding agrarian bonds and to issue new ones, announced by Finance Minister Eduardo Suarez, was hailed today as the first serious effort to deal with a staggering problem.

The agrarian debt, which has been created through payments to landowners for properties expropriated for the use of peasants, has reached the huge total of over a half billion pesos [about $140,000,000].

While Suarez indicated clearly he was cognizant of the fact the debt was beyond the present limits of the government's resources, banking and diplomatic quarters interpreted the step as another indication of the determination of President Lazaro Cardenas to put Mexico's credit on a sound basis. Bankers said the basis of his determination was his anxiety to obtain at least 50,000,000 pesos [about $14,000,000] in loans abroad.

Chesapeake Corp. Buys 5 Million of Own Bonds

New York, Jan. 12.—[Special.]—Chesapeake corporation, one of the holding companies through which the MidAmerica corporation controls the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, bought $5,334,000 of its own bonds in 1936, it was disclosed in a statement filed with the securities and exchange commission and made public today.

25c Dividend Is Declared by New Nash Firm

Directors of the newly formed Nash-Kelvinator corporation at a meeting here yesterday declared an initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share and elected five new members to the board of directors. The dividend is payable Feb. 20 to stockholders of record Feb. 1.

C. W NASH.

The dividend rate is the same as that on the old Nash Motors company stock. Kelvinator had been on an annual basis of 50 cents.

Regarded as one of the most important consolidations since the late twenties, the union of the Nash Motors company and the Kelvinator corporation was approved last October by the directors of both concerns.

Earnings Rise Sharply.

C. W. Nash, chairman of the merged corporation and former chairman of Nash Motors, presented a report on the operations of the Nash division's fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1936, before the merger became effective, showing net profits of $1,020,707, which were the best since the $1,029,552 for 1932 and compared with a deficit of $610,227 in 1935.

There was no report on earnings from the Kelvinator division, the fiscal dates not coinciding, and no consolidated balance sheet for the two companies was presented.

Business Best on Record.

Nash and George W. Mason, president of Nash-Kelvinator, who was president of the old Kelvinator company, issued a joint statement to the effect that business of both divisions of the corporation in the final quarter of 1936 was in excess of any similar period in their history. Nash Motors production and shipments in December, according to the statement, set a new high mark for the company.

The five new directors elected at the meeting, which was held in the offices of Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway and a director of the new company, were all formerly members of the Kelvinator board, which ceased to exist when the company was absorbed by Nash under the Nash articles of incorporation.

Five New Directors Named.

They are Percy J. Ebbott, vice president of the Chase National Bank of New York; H. G. Perkins of Detroit, formerly vice president of Kelvinator; Harlan T. Pierpont, capitalist of Worcester, Mass.; Ernest Stauffen Jr., vice president of the Manufacturers' Trust Company of New York, and Merlin Wiley, attorney of Detroit. J. S. Bache of J. S. Bache & Co., New York, was not named to the new board. Mason had been elected a director on Dec. 24, the same time that he was named president.

These and the members of the former Nash board, including Nash, C. H. Bliss, J. T. Wilson, Sewell L. Avery, Sargent, H. H. Seaman, Robert F. Herrick, and Emory W. Clark, constitute the complete directorate of fourteen members to be presented to stockholders for approval at their annual meeting on Feb. 3.

THREE BIG FIRMS BOOST DIVIDEND PAYMENT RATES

Increased dividend payments were announced yesterday by the Procter & Gamble company, Signode Steel Strapping company and the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company.

Procter & Gamble directors declared 50 cents a share on common stock, placing the issue on a $2 annual basis, compared with the $1.50 rate formerly paid. They also declared an extra of 25 cents a share.

Signode Steel voted 50 cents a share on common, placing the stocks on a $2 annual basis, compared with the $1 rate previously paid. Directors also ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share on preferred stock.

An initial dividend of 40 cents a share was approved by the directors of the National-Standard company, placing the stock on a $1.60 annual basis.

Minneapolis-Honeywell declared 50 cents a share on common. Previously the company paid 37½ cents a share and an extra of 12½ cents.

Net railway operating income for the month stood at $5,027,105, compared with $4,393,696 a year ago.

Report Larger Freight Trafic.

Additional statements from railroads yesterday disclosed a sharp upturn in last week's freight loadings. On the basis of preliminary reports it was believed the total, which will be officially announced Friday by the Association of American Railroads, was about 715,000 cars, against 587,953 in the preceding week, and 615,000 in the corresponding week a year ago. TAM O'SHANTER CLUB TAKES STEP TO REORGANIZE

Carrying out a voluntary reorganization of the Tam O' Shanter Golf club, title to the 110 acres occupied by that organization in Niles township was conveyed yesterday by the Tam O' Shanter syndicate, not incorporated, to five mortgage holders in lieu of foreclosure. According to Glenn Thompson, attorney for the owners, if title is found clear the mortgage, amounting to approximately $130,000, will be canceled.

The five owners are Alta B., Edwin B., and Albert T. Belshe, Martha Belshe Travers, and Alta Bee Belshe Carroll.

In 1925 they sold the club property to a syndicate of twenty-six men comprising the Tam O' Shanter syndicate, which in turn leased it to the Tam O' Shanter Golf club. It was agreed that if default occurred the syndicate would convey the property back to the owners.

According to Thompson, a new club organization is to be formed which will buy the property again from the present owners. The club lies on both sides of Howard street, along the north branch of the Chicago river.

STRIKE MAY COST RULE OF INDUSTRY SAYS SOKOLSKY

Labor Student Tells Peril if Unions Win.

Declaring that the "spectacle in Flint is a spectacle of anarchy," George E. Sokolsky of New York, author and labor student, last night told prominent business leaders here that American business faces the crucial decision of whether it shall retain control of management or turn it over to the Committee for Industrial Organization headed by John L. Lewis.

The occasion was the thirty-fifth annual dinner meeting of the Employers' Association of Chicago in the Stevens hotel, attended by 900 executives of business interests in this area.

Sokolsky further declared that the federal and state governments have failed to cope with the strike situation.

Government Termed Failure.

"This first test of responsibility on the part of the federal government for the obligation of controling the labor relations that it has assumed has shown it to be a failure," he said.

He told the employers that they must be prepared to face the same situation that Alfred P. Sloan Jr. is facing in the General Motors strike as head of that corporation, and that a loss by General Motors in this strike would place Sloan in the position of collecting dues from the unionized workers for the union, and special assessments for strike funds that could be used against General Motors and other concerns.

Describes Checkoff Plan.

He said that it is the policy of the C. I. O. to draw up an agreement with employers of unionized plants whereby the employers agree to deduct union dues monthly from the pay envelopes of workers and turn them over directly to the union headquarters, commonly known as the checkoff.

These contracts, he averred, cannot be broken, and place the employer in the position of helping to coerce employés.

He said that the leader of the group which broke away from the American Federation of Labor to form the C. I. O. "is the most politically minded labor leader in this country and is the one man in the labor movement with presidential aspirations."

WHEAT RALLIES ON PROSPECT OF BRITISH BUYING

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Week ago.	Month ago.
Wheat	$1.34¼	$1.33⅝	$1.32¾	$1.29½
Corn	1.11½	1.10½	1.09¾	1.04¼
Oats	.53¼	.53	.52	.50⅝
Rye	1.12½	1.12¼	1.13	1.06⅝
Soy beans	1.60½	1.61	1.57¾	1.49½

The wheat and corn markets yesterday made an easy start and a strong finish. Wheat was adversely affected early by weakness in the Liverpool futures market and reports of a slow European demand for cash grain. Later, however, prices rallied 1 to 1¾ cents from the low point on buying induced by reports at Winnipeg that the British government shortly would start to accumulate a year's supply of essential food and feedstuffs as an emergency measure.

Closing trades on wheat were ⅝ cent higher to ¾ cent a bushel lower, the latter on the September delivery of corn, was bought by professional operators and by short sellers, and advanced ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel, with the old style May and July contracts at new highs for the season. Oats, rye, and soy bean futures showed little change.

Wheat Lower at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg wheat futures lost a small fraction of a cent and messages from there cast doubt on the rumored prospective action of the British government, although it was said Britain might buy 125,000,000 bushels of its estimated requirements of 250,000,000 bushels from Canada. Export sales for the day were finally estimated at 500,000 bushels. Liverpool wheat futures closed about a cent a bushel lower.

Easiness in September wheat contracts on the Chicago Board of Trade was due partly to spreading operations with the July delivery. There was also selling of wheat against purchases of corn.

Small Reserves Help Corn.

Part of the strength in corn futures was due to a bullish construction placed by the trade on the government report issued on Monday showing farm reserves of only 810,000,000 bushels, or 584,000,000 bushels less than the 1928-'32 average, and the smallest holding on Jan. 1 in more than 11 years.

The country took advantage of the upturn in corn futures yesterday, which carried the new style May contract to $1.11⅝ at the extreme, or within ⅛ cent of the highest level of the season, to sell 78,000 bushels of cash grain for deferred shipment.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today with a sale confirmed of 28,700 bags of Porto Ricos for first half February shipment at 3.90c per lb. This was unchanged from the last sale to a local refiner, but 5 points below the asked price of yesterday. Figures were irregular. After declining from early advances under heavy liquidation and hedge selling as a result of the more liberal offerings in the spot market, prices rallied near the close on renewed trade covering. No. 3 contracts closed 2 to 4 points lower with sales of 15,650 tons. In the No. 4 contract March sold off from 1.28½c to 1.18½c and closed at 1.21c, while September eased from 1.30c to 1.25c and closed at 1.29½c, with the general list from 1½ points higher to 1½ lower at the close on sales of 56,700 tons.
